Swine Industry Advances Psuedorabies-Free Pursuit

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. announced that Pennsylvania has moved one step closer to achieving pseudorabies-free status for its swine industry.

"Because of the tireless efforts of many, we have made another stride to ensure the health of our swine herds and the economic viability of a key component of Pennsylvania agriculture," Hayes said.

Pseudorabies is a viral infection of swine that primarily affects the central nervous and reproductive systems, causing loss of efficiency and production, and increased costs.

Hayes said that Pennsylvania has advanced to Stage IV (surveillance) of a five-stage process to monitor the eradication of pseudorabie from Pennsylvania's swine herds.

The designation is based on an absence of the disease in the state and a commitment to maintain stringent control measures to prevent reintroduction.

Under a National Cooperative State-Federal-Industry Eradication Program, Pennsylvania participates in an aggressive testing program for all high-risk herds, including continuous flow feed lots and herds within a two-mile radiius of previously infected herds.

Pennsylvania will be able to advance to Stage V, pseudorabies-free, in one year if the disease is not diagnosed in the state and if all other provisions of its Stage IV status continue to be met.

Today's announcement comes just one year after Secretary Hayes announced a new initiative to achieve state pseudorabies-free status, which will increase the ability of Pennsylvania producers to export pigs and ease certain testing requirements for movement of hogs within the commonwealth.

The disease poses no threat to

KIMBERTON (Chester Co.) — "The judge told us he really likes the lamb," said Greg Weitzel.

Moments before, Weitzel watched as his family helped show the yearling Suffolk ewe to champion of her breed. "He told us we should bring some more."

Wednesday evening at the Kimberton Fair, the Weitzels, including wife Melissa and son James and daughter Felicia, picked up champion of the Suffolk ewes.

Judge for the show at the Kimberton Fairgrounds was Rod Gilbert, assistant professor of animal science at Delaware Valley College, Doylestown.

Walter Ernst, Reading, won grand champion ram in the Suffolk division Wednesday evening at the fair.

In all, 25 exhibitors brought about 48 sheep to the show ring Wednesday evening. The remainder of the sheep show concludes today with about 85 head.

In the Oxford division, Jacob Garges, 17, son of Eileen and Paul Garges, Telford, swept the Oxford show with his champion ram lamb

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Kendra Reist of Lebanon on Tuesday exhibited the supreme champion dairy animal of the Lebanon Area Fair youth division dairy shows.

Her bred and owned senior 3-year-old Ken-Joda Merril Dana was selected supreme by Holstein breed judge Ray Seidel of Kutztown, from among the 4-H and FFA grand champions of the five breeds exhibited.

It was the first supreme championship for Reist, who has been exhibiting at the Lebanon Fair for several years.

Also in contention were a 4-H grand champion Guernsey, 3-year-old Liseter Farm Nobles Laura, exhibited by Andrew Ebersole of

Delmarva Broiler

ATLANTA, GA.

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was sluggish and many sellers noted unsuccesful attempts to satisfactorily clear ample offerings. Live supplies remained at least moderate; weights were mixed in a range of light to heavy. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than truckIot asking prices were 1 cent lower at 50 to 62 cents. Trade sentiment continued weak and unsettled. In the parts complex, where light and spotty sales were reported, they were usually at highly competitive levels as buyers were reluctant to book any items in excess of their limited needs and sellers were anxious to clear inventories.

ATLANTA, GA.

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, JULY 23, 1999. FEDERAL-STATE

The majority of trading in all categories was higher. The market tone was steady to firm. Demand was light as sellers increased prices in response to elevated shell egg price levels. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending July 17, 1999 were 6% more than last week, and 7% less than the same week a year ago. Shell egg supplies were generally adequate from regular sources.

OPINION

Always Inspect Equipment For Hazards

In November of 1998 a Huntingdon County farmer was working on his farm filling Ag Bag with high moisture shelled corn. Because the wet corn wasn't flowing out of the gravity wagon very well, the farmer climbed into the wagon and pushed the shelled corn out into the bagger.

On the 14th load of corn that day, the wagon began to tip over while he was pushing the corn out. Most of the corn was out of the unloading side, but about 50 to 60 bushels were lodged on the opposite side of the wagon.

"I thought the whole wagon was tipping," the farmer said, "I didn't want to be pinned under it so I tried to jump at an angle."

The edge of the wagon box hit the ground before the farmer could jump clear, catapulting him out of the wagon with unbelievable force. He rolled an additional 15 feet after slamming onto the ground.

Upon further inspection of the wagon, which he had borrowed from a neighbor, he found that the gravity box actually tipped off of the wagon chassis. The two rear brackets holding the gravity box to the chassis were not fastened, and the right front bracket had been cracked, welded, and had broken again. The left front bracket was fastened, but had bent when the wagon went over.

After this incident, the farmer said he changed and repaired the brackets on this wagon and on his own three gravity wagons. He also secured the gravity wagons to the chassis with heavy safety chains.

Luckily, the farmer was not seriously injured. He suffered a cracked pelvis, and was on crutches for two weeks, but he has since fully recovered. Luckier still was the fact that his 12 year old son who had been in the wagon just a short time before, was not injured.

This accident demonstrates that even though you are familiar with a piece of equipment, and have just recently used it, you should always inspect the equipment for potential hazards and wear.

Wagon brackets are not something that you may automatically think of as potentially hazardous if they fail, but this farmer can tell you otherwise.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Assess Corn Crop

Because of the lack of rain since late May, corn growth has stopped in many areas and in the worst areas corn fields are beginning to dry up.

Although we can do little to change the weather, we can make some management decisions now to help minimize losses and salvage as much from a bad situation as possible.

The condition and yield potential of the crop should be assessed Dairy and livestock farmers may want to collect a forage sample for moisture, forage quality, and nitrate levels. Grain farmers may want to begin identifying ways to market their crop as silage.

All farmers should be checking with their crop insurance or Farm Service Agency (FSA) representative before harvesting the crop. When leaves cease to unroll at night and the tops start to brown out, the plants are probably not going to recover. As browning of the crop continues, the forage quality will decline as the plants are using stored carbohydrates in the leaves and stalk to sustain themselves. Farmers should probably consider harvesting the corn for silage

Delaying harvest will reduce yield and quality and reduce the potential for planting a second crop. If half the leaves are dead or dying, the corn would be a good candidate for evaluating for silage harvest.

A rough estimate of wet (70 percent moisture) silage yield is about one ton per foot height of corn without ears or poorly pollinated ears This estimate may be high on very short (one to three foot tall) corn.

To Look At Small Grains For Forage

Because drought conditions across most of Pennsylvania have resulted in lower quantities of forages and grains, many livestock and dairy farmers may need additional forage for fall and spring

According to Dr Elwood Hately, Penn State professor of agronomy, winter small grains are a possible source Winter grains can be grazed in the fall and early spring without greatly affecting grain yield if they go into winter with approximately two to three inches of growth.

You should also remove cattle in the spring prior to growth stage 6 or stem elongation. When used for pasture, small grains should be planted in mid-August to early September for grazing from October to late December and again in early spring

If you are harvesting the small grain for silage, grazing should be discontinued prior to growth stage 6 in the spring. Spring oat also can be seeded in mid-August for fall grazing or silage production

To Select Small Grains For Forage

All winter grain species can be harvested for forage Winter rye traditionally has been the major small grain used for forage because it has the most winter hardiness and can be planted the latest for both erosion control and forage

Because its quality drops faster than the other small grains, you should harvest it prior to head emergence (boot stage) Other small grains can be harvested later Most are harvested near head emergence to allow earlier planting of corn

In most years, rye is ready in late April, barley in early May and wheat in early to mid-May. Seeding other winter grains with rye (rye-wheat) has helped maintain quality when rye harvest is delayed past head emergence.

Spring oat and spring barley also can be used for forage. Seed early, in mid- to late March. When planting small grains for forage, the seeding rate should be increased by 30 percent. If grazing in the fall, apply 40 to 50 pounds nitrogen per acre at planting to stimulate late summer and fall growth.

Do not delay applying spring nitrogen. Apply the required amount at green up in early spring. Early applied nitrogen can stimulate additional tillering that may contribute to dry matter production but not to grain production.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

HOW FAR CAN YOU RUN?

August 1, 1999

Background Scripture:
Genesis 27:41 to 28:22
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 121:1-8

"Why are children and youth today so much more violent than they were in our generation?" This was a question a news commentator asked of a psychologist on a television program I was watching in the aftermath of the tragedy in Littleton, Colorado. The psychologist replied that , it wasn't just the tremendous amount of violence young people watch on television or in their ghoulish computer games, but the fact that so often they never witness any serious consequences to that violence. The TV camera rarely focuses on the consequences: people maimed for life, others suffering painful death, lives ended too early, children rendered fatherless, motherless and so on.

Look at the cartoons that children watch on TV. The cartoon character is pushed off a cliff and, although experiencing some pain, he or she is not killed but gets up to go on to the next episode. Elmer Fudd opens the 'birthday present' from nemesis Bugs Bunny, and it blows up in his face. Elmer is left with a blackened face, but there is no impairment or death. Violence is thus robbed of its seriousness.

SERIOUS CONSEQUENCES

In the story of Jacob and Esau don't miss the serious consequences that follow from the antics of this dysfunctional family. When Jacob extorted Esau's birthright and then defrauded him of his dying father's blessing, he assumed that, after a bit of unpleasantness on Esau's part, he could take over as head of his deceased father's clan But, although Esau may have been a bit slow to figure things out, he was not slow to react to what Jacob had done to him. "Now Esau hated Jacob because of the blessing with which his father had blessed him, and Esau said to himself, 'The days of mourning for my father are approaching; then I will kill my brother Jacob.'" Jacob would now have to pay the price of his brother's hatred.

Their mother, Rebekah, realized this, so she plotted with Jacob to deceive his father into sending him away to stay with his uncle long enough to pick a bride from the family of Laban, her brother. So, instead of being able to stick around and enjoy the advantages that Isaac had bestowed upon him, Jacob had to flee. Although Jacob had outwitted his brother twice, these were hollow victories.

Rebekah also had to suffer the consequence of the role that she had played. She assumed Jacob would be away only for a little while and then, Esau's anger abated, he could return. But Genesis doesn't give us any reason to believe that she ever again saw her favorite son. From the text we may draw the conclusion that, by the time Jacob finally returned, she had died.

WHAT A DREAM!

So Jacob flees from his home to a far country where he will be safe. Resting for the night on his journey, Jacob has a marvelous dream of a heavenly ladder (more accurately "stairway" or "ramp") with the angels of God ascending and descending between heaven and earth. In his dream, the Lord reveals himself as the God of his father Isaac and his grandfather Abraham and repeats the promise to which he has become heir. Don't worry, Jacob, God will be with you!

Jacob, however, is not yet Israel the great patriarch and he responds to this wonderful revelation at Bethel with a childish attempt to bargain: "If God will be with me, and will keep me in this way that I will go, and will give me bread to eat and clothing to wear... of all that thou givest me, I will give the tenth to thee" (28:22). As Walter Russell Bowie comments, "A cheap prayer if there ever was one!"

God is not put off by the crudity of Jacob's declaration. He has a purpose for Jacob to fulfill so he can wait until Jacob grows up in spirit. From here on, however, Jacob would know that no matter where he might go to escape, God could not be put off nor outdistanced.

How far can you run? The answer. when God is the pursuer—never far enough.

Dairy Shrine, DMI Award Marketing Scholarships

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The scholarships sponsored by National Dairy Shrine and Dairy Management Inc. are awarded with the purpose to encourage qualified undergraduate students to pursue careers in the marketing of dairy products.

Seven finalists were chosen to receive the scholarship. Bethany Beckerink, Panama, N.Y. was chosen as the $1,000 winner. Receiving $500 are Jenny Kelsey, Canastota, N.Y., Ryan Lest, Madera, Calif., Satah Ketterl, Herndon, Kan., Andrea Dixon, Tallulah, La., Staci Griesbach, Hortonville, Wis., and Beth Eberhardt, Wonewoc, Wis.

Bethany Beckerink-($1,000)

Bethany Beckerink is a student at Virginia Tech majoring in agricultural and applied economics and is expected to graduate in May 2000. She is very active in many activities on and off campus including the Sigma Alpha Professional Agricultural Sorority where she has served as first vice president, chaplain, and fund-raising chairperson.

As a member of the 1997-98 Virginia Tech National Agri-Marketing Team, Bethany helped prepare a marketing plan for the national competition in Dallas, Texas. In 1998, Bethany served as the New York State FFA Convention awards coordinator. She is also involved on the Chautauqua County Dairy Promotion Committee and the Abbe Hill Reformed Church.

Bethany has been on Virginia Tech's Dean's List, Honor's Program, Golden Key National Honor Society and Gamma Sigma Delta Honor Society of Agriculture.

After finishing her undergraduate degree, Bethany plans to work toward a master's degree in agriculture economics/marketing. Bethany stated that the dairy industry has been an important part of her life and she will carry pride and enthusiasm for it wherever life takes her.

Jenny Kelsey-($500)

As an animal science major at Cornell University, Jenny Kelsey has been very beneficial to many organizations on campus. She has served as the fall events chairperson for the Cornell School of Agriculture and Life Sciences and was a member of the NYS Holstein Harvest Sale for the Dairy Science Club. Additionally, she has done community service with Cornell Block and Bridle Club.

Jenny had the privilege to co-author a research paper on Calf Nutrition. She has also been honored as a National Holstein Distiguished Jr. Member Semi-Finalist and has been on the Cornell University Dean's List.

Jenny has been very active in milk marketing through her roles as Madison County dairy princess and New York alternate dairy princess. Throughout her reigns she promoted and marketed milk to children and adults in New York.

Ryan Lest-($500)

Attending California Polytechnic State University, Ryan Lest is majoring in dairy science and plans to graduate fall of 1999. At college, he is involved in Los Lecheros Dairy Club, Dairy Products Enhancement Team, College Republican Club and the Golden Key National Honor Society.

Ryan interned with the California Milk Advisory Board during the school year of 1998-99. During the year, he performed a wide variety of dairy product marketing activities within the state of California.

Ryan stated that he has chosen to be involved in the dairy iindustry because he wants to be a part of California's largest and most important agricultural industry.

Sarah Ketterl-($500)

Sarah Ketterl is attending Sterling College where she is majoring in biology, chemistry and preveterinary medicine. Just recently she was accepted to Kansas State University's Veterinary Medicine program and will be starting the fall of 1999.

Sarah has been active in numerous activities at college including Pre-Health and Science Club, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Odyssey of the Mind Judge, and Sterling College Community Service.

Sarah states that as a veterinarian she will not be directly marketing milk, but she will be treating the animals and furthering the industry by enabling producers to market more efficiently.

Andrea Dixon-($500)

At Grambling State University,

"Pennsylvania's swine industry is to be commended for the hard work necessary to achieve our newly acquired Stage IV status, and I look forward to establishing Pennsylvania as pseudorabies-free in Stage V," Hayes said.

DFA Spurs Industry Support of Dairy Relief Inc., Global Hunger Relief

Today's preoccupation with producing more milk, developing new dairy products and making the bottom line work, sometimes causes us to lose sight of real needs. In February, Dairy Relief Inc. (DRI), a nonprofit organization, was formed to help alleviate world hunger by providing dairy products for humanitarian aid.

With its first major grant of $50,000 from Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) and additional support from other dairy and agricultural organizations, DRI immediately began fulfilling its mission of relief here and abroad. Its efforts included:

- Establishing a grant to the Mennonite Central Committee of Akron, Pa., for delivery of nearly 7,500 pounds of nonfat milk powder to schools on the strife-torn West Bank of Palestine;
- Delivering approximately 20,000 pounds of buttermilk powder to Global Bridges, a Texas-based charity, for shipment to needy North Koreans for bread roll production;
- Shipping more than 39,900 pounds of nonfat dry milk to Honduran hurricane victims. (This DRI donation was made possible with the assistance of the David Livingstone/K.U.R.E. Foundation.)

"We've received contributions from many sources," says Tom Townsend, a retired dairy industry executive who serves as DRI vice president and chief executive officer. "Those contributions, along with matching funds from Dairy Farmers of America, have made it possible for DRI to make product purchases and work with other humanitarian organizations to put dairy products where they are needed most."

To date, DFA has matched more than $100,000 in contributions and DRI has generated more than $260,000 for humanitarian relief.

In coming months, DRI will focus on two fronts. "We'll be assembling additional shipments of dairy products and, at the same time, we will be actively seeking new donations," Townsend says. "We plan to reach and exceed our initial fund-raising goals in order to purchase and ship dairy products to hungry and undernourished people around the world. We hope this is only the beginning."

For more information about DRI or to make a tax-deductible contribution, contact Dairy Relief Inc., P.O. Box 1837, Springfield, MO 65801-1837, or talk to your local DFA representative.

CHORE-TIME

Hog Equipment Distributor

The Next Generation of Feed Bins

ACCESS PLUS™ Hopper Access Door (Patent pending)

It's the dawning of the next generation for bulk feed storage. Chore-Time's new feed bins raise a new industry standard for excellence and value. It offers you new technology and solutions for better productivity in your operation.

• High Capacity 40° (incline angle) Roof matches the natural angle of repose of today's modern feeds. This helps maximize your usable feed storable capacity.

• HYDROSHIELD® Weather Guard directs moisture to drip off the bin's sidewall and keeps it off the bin's hopper and boot.

• ACCESS PLUS® Hopper Access Door permits easy clean out of the bin from the ground.

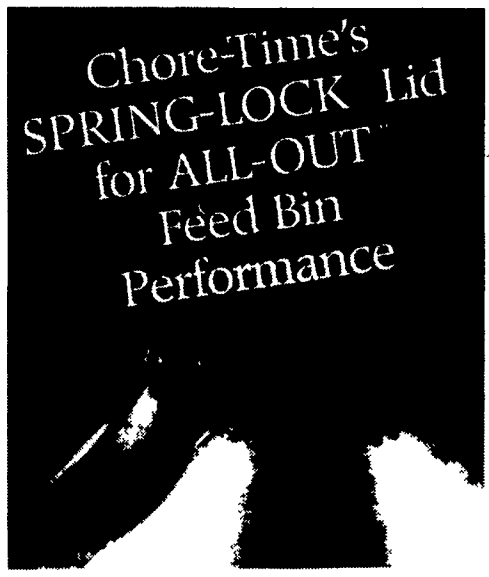
CHORE-TIME



With added biosecurity, convenience, and efficiency features, Chore-Time's ALL-OUT™ Feed Management System is more than just a feed bin. It is a system which increases feed savings and productivity. Chore-Time's optional SPRING-LOCK™ Feed Bin Lid and Opener is the newest component of the ALL-OUT® System. Contact us today for complete details!

LAST WEEK	2917	1755
LAST YEAR	2652	1965

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter steers and heifers closed .50 higher. Fed cattle trading started the week rather uneven across Lancaster County, but by midweek strength had prevailed and continued through Thursday's good offering. This summer's strong cattle market offers some solace to local farmers, who continue to struggle with hot and dry weather beating down on their corn crops. In addition, the projected bumper crop in the Midwest continues to pressure harvest-time prices. Major feedlot areas sold cattle steady at 65.00 live and 102.00-103.00 in the beef. Local Holstein steers ended mostly steady to weak. The slaughter cow market rebounded some from last week's sharp drop and closed 1.00-1.50 higher. A large offering of slaughter bulls sold weak to 1.00 lower. Supply included 48 percent slaughter steers, 5 percent slaughter heifers, 35 percent slaughter cows, 7 percent slaughter bulls, with the balance made up of feeder cattle.

SLAUGHTER STEERS: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1130-1460 lbs 64.00-68.75, few up to 71.50. Choice 2-3 1065-1500 lbs 61.75-66.25, late mostly 63.00-66.00; few high dressing 1-2 up to 67.50. PASA Producer-Only Farmers' Market Debuts

MILLHEIM (Centre Co.) — The outdoor plaza at the historic Broad Street Market in Harrisburg was the site for the grand opening of a new producer-only farmers' market established by Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) in conjunction with Broad Street Market.

The recent kickoff event was opened by Mark Bradford, president of Broad Street Market, who introduced the assembled dignitaries — Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes, PASA Executive Director Tim Bowser, State Senator Jeff Piccola, and State Rep. Ron Buxton.

"Economic viability is a crucial component of sustainable agriculture," noted Bowser. "In today's uncertain farm economy, more farmers are exploring opportunities to add value to their products. Producer-only markets are one such value-added strategy that allows producers to keep more of the consumer dollar in their pocket."

Bowser went on to add that community involvement is an important aspect of sustainable agriculture.

"The support of local farmers by the community of Harrisburg is critical to markets such as this. Make Friday 'Bring Your Cooler to Work Day' and take some of the highest quality produces, meats, and baked goods anywhere home to your family," said Bowser.

Standing front of a Pennsylvania Produce - Simply Delicious banner, Secretary Hayes reminded those in attendance of the importance of supporting Pennsylvania farmers and the impact of the "Simply Delicious" Program. "Our men and women involved in agriculture work hard to bring the highest quality, safest food supply to your table. Markets such as Broad Street allow consumers to show their support for Pennsylvania agriculture by buying fresh produce grown only a few miles away. This market is the first in the state to make a commitment to both the farmers and consumers that the produce you are buying was grown on farms in this region. PASA is to be commended for that."

PASA formed the farmers' market at Broad Street Market to test their new producer-only guidelines. The PASA guidelines stipulate that producers may only sell products grown or produced themselves.

PASA has undertaken this program to provide assurance to the consumer that they are indeed buying directly from the farm and to safeguard producers from competing with cheap produce brought in from other parts of the country or world. After the guidelines are tested, evaluated, and revised at the end of this season, PASA and participating producers hope to encourage more farmers' markets in Pennsylvania to adopt these guidelines.

For more information on PASA's Producer-Only Guidelines, contact Kristen Markley at (814) 349-9856.

Planning Around Drought Conditions, Again!

Virginia Ishler
Penn State
Dept. Of Dairy
And Animal Science

It seems every summer the Northeast is dealing with extremely hot weather and minimal amounts of rain. The best most producers can hope for is thundershowers that hit at strategic times.

This "hit and miss" type of precipitation leaves the crops in some areas in pretty good shape and others in fairly poor condition.

Now is the time to evaluate inventories on first- and second-cutting haycrops and the condition of the corn standing in the field.

Based on an individual farm's outlook, planning for this winter's feeding program is none too early. To take control over what "mother nature" dishes out requires thinking and planning ahead.

• The grain futures right now are predicting relatively low corn and soybeans prices. If forage inventory appears questionable, using all corn for silage and possibly soybeans for silage can be an alternative. Purchasing grains is usually much easier than buying silage.

• Purchasing hay is another alternative. If forage inventories are questionable, now is the time to look at what hay prices are doing and possibly locking in hay for a period of time. The U.S. hay inventory was reported on May 1 by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to be up 14 percent from the previous year. The U.S. average hay prices for the middle of May were down 11 percent from last year. In the Northeast, New York and Pennsylvania have rebounded from near record low inventories from last year with reported increases of 26 percent and 62 percent, respectively. Supplies and prices for both locally grown hay and Western hay could make this a viable option to help extend forage inventories.

• There are more and more producers specializing in a certain aspect of dairying, such as heifer raising and crop farming. These producers offer an opportunity to sell various silages, hays, and even total mixed rations. If these specialized producers are in close proximity to an individual's farm, they can provide feed that is reasonably priced. Options available include buying the crop right out of the field and ensiling it or having the feed delivered on a regular basis. Three days is about the limit for storing silage outside of the silo without much heating occurring. This could be extended by a day during the colder winter months.

• During times of forage shortages, rations can be adjusted to include more high-roughage feeds such as straw, or including more by-products into the ration. It is critical to work with a nutritionist during this time to ensure a proper balance of particle size and fiber and nonfiber carbohydrates.

There are many resources available to start checking into what options are viable. A nutritionist, consultant, and extension agent can help evaluate what alternatives may work for an individual.

Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science web page http://www-das.cas.psu.edu/den/ has several new publications to help answer questions. One of the new fact sheets, "Drought-Related Issues In Dairy Cattle Nutrition," can be found under the forage section of the web site.

GAINPRO gives your replacement heifers better growth, performance and profitability on any high-fiber diet.

- GAINPRO is now approved for non-lactating dairy heifers
- Works in all types of pasture or drylot conditions
- Improves gain on silage, haylage and pasture grasses
- Makes least-cost rations, even poor quality pasture grasses, payoff in heifer gain
- It's safe to cattle, and unlike ionophores, is non-toxic to horses
- Available as range cubes, top dress pellets, feed supplements, complete feeds or mineral formulations

Jersey Show Set For August 16

LIBERTY (Tioga Co.) — The stage is set for the 14th annual Northeast District Jersey Show at the Tioga County Fairgrounds in Whitneyville, on Monday, August 16.

To be judged by Chuck Luchsinger, classes for the event include all typical calf and cow classes as well as a class for senior yearlings in milk and a production class for animals who have produced 100,000 pounds of milk or 4,000 pounds of fat. A premier exhibitor and premier breeder for the show will also be named.

Once again, the Noble family will present a premier performance award in memory of Tommy G. Noble. The award will be given at the end of the show and will be based on 50-percent milk production, and 50-percent on class placing.

To be eligible for the premier performance award, please submit the animal's name, registration number, birth date, sire, dam, owner's name on a piece of plain paper and send it to Paul Moyer, RR1 Box 88A, Roaring Branch, PA 17765.

The entry deadline is August 9, 1999. Entries postmarked after that date will be subject to a $15 per head late fee.

Animals may enter the fairgrounds after 10 p.m. on Saturday, August 14.

To be admitted to the show, animals must be free from signs of clinical illness or contagious or infectious diseases and must be presented with an official health certificate upon entering the fairgrounds. Vaccinations required include IBR, PI3, and BVD.

Animals that have not been vaccinated against BVD during the previous 12 months must receive one dose of modified live virus vaccine given at least 15 days and not more than 180 days before the show.

Ayrshire/Brown Swiss Quiz Bowl Holstein Foundation Sponsors

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — This year the National Ayrshire and Brown Swiss associations held a joint convention in Ellicott City, Maryland. The National Ayrshire/Brown Swiss Dairy Quiz Bowl competition was held in conjunction with the convention. Five junior teams and eight senior teams competed for top honors.

In the junior division, Florida took home those honors. Team members included captain Hannah Huggins, Brady Revels, Tressie Brown and Bryan Rees. The winning team was coached by Mary Sowerby. Maryland #2's junior team members were captain Catherine Perdue, Robert Doody, and Suzanne Perdue from Maryland and William Coleman of Missouri. They were coached by John Perdue.

After a close competition in the senior division, the Brunettes were named the senior Ayrshire/Brown Swiss Quiz Bowl champions. Team members of the Brunettes were captain Sarah VanOrden of New York, Katrina Olson of Minnesota, Travis Taylor of Texas and Tarn Mower of Washington. The Blondes' team included captain J.R. Fisher of Texas, Terri Lawton of Massachusetts, Kylie Quesnel of Vermont and Kelsey Olson of Minnesota.

The contest kicked off on Wednesday, July 14 with a written exam to determine the seating of the teams. The exam was followed by a single elimination competition.

NFU Pleased With Divestiture Requirements For Merger

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Farmers Union (NFU) said it was pleased with the Justice Department's (DOJ) decision to not allow a merger between grain giants Cargill, Inc. and Continental Grain Company to proceed as originally proposed.

DOJ announced it would require divestitures in various states in order for the merger to win regulatory approval. NFU has voiced strong concerns about the merger since it ws announced last November.

"We commend the Justice Department's recognition that this merger, as originally proposed, would have gone too far," said NFU President Leland Swenson. "The department's careful consideration of the merger and its impact on farm income sends a strong signal to the industry that they can't just go into the countryside and buy up markets. It is important to know that the administration is watching the situation in rural America and won't stand idly by when farmers face anti-competitive prices."

Swenson added that NFU will continue to press the administration to closely examine the greater trend of concentration in agriculture. A recent wave of mergers across all sectors of the industry has greatly reduced competition in many markets.

NFU said the DOJ's decision will help maintain competition in the major grain and livestock producing regions of the Midwest. There had been concerns that Continental would use the merger as a springboard into livestock production in those areas. NFU is also pleased that divestitures will be required of facilities on key Illinois River ports that serve as delivery points for settlement of futures contracts.

Under the deal, Cargill will be required to make divestitures in the Pacific Northwest, central California, the Texas Gulf, and Chicago and to restrict ownership of facilities in several areas of the Midwest.

"We will carefully monitor the affected regions to ensure markets remain fair and competitive," said Swenson.

Details of the proposed settlement will be published in the Federal Register to solicit public comment, which will be reviewed by the judge overseeing the deal.

Beef Producers Should Take Steps To Deal With Drought

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Many areas of Pennsylvania are experiencing drought or near-drought conditions. While dry conditions can make humans uncomfortable, they can pose a more serious threat to livestock on farms.

"Beef herds can be severely affected by drought at this time of year," said John Comerford, associate professor of animal science in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "Beef producers need to consider certain management practices during periods of drought and short feed supply."

Comerford offers the following suggestions for producers concerned about the impact of drought of their animals and their farm profitability.

• Be sure plenty of fresh water is available to the herd at all times.

• Be sure there are enough bulls available to service the cow herd. "Droughts can hamper a herd's reproductive management because of the combination of high temperatures and lack of rainfall during the prime breeding season for spring-calving cows," Comerford said. "In fact, it wouldn't hurt if there were a few extra bulls on hand."

Yearling bulls could become overtaxed with more than 15 cows in the breeding group under drought conditions, he said. "The figure rises to 25 cows for a two-year-old bull and 30 to 35 cows for a mature bull." Semen content and quality can be affected by this kind of weather, which may mean extended calving seasons and delayed rebreeding.

• Provide correct mineral supplementation for the cow herd. "Salt, calcium and phosphorus will be most important," Comerford said.

• Consider weaning the oldest calves immediately. "Weaning calves takes the pressure off of depleted pastures," Comerford said. About 1 pound of soybean meal-equivalent protein supplement will be needed for calves of this age. Cows with weaned calves also will need energy and a little protein at this time. "Their lactation is about over, but they need energy to cycle in time to be rebred next year," Comerford said.

"Determine the amount of energy supplement needed by the availability of pasture or the energy value of stored forages," Comerford said. "Corn is relatively cheap right now as a source of energy for both cows and calves. Supplementing poor quality forages with corn may not be the most economical feed for cows whose calves have been weaned, or for calves that have no pasture available." Calves can be removed from the pasture, but will need about 1 percent of their body weight daily of a grain mix plus hay to maintain comparable growth rates to nursing cows on pasture.

• Check the cow herd for pregnancy 60 to 75 days after the breeding season to determine how severely the weather affected breeding "It's possible that fewer cows than normal will be bred, so you'll have to decide early whether to winter non-productive cows" Comerford said

• When it does rain, rotate the cows on the pastures as much as possible to take advantage of available grass.

Simmental Sale Offers 47 Lots

FREDERICK, Md. — The Tri-State Select Simmental Sale, hosted by the Maryland Simmental Association, was conducted here April 10.

The sale offered 47 lots from breeders representing the states of Maryland, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania.

There were 17 open heifers sold which yielded a $1,092 average. In addition, bred cows/heifers, cow calf pairs, and bulls were sold.

Messick Farms of Middleton, Pa., purchased the high-selling Triple L "Black Zena" heifer that was consigned by Larry Hughes of New Oxford, which sold for $3,000. Simme Valley Ranch of Groton, N.Y., consigned the second highest selling lot which was purchased by Tony McNutt of Street, Md., for $2,850. Other lots offered in the sale were AI sired by ER Big Sky 545B, Black Irish Kansas, BH Right Time 520E and Black Mick. Stagg Cattle Company of Mt. Pleasant, Texas purchased the top-selling cow/calf.

For the past two years Rick Smithson of White Hall, Md., has managed the Tri-State Select Simmental Sale. Both old and new buyers alike have been excited about the increased number of quality animals which offered nationally recognized Simmental genetics.

Credit for the improvements in the sale should go primarily to Smithson and his management style. He has decreased the number of lots and implemented a new selection process in which he hand-selects the cattle. He focuses on cattle that are structurally sound that offer above-average EPDs and pedigrees. Cattle are selected to meet the needs of both the commercial and purebred breeder.

This year Steve Sellers of McDonough, Ga., was on hand to work the crowd and take bids. Sellers is a nationally known sales representative and photographer for The Register, the official publication of the American Simmental Association. The sale also utilized the servies of R. Bruce Van Meter of Impact Marketing and Management, Inc. of Rome, Ga. As a sale consultant, Van Meter placed bids for out-of-state buyers.

Also offered for sale to the highest bidder were five #1 embryos that were donated by Triple C Farms of Wisconsin. The proceeds of these sales will be used to help finance the 99 AJSA Eastern Regional Classic being held in Timonium, Md. June 30-July 3. The highest selling embryo was purchased by Hackberry Hill Farm of Pylesville, Md. for $575.

In addition to the $2,000 in cash prizes offered at the Maryland Simmental Breeders Cup held in conjunction with the Eastern National Livestock Show (Sept. 23-26) junior exhibitors who purchased heifers at the sale are eligible for additional cash awards at their County Fair, the Eastern Regional Classic, Maryland State Fair, and the Keystone International Livestock Expo. Several of the show heifer prospects, sold in the sale, are also nominated for the Pennsylvania Simmental Capitol Futurity in October.

The 2000 Tri-State Select Simmental Sale will be at the Frederick County Maryland Fair Grounds on Saturday, April 8, 2000.

Inquiries concerning upcoming Maryland Simmental related events should contact Rick Smithson, (410) 452-5243.

Eastern Shore Thresherman Show Aug. 6-8

DENTON, Md. — The Eastern Shore Threshermen and Collectors Association Inc. will be holding its 39th annual Wheat Threshing, Steam and Gas Engine Show Aug. 6-8 at its showgrounds located on Rt. 313 between Denton and Federalsburg, Md. The show features free admission and free parking.

Besides the main attraction of wheat threshing, there will be shingle sawing, sawing with a miniature sawmill, and rock crushing. There will be steam engines, antique tractors, gasoline engines, antique cars, and steam models in operation.

A daily parade of all equipment will be 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 4 p.m. Sunday.

Kids of all ages will be able to ride "Smokey Joe," a miniature steam train which is a replica of the Civil War era "General" locomotive.

There will be something for everyone in the large flea market with more than 125 dealers.

Spectators won't want to miss our "Evolution of Threshing," which will demonstrate how threshing grain evolved from using the flail to the modern day combine, Saturday at 2 p.m.

"The Country Troubadours" will provide a free country music show on Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. Saturday evening "The Country Diamonds" will be playing at 7:30. Sunday evening will feature "The Rescue Team" with country/gospel music at 5 p.m.

There will be plenty of good food with fried chicken platters, crab cakes, hamburgers, and hot dogs.

Exhibitors of antique equipment are welcome. There is no charge to exhibit. All times are subject to weather conditions.

Drought Shortages Stretching Forages

QUESTION: What can we do to stretch forage supplies since our farm is in an extreme drought area?

ANSWER: Finding alternative sources of forage for a dairy herd takes some planning and preparation. Now is the time to address the needs of the dairy animals on the farm until feed harvesting season next year.

Step one is to estimate the total feed inventory that you will have on hand going into the fall and winter.

Next examine the total feed needs for the current and projected number of animals in that same period. Most dairymen already know what these figures are, by needs of the past.

For those that do not, Penn State Extension can provide worksheets and assistance in establishing this estimate.

The focus of this column will be on the milk cows only and some feeds and concerns that have cropped up in similar circumstances over the past few years in at least some parts of Pennsylvania.

Corn silage shortage can be overcome most effectively and safely by purchase agreements with growers of shelled corn.

With grain prices at levels as low as they are, the dollars generated from selling corn silage may be greater than that of the grain.

As an example, silage yields of 20-ton per acre and a selling price os $25 per ton would gross $500 per acre.

The same acres at yields of 120 bushels grain per acre would have to sold at $4.16 per bushel to gross the same.

Yields of 150 bushels per acre would gross out the same, at $3.33 per bushel.

The question of how dry grain harvesting and drying compares to silage chopping and transport needs to be answered farm to farm.

Low grain prices currently make this look like a possible option for both the dairyman and the grain grower. Those plans and agreements need to be initiated now.

Hay crop shortages can be addressed by contracting hay from areas where weather risk is minimized with irrigation. If this is to be your plan, then do so early enough to lock in quality at the best possible price.

Another reason to start this plan immediately is the concern with your designed feeding management.

You need to aske questions concerning your current equipment and your capabilities of handling a feed in a much different form.

Can your equipment process long hay adequately?

Will more dry feeds in the diet encourage or allow separation?

If so, what changes would avoid this?

Depending on how you answer these, you may want to start feed changes now and avoid complete restructuring of your feed management once normal feed sources are exhausted.

Feeding these types of feed should carry this caution: Effective fiber is needed to maintain proper rumen function.

These feeds, although high in nuetral detergent fiber (NDF), are not high in scratch value that keeps cows healthy in the gut.

When using these feeds as a replacement for some of the forage we need to adjust some of the starch grains or we will compromise rumen health. Cows that drop significantly in butterfat percent will tell us that this is happening.

Straw is one forgotten alternative to forage shortages. When forage supply is low and we change diets to include more grain or byproducts in the following months, straw can supply the needed long fiber to maintain milk production and component makeup.

The nice thing about straw is that we can process it very uniformly.

This reduces sorting and does a good job of stimulating rumen activity.

The addition of liquid molasses to straw can go a long way in minimizing our feeding woes during times of inadequate forage supply.

There are things that we can do to stretch normal forage supplies.

Our priority should always remain focused on diets that are rumen healthy. This is the time to seek some outside help to solve current forage supply dilemmas.

Extension service, nutrition advisors, and veterinarians can help plan to overcome this problem.

Look to the cows as changes to feeding management is necessary. They are the only ones that we need to please.

Last Year's Reserve Champion Exhibitor Shows 1999 Lebanon Beef Champion

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — You could call this Lebanon Fair Beef Show an "all-out" competition for Heather Fuls.

Right away, beef show judge Brian Hrutkay, Bentleyville, Washington County, commented on the improvements the exhibitors made to animals shown compared to last year, when Hrutkay also judged the show.

Hrutkay enjoyed the muscling and best overall finish of Heather's Angus/Maine Anjou steer, naming it supreme in the market show Tuesday afternoon at the Lebanon Fairgrounds.

Heather, 19, is the daughter of Kevin and Karen Fuls, Richland. The Conrad Weiser High School Graduate said she purchased the steer from Sunrise Club Calves, Shippenville, and would sell it at the fair.

Heather said she attends the Keystone International Livestock Expo and state Farm Show.

Kyle Fleener, 15, son of Tim and Sarah Fleener, Robesonia, won reserve overall market steer champion with a Maine Anjou/Angus crossbred steer, "Scooby Do," named after a favorite cartoon TV character. Scooby Do, at 1,122 pounds, was named medium weight champion.

Kyle, a sophomore at Eastern Lebanon County High School, also won supreme champion heifer for what the judge considered a "smooth-sided" animal. The champion was a Shorthorn junior yearling.

Kyle said he has won other champions in recent years at Lebanon Fair.

Bidirectional Tractor Wins AE50 Award

NEW HOLLAND, (Lancaster Co.) – New Holland's Model TV140 Bidirectional™ tractor has been recognized as a 1999 AE50 Award Winner.

The annual award, presented by ASAE, The Society for Engineering in Agricultural, Food and Biological Systems, recognizes 50 products that best advance engineering for the food and agriculture industries.

The four other innovative New Holland products which also received a 1999 AE50 Award include the Model 365W windrow pickup attachment, CropPro™ crop processor attachment for pull-type forage harvesters, LM430 telehandler and Super Boom™ Lx985 skid steer.

New Holland's TV140 is a unique tractor that can be operated engine-end or cab-end first to provide maximum versatility, productivity and exceptional loader performance. The 105-hp machine features a PTO and 3-point hitch at both ends for double capacity to mow, till, plant, cultivate, spray or push and pull mowers simultaneously. The exclusive Turnabout™ console rotates the seat and primary controls 180 degrees so the operator always faces his or her work.

The extra-wide Model 365W windrow pickup attachment for New Holland FX self-propelled forage harvesters picks up two windrows at once. Lateral float control enables the unit to follow field contours for cleaner pickup without operator assistance.

The Crop Pro™ crop processor attachment chops and processes corn silage in one operation with a pull-type harvester. This system eliminates the time and expense of using a stationary roller mill. The processor can be bypassed by removing one baffle to enable an operator to switch from haylage to processing and back again without removing the processor.

The LM430 telehandler is a new materials handler for the agricultural market. If features a two-section telescoping boom that extends to 22 feet for improved reach and lift when moving bales, rehandling crops, handling pallets and bulk bags of fertilizer, as well as trailer/vehicle loading.

The Lx985 is New Holland's largest and strongest skid steer with a 2,800 pound rated operating load capacity. It features a vertical lift linkage, long wheelbase and low center of gravity, and a high ground speed (12.1 mph.)

Companies from around the world submit entries to the annual AE50 competition. The award winners are chosen by a panel of international engineering experts. The award program emphasizes the role of new products and systems in bringing advanced technology to the marketplace to help farmers, food processors and equipment manufacturers cut costs, enhance quality and increase profits.

Are Best Available Feeds Used?

GEORGE F. W. HAENLIEN
Retired Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — I have received many requests to continue writing my free monthly "Dairy Management" column.

So, although I am now retired, I offer this article, true to the definition of Cooperative Extension: taking recent research results and putting them into practical recommendations for better profitability—in this case, on the dairy farm.

When I travel through various parts of this great country or abroad in other countries (as I had the privilege in recent years, including Europe, North Africa, South America, East Asia), I see how dairy farmers use different kinds of feeds in the production of milk.

Last year I was working with dairy farmers in Romania, a scenic country with rich, black soils, fertile mountain pastures, good climate and industrious people, but their economy struggles barely above bankruptcy.

Most Romanian farmers have little or no money to buy any kind of concentrate to achieve better than bare basic 20 pounds milk/day production from their cows.

During much of the winter they feed grass hay, often mediocre in quality, and corn stalks, and not much else, but a few pounds of wheat bran and/or some turnips now and then.

Therefore, many of these dairy farms produce no more than 8,000 pounds milk/cow/year-a level of production some of our older folks remember from United States cows in the 1950s. Since then we really have progressed to unheard-of levels here.

For the first time, the average of all DHIA herds in Delaware this year is above 20,000 pounds milk/cow/year, while the non-DHIA herds achieve about 15,000 pounds milk/cow/year.

This indicates directly and indirectly where this great progress comes from:

(1) DHIA record keeping aids progress,

(2) DHIA herds use better genetic resources for progress, and

(3) DHIA herds use better feeding management, than non-DHIA herds.

In Romania the same strategies were proposed: establish a DHIA system, improve use of A.I. superior genetics and create an Extension Service for telling farmers how to do a better feeding management job.

There is no DHIA in Romania, never was and they are envious of our U.S. DHIA.

While there is A.I., it is used little; it costs money and farmers have little or no money. Instead, they use a neighbor's bull for free, more or less.

Nor does Romania have an Extension Service, and they are envious of our U.S. system.

Still, they do have a few dairy farms with successful breeding and feeding management that equal our best.

I know a few that have cows producing above 20,000 pounds milk. They are mostly larger farms with several hundred cows, mainly Holsteins from U.S. sires, but they are scheduled to be dismantled into small farms in the near future in the process of privatization of state farms.

Many of these farms, even larger ones, still milk their cows by hand, 20 cows per person, mostly by women!

What are they feeding these herds?

For one thing, a lot of corn silage after taking off sweet corn ears, grass hay, red clover hay, sunflower oil meal, turnips, bran, barley, corn, molasses, urea. They

Andrea Dixon is majoring in marketing and computer information systems and plans to graduate in the spring of 2000. Andrea has been president of the American Marketing Association, treasurer of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority and a member of the GSU Intramural Activities Committee.

Andrea's interest in dairy product marketing stems from her agricultural background of growing up on her parents' farm. She stated that milk marketing demands special attention and she plans to work hard to promote the use of milk and milk products.

Staci Griesbach-($500)

As an animal science and agricultural journalism major at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Staci Griesbach is involved in numerous activities.

She is the public relations officer for the Association of Women in Agriculture, co-chairperson for the "Committee at-Large" for the Wisconsin Singers, co-chairperson for Junior Show Day and recruiter for the College of Ag and Life Sciences. Additionally, she is an active member of the National Agri-Marketing Association, the Saddle and Sirloin Club, and is a singer in the Wisconsin Singers Group.

Currently, Staci is an intern for the Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board and enjoys working with the local markets, fluid and cheese communications and especially the dairy producers themselves. In 1998, she was an intern for the International Marketing Division of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection and developed skills in exporting and importing Wisconsin dairy products.

Beth Eberhardt-($500)

Beth Eberhardt is currently a senior at the University of Wisconsin-River Falls where she is majoring in agriculture marketing communications with a minor in food science. She plans to graduate in the fall of 1999.

During the summer of 1998, Beth had the opportunity to successfully coordinate the first-ever Wisconsin State Fair "Moo Booth." The experience has given Beth increased insight of why she chose to pursue an agricultural marketing communications major. She learned a great deal from the experience, particularly that consumers are not highly educated on the dairy industry and that it leaves a large door open for her future in marketing dairy products.

Swine Grand Champion Proves That Four Years Of Showing Worth The Wait

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — A Lebanon Fair Swine Show championship was only four years in the making for Richland resident Justin Fuls.

So it was only a matter of time for Justin, 16, son of Kevin and Karen Fuls, Richland, to claim the title.

On Monday Henry Halloway, show judge, knew Justin's 262-pound Hampshire/Yorkshire crossbred gilt would be the champ of the show ring. As crossbred champion, Halloway liked the gilt's leanness, soundness, a gilt that was "heavily muscled, with a big old rib, one that looks like she'll grow very fast," he told the exhibitors and those who watched the show.

Halloway said he looks for market hogs to be sound, with "a lot of rib and body value, and a big chest," he said, when picking a champion. Body value, Halloway noted, was key. If the hogs are wide, deep in the rib, and square, they can grow real fast and can fend off problems with diseases, he said.

When Halloway picked Justin's hog out of the heavyweight class 26 for overall, in competition with other breed winners that day, he noted that the hog is sound and "will be impressive when it goes to the rail," Halloway said. "It will be very lean."

Justin, a junior at Conrad Weiser High School and nine-year member of the Lebanon County 4-H, said he obtained the gilt from Donny Sheiss in Indiana. This is Justin's first champion at the fair. He was showing market steers at the fair, also, and he attends state Farm Show.

This is only the fourth year Justin has been showing pigs. Justin noted that he walks the gilt about five laps or a quarter of a mile every day, when he can. Justin attributes the championship to genetic selection and care.

Reserve overall went to the crossbred reserve champion shown by Kurt Fleener, 9, son of Tim and Sarah Fleener, Robesonia.

Kurt, in the fifth grade at Port Zeller, is in his first year of 4-H.

The reserve heavyweight, a 250-pound crossbred from class 22, was nicknamed "Salt," said Fleener, "because my other hog is named 'Pepper.'"

Halloway, show judge, liked the hog when he picked the gilt reserve crossbred because, he said, of its "powerful front end and its ability to get out with a smooth, easy stride." As overall champion, the gilt had a "free, easy stride, and would make a lean and heavily muscled carcass," said the judge.

There were a total of 85 exhibitors and 146 hogs. The show ring was located in the rabbit show area, similar to last year, to make room in the swine building for additional hogs. One show organizer said that the contest represented "one of the highest amount of pigs we've ever had."

AMERICA'S HEALTH KICK

DFA To Delay Vote

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) announced this week that it will wait until the August 6 deadline set by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) to cast its vote on federal market order reform.

"The Board decided to wait to cast our ballot in hopes that we can pass legislation to implement a more favorable pricing system," said DFA President and Chief Executive Officer Gary Hanman.

"We are making every effort to encourage Congress to change the Orders or to delay the referendum as has been requested by the National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF). The only thing we can say for sure right now is that we will vote and we will continue to work for improvements in the system."

According to DFA Board Chairman Herman Brubaker, voting in the 10 Federal orders in which DFA has membership has been delegated to DFA's 15-member executive committee and DFA staff.

"In view of potential changes in Federal order reform that could come about as a result of legislative initiatives, the board decided to delegate their voting responsibility," said Brubaker.

"This vote puts dairy farmers between a rock and a hard place," Brubaker continued. "Producers are forced to choose between two 'bad' options — living with regulations we have not supported during the rulemaking process or not having any Federal milk marketing orders at all."

DFA is continuing to urge passage of HR 1402, introduced by Congressman Roy Blunt (R-MO), and passed by the House Agriculture Committee early in July. The bill preserves the USDA decision to reduce milk marketing orders from 31 to 11, and restores major provisions dropped by the Secretary of Agriculture that maintain income to dairy farmers across the country.

Dairy Farmers of America is a dairy marketing cooperative that markets milk for 25,000 dairy farmer members in 45 states. DFA supplies milk to bottling and manufacturing plants that produce a complete line of dairy products and food components for consumers in the U.S. and around the world.

F.O.4 June Weighted Price $13.23

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Middle Atlantic Order Acting Market Administrator David Z. Walker recently announced a June 1999 weighted average milk price of $13.23 per hundredweight.

The weighted average differential price was $1.90 per hundredweight and the producer nonfat milk solids (NFMS) price was 63 cents per pound.

The weighted average price was up 59 cents from May but was 89 cents lower than a year earlier. The producer NFMS price was up 3 cents from last June.

The nonfat milk solids price, applicable to handler payments, was 63.60 cents per pound for the month, up 2.92 cents from last year.

The gross value of June producer milk, adjusted to 3.5 percent butterfat was $73.4 million, compared to $75.3 million a year ago.

Mr. Walker said that producer receipts totaled 561.1 million pounds during June, an increase of 22.4 million pounds from last June and the average daily delivery of 3,719 pounds per producer decreased 19 pounds or 0.5 percent from a year earlier.

A total of 5,029 producers supplied Order 4 handlers during the month, an increase of 226 from a year ago.

Class I producer milk totaled 205.3 million pounds and was down 8.2 million pounds, or 3.9 percent, from last June.

Class I milk accounted for 36.59 percent of total producer milk receipts during the month, compared with 39.64 percent in June 1998.

The average NFMS test of producer milk was 8.64 percent, up from 8.61 percent the previous year. The average butterfat test of producer milk was 3.58 percent, unchanged from last June.

Middle Atlantic Order pool handlers reported Class I in-area milk sales of 174 million pounds during June, a decrease of .8 percent from a year earlier, after adjustment to eliminate variation due to calendar composition.

Do You Need Emergency Feed?

As a Cover crop, Green Spirit Italian Ryegrass blend from Barenbrug has yielded more and higher quality forage than Rye and Triticale, in trials in PA and MD

Tired of the way rye heads out and loses its quality so fast in spring? Would you like to have a rye that becomes denser and leafier after cutting/grazing instead of becoming stemmy? Would you like to have a ryelage that tests 26% protein with RFV of 175? (200 RFV at grazing height.) Try Barenbrug Green Spirit Italian Ryegrass blend!

Also works great no tilled into Alfalfa fields in fall for very high quality balage or hay next spring. Does not head out till approx. 2-3 weeks later than orchardgrass with much higher quality.

Can also be mixed with oats, rye or Triticale etc. 1 BU to 25 lbs. Green Spirit. Under ideal conditions Ryegrass can be grazed in 6 weeks.

Seed ryegrass at 35-45 lbs. an acre, from Aug. until mid-Oct. in Lancaster Co. PA.

More and more research proves the added value of annual or Italian ryegrass over small grains. Research being done by Don Schwarz in Keedysville, Maryland shows the advantage of annual and Italian ryegrass over Triticale.

Quality

The quality of ryegrass is better than any small grain. It shows that 30 inch tall Green Spirit has a higher quality (TDN and NEL) than 30 inch tall rye.

- ✔ Extremely high feed value (RFV as high as 200!)
- ✔ Higher feed-value and better palatability will increase animal performance
- ✔ Higher dry matter yields per acre
- ✔ Later maturity, makes less seed-heads
- ✔ Builds more organic matter, thus higher yields of crops to follow
- ✔ Roots are finer and denser making it plow better in the spring
- ✔ Superior regrowth after cutting or grazing
- ✔ When planted early can be grazed the same fall after planting

Maryland DHIA Report For June

The June Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd based on Energy Corrected Milk (ECM). ECM combines milk production and components.

The ECM formula is: (7.2 x lbs. protein) + (12.95 x lbs. fat) + (.327 x lbs. milk). To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of ECM per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test. Also listed are the top ten herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top seven herds for Ayrshires.

Are Best Available Feeds Used?

also pasture cows on grass land and corn stubble fields.

The better farms use TMR, while computer feeding so far is not known.

Surprisingly, nobody uses soybeans or their oil meal, although years ago soybeans were grown in that country. There is not money privately or statewide for import of soybean oil meal.

Traveling in other parts of the world makes it obvious that the road to progress is via better feeds and better feeding management, although there are always alternative feeds with good nutrient contents and/or better profitability.

Of course, we older farmers remember using fodder beets and turnips until laborwise they became too expensive. But many other alternatives often have good price tags for some seasons, while they can add substantially to the bottom line.

In Delaware over the years, if you were lucky enough to be located near one of the many vegetable-processing plants, it was economical to feed some of the by-products, such as pea-vines, lima bean vines, string bean seconds and carrot wastes.

In some areas, potato chips, tomato or cider pomace, distillery grains, and even chocolate and cookie seconds are fed to cows when the price is right.

In Germany, we made silage from pea vines, sugar beet tops and cooked potato seconds, and our cows milked well from these.

Recently, in central Mexico, I saw Holsteins being fed broccoli leftovers in large amounts. So by-products can be valuable, popular and profitable on the dairy farm.

A recent survey by dairy scientists at the University of Missouri covering 28 states in five sections of the country – Northeast, Southeast, Midwest, Northwest, Southwest – produced some very interesting data (Journal of Dairy Science 82 (1999) :445-451).

For example: What is the percentage use, high and low, of some by-products in the daily dairy ration at some time of the year on a dry matter basis?

Whole cottonseed 14-11 percent; cottonseed hulls 21-5 percent; soybean hulls 16-11 percent; dry beet pulp 14-5 percent; dry citrus pulp 18-10 percent; potato culls 30-13 percent; sunflower seed 9-8 percent; sweet corn waste 25-20 percent; molasses 6-3 percent; wheat by-products 20-11 percent; fresh brewers grain 20-10 percent; fresh distillers grain 20-8 percent; sorghum grain 31-19 percent; corn grain 45-35 percent; wheat grain 20-15 percent; barley grain 25-16 percent.

This range of date indicates how far is it safe to feed some of these by-products, especially when they have a high water content, or when their readily fermentable carbohydrate contents could cause digestive upsets.

For example, barley grain and all wheat products is held below 25 percent, while corn grain is more slowly degradable and can be fed at higher levels safely. It is also known that molasses fed at more than 9 percent of ration

Brandywine Conservancy Preserves Farmland

CHADDS FORD (Delaware Co.) — Dick Breckbill has farming in his blood. Long before he could legally drive a car, he operated farm machinery to spread manure on his father's dairy farm in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

Today, decades later, he recalls that first responsibility as a key initiation into farming.

Dick Breckbill is now gradually turning over the reins of Breck-A-Dee Farm located in Chester County to his three sons. Together, the four men tend to the family's 130 dairy cows and Breckbill's three grandchildren feed the calves, among other chores.

Farms such as Breck-A-Dee make Chester County the second most productive agricultural county in Pennsylvania behind Lancaster County. In addition to producing food and other products, agriculture contributes significantly to the state's economic infrastructure. Less apparent but equally important, agricultural land is open space, which provides environmental benefits such as recharging groundwater.

Between 1992 and 1997, however, more than 200,000 acres of Pennsylvania farmland, an area equivalent to half of Chester County, were lost to commercial and residential development. The explanations for this loss range from farmland's general flat and treeless topography, which, for developers, is the most sought-after ground, to high estate taxes which can inhibit the transfer of farmland to heirs.

Recognizing the need to save farmland, the Brandywine Conservancy established its Farmland Preservation Program in 1991. The program helps farmers continue farming by assisting them in protecting agricultural and natural lands, enrolling in preferential property tax assessment programs, and taking advantage of estate and income tax benefits available under existing federal and state legislation. Financial support from two private foundations currently enables the Conservancy to offer this assistance at no cost to farmers.

Since its formation, the program has been instrumental in permanently protecting more than 3,000 acres of farmland. Working with individual farmers, Conservancy staff members prepare comprehensive plans that identify current land uses. These plans are then used to develop specific preservation strategies.

The protection of Breck-A-Dee Farm is a prime example of the Farmland Preservation Program in action. Beginning in 1993, Breckbill and the Conservancy investigated a variety of options to keep the farm in the family after Dick Breckbill's retirement.

Breck-A-Dee's flat, treeless topography and extensive frontage along roads made it a target for development. The value of Breckbill's farmland increased (although this increase was based on his farm's value as potential development land, not as agricultural land) and his property tax rose. Had nothing been done, his sons would have been hard pressed to pay the estate taxes on the assessed fair-market value.

Working with Conservancy staff, Breckbill significantly reduced the appraised value of his farmland through a combination of agricultural and conservation easements. As a result, his property taxes declined. After initial consultations that determined how his land was utilized, Breckbill placed an agricultural easement on 130 acres through the sale of development rights to the Chester County Agricultural Land Preservation Board. The easement dictates that the land be used solely for agricultural purposes and restricts future commercial and residential development. The county's agricultural easements purchase program is funded in part by a statewide tax cigarettes.

By selling his development rights, Breckbill incurred a capital gain tax. To offset that tax, Breckbill donated a conservation easement to the Conservancy on 40 acres of mature lowland forest and pasture-land that are the headwaters of Elk Creek. This environmentally significant land will be protected forever, contributing to a healthy stream and natural habitat for wildlife.

Since, 1967, the Brandywine Conservancy's Environmental Management Center has provided conservation solutions to landowners, farmers, municipalities, and developers.

Land O'Lakes Urges USDA To Move Forward With Russian Pork Export

ARDEN HILLS, Minn. — Land O'Lakes called upon the USDA to complete the process of purchasing 50,000 metric tons of pork as part of a long-delayed food aid package to Russia, and strongly urged the USDA to increase the program commitment to 100,000 metric tons.

Land O'Lakes outlined its position in a letter from Land O'Lakes President Jack Gherty to USDA Secretary Dan Glickman.

The food aid package was first announced more than nine months ago. Since that time, the USDA has issued and rejected two "tenders" or offers to purchase the product, while supplies of pork in cold storage have risen to a record level of more than a half-billion pounds. In his letter, Gherty said that the "price crisis facing U.S. hog producers makes it critical that the USDA move forward and even expand the Russian food aid pork purchase.

"The 50,000 metric ton purchase could remove close to 20 percent of the current supply in cold storage," Gherty wrote. "With the expectation of large hog numbers again this fall, it is critical the current tenders for purchase are completed, and these supplies are quickly removed from storage."

Gherty also indicated that Land O'Lakes supports the National Pork Producers Council in its call for the USDA to purchase an additional 50,000 metric tons of pork for delivery to Russia this fall and winter.

"A total purchase of 100,000 metric tons would make a significant reduction in cold storage suppliles and be an important supportive factor for hog prices in the near-term," Gherty wrote dry matter can reduce milk production.

High fiber contents as in whole cottonseed, beet pulp, sunflower and soy hulls mean that the inclusion in a dairy ration should not be high in order to maximize milk production.

It can, however, replace some missing hay fiber in rations of high-milking cows to avoid rumen acidosis and low fat test in milk. Of course, the use of by-products varies by season, locality and price.

The local factor for use of some by-products is interesting. The Northwest is known for heavy fruit and vegetable production. This is reflected in their heavy use of apple pomace, corn cannery waste, beet pulp, beet molasses, peas and potato culls for feeding in dairy rations above any other region in the United States.

The Midwest exceeds in use of field corn by-products and sunflower weeds, while the Southwest feeds the most almond hulls, carrot culls, cotton gin and seed by-products, grape pomace, grape raisin waste, millet grain, oat grain, rye grain, sorghum grain, wheat grain, sweet corn, rice hulls, and wheat by-products.

Some of these feed alternatives are almost unknown in the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic regions, while we rank first in use of soybean seed and sugarcane molasses although we are a close second for alfalfa meal, flax meal, rape meal and soybean meal.

The Southeast ranks first in citrus pulp, peanut hulls, turnips, citrus molasses and soybean hulls. Considering that many of our high producing dairy herds are in the Northwest and Southwest regions, their heavy use of these alternative by-products indicates the by-products' nutritive and economic value.

Overall the most widely used dairy feeds were alfalfa hay and silage, grass hay and silage, corn silage, clover hay and silage, small grain grazing, soybean oil meal, corn, barley, wheat grains and molasses. By-products entered at different times and location, presenting challenges to calculating optimum feeding rations for different production levels of our cows.

Grazing, part or full-time, can be an enormous saver of feeding costs, but fewer than one in five of dairy farmers in this region is taking advantage of it for all kinds of reasons — real or imagined.

A local large-animal veterinarian has collected data on this.

Make It With Corn

The key to good sweet corn is freshness.

According to the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program, look for fresh green husks and ears that are filled all the way to the tip when purchasing corn. Kernels should be tender, full and firm enough to puncture easily under the slightest pressure.

The sugar in sweet corn rapidly begins turning to starch within hours after being harvested. About 40 percent of the sugar can be lost in six hours at room temperature. Refrigeration slows this process but the sooner corn is eaten after harvesting, the better.

Many growers are growing sugar-enhanced or super-sweet varieties that genetically have more sugar in the kernels. Because they have more sugar to begin with, the corn can be stored for longer periods and maintain acceptable sweetness.

Corn is the leading vegetable crop in Pennsylvania, with 20,000 acres grown annually. It is available from July through October.

Corn on the cob, the most popular way to eat corn, is simple to prepare. Simply boil husked ears for 5-7 minutes, or grill the ears in the husk for 15-20 minutes after soaking them in water for about 10 minutes. Fresh corn on the cob is also easily prepared in the microwave by wrapping two husked ears in a damp paper towel and microwaving for seven minutes on high power, turning ears once.

Now matter how it's prepared, fresh sweet corn is a good source of vitamins A and C, and a single ear contains only 90 calories.

FLUFFY CORN FRITTERS

1 pound can whole kernel corn or 2 cups fresh corn
2 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon sugar

Scrape corn off the cob or drain canned corn. Add beaten egg yolks and remainder of ingredients except egg whites. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into batter. Drop batter by spoonful on hot greased griddle. Serve with hot syrup or butter if desired.

Very delicious and easy.

Sandra Dittman
Bernville

SUMMER CORN RELISH

18 ears fresh corn, small or medium
1 head cabbage
8 medium salad onion
3 red bell peppers
3 green bell peppers
6 small medium hot red peppers
2 teaspoons celery seed
2 teaspoons mustard seed
2 quarts white vinegar
¼ cup salt
2 cups sugar

Cut kernels into large nonreactive saucepan. Chop next five ingredients in food processor or grinder. Combine with corn. Add celery and mustard seed, vinegar, salt and pepper, and bring mixture to the boiling point. Simmer 35 minutes. Spoon into sterile jars. Seal and process for 15 minutes in boiling water bath, using standard canning techniques.

BAKED CORN

2 cups corn, fresh, frozen or canned
2 tablespoons butter
1½ tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 eggs
½ cup bread crumbs

Melt butter and add flour. Add milk gradually and bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly.

Add corn, sugar, salt, and pepper, heat thoroughly.

Remove from heat and add beaten eggs. Pour in a greased baking dish and sprinkle with bread crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until corn is firm.

Serves 4.

Jennifer Cassel
Ephrata

FREEZE CORN ON THE COB

Blanch whole ears of shucked corn by plunging into boiling water for 30-45 seconds, remove and immediately plunge into cold ice water.

When corn is cool, drain and wrap each ear in plastic wrap. Bundle ears in groups of four or six, depending on family size, and then wrap in foil or place in freezer bag.

To serve, microwave the corn ears or steam to finish cooking.

Featured Recipe

What tastes more wonderful than grilled corn on the cob?

For many people of all ages, nothing tastes better than in-season corn on the cob drenched in butter and sprinkled with salt and pepper.

But Americans, always famous for experimenting with new tastes, have discovered the unique flavors of herb butters can enhance even the seemingly unsurpassable flavor of fresh corn.

At the Cooking With Basil Workshop held this week at Lebanon County Extension, master gardeners demonstrated how easy it is to use herbs from the garden to make Basil Butter.

The American Dairy Association also developed recipes for herb butters.

The following recipes taste great with roasted sweet corn, baked potatoes, homemade bread, broccoli, carrots, grilled chicken, fish, and hot rolls.

BASIL BUTTER

½ cup unsalted butter, softened
⅔ cup packed basil leaves
Salt and freshly ground pepper

Process butter in food processor until almost smooth. Add herb leaves and pulse until they have been minced and incorporated into the butter. Season with salt and pepper to taste.

Pack butter in a small crock or bowl, and cover and refrigerate until ready to serve. Remove from refrigerator and let stand at room temperature for about 10 minutes before serving.

CHEESEABUTTER

½ cup butter
¾ teaspoon Italian seasoning
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
1 cup cheddar cheese, shredded
1 teaspoon lemon juice

In mixer bowl, beat together butter and seasonings with whip or paddle at medium speed until fluffy. Thoroughly blend cheese and lemon juice into butter mixture. Store, covered, in refrigerator.

CELEBRATE WITH BIRTHDAYS

When was the last time you asked your child if they would like to have a party? Undoubtedly, the response to this question would be a resounding YES!

With three children in our household, we have experienced our share of birthday parties as well as pretend parties where the only attendees were stuffed animals and doll babies.

Celebrations often center around such special holidays as Christmas, Thanksgiving, Hanukkah, New Year's Day, and so forth, but birthdays in the eye of a child is a special day for them to "celebrate." To a child, it is so important to be one year older. We adults don't seem to have quite the need to keep as close a watch on the birthdays!

When celebrating birthdays with children, family traditions can be easily formed. Whether it is a get-together with family members or a party with school friends, we seldom stop and think about the traditions we are forming with our families. Traditions can be anything that occurs with some regularity and holds special meaning for a family. It can be as simple as reading bedtime stories or as elaborate as an annual trip across the country to grandma's house. The existence of family traditions can help make a family and family members feel special and unique. Because the meanings of these occasions and activities are usually understood and enjoyed by the family, they can create feelings of closeness and shared meanings. Traditions provide stability and continuity in a changing world.

If young children are part of your family, why not consider establishing some birthday traditions? Consider starting to build traditions by including the children in the development of these special times:

• Allow the child to choose the kind of cake and icing. Let them work with you to make and decorate the cake. Remember, perfection is not necessary!

• Let the child make their own party invitations with stickers and stamps or design them on the computer.

• Involve the birthday child in helping to plan party games or let them invent new games. Libraries have lots of books that include creative games.

• Children delight in making decorations and also enjoy decorating for the special event. Don't be too quick to take decorations down. Let the joy continue for a few days.

• Decorating party bags can occupy young hands for several hours and can be very cost effective. White lunch size paper bags work great for this project.

• Consider involving the birthday child in making party favors for guests.

Themes for birthday parties can be fun if friends are being invited to attend. I remember two parties that were especially fun at our home. One year we had a Detective Party were the party guests caroused the yard following clues. There were bags of junk mail to go through, secret messages to figure out, hidden keys to find, etc. The final station was a bag of candy for a candy scramble. Another party for our daughter centered around a carnival theme. Children tossed bean bags into clown faces drawn on cardboard boxes, decorated ping pong balls and then threw them into bowls, experienced face painting, and played balloon games. Themes can make the planning fun for the parent as well as the children. Anything from a Pirate Party for young children to a Hair and Jewelry Party for older girls adds a special flavor to any party.

Whether the activity is fun or serious, the anniversary of one's birth is a special opportunity to honor each individual — whether child or adult — and create cherished family traditions and memories. Why not start some new birthday traditions this year?

CORN BALLS

1 egg
1 small onion, chopped
⅛ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
2 cups corn, fresh corn cooked 3 minutes or thawed frozen corn
3 slices crisp-fried bacon, crumbled
4 slices bread, torn into small pieces
¼ cup butter

Beat egg in large bowl. Add onion, salt, pepper, corn, bacon, and bread pieces; mix well. Melt butter in 1-quart baking dish. Scoop corn mixture into balls with an ice cream scoop. Place in prepared baking dish. Bake at 325 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 8.

CORN PANCAKES

2 cups grated fresh corn
2 large eggs, separated
1 tablespoon butter, melted
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste

Grease griddle. Place grated corn in mixing bowl, add 2 egg yolks, melted butter, flour, salt, and pepper. Mix thoroughly. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into corn mixture. Drop by large spoonfuls on heated greased pan and fry until browned on both sides.

Fritters: Increase flour to ½ cup and mix as above. Drop by heaping spoonfuls into hot oil and fry until browned on all sides.

This is a very old recipe, (1885 recipe book) which started as pancakes and later the flour was increased and the mixture dropped into hot oil, with great results and pleasure. I like this very much.

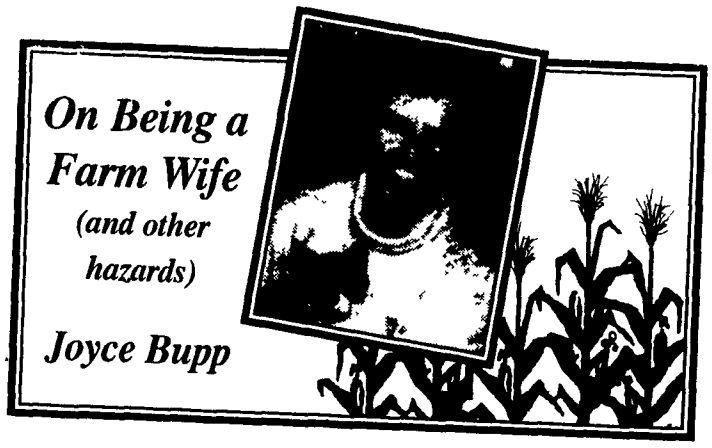
CORN AND MUSHROOM CASSEROLE

8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
¼ cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
16-ounces creamed corn
2 tablespoons butter
½ pound sliced mushrooms
½ cup chopped onion
16-ounces canned corn, drained
½ cup shredded Swiss cheese
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
3 tablespoons butter, melted

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Butter 1½ quart casserole dish and set aside. Whip cream cheese, add flour and salt and beat in. Stir in creamed corn.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter; add mushrooms and onions and saute until softened but not browned. Stir into creamed corn mixture. Stir in drained whole kernels and cheese.

Pour into prepared casserole. Bake 10 minutes. Remove and sprinkle the mixture of bread crumbs and butter on top and bake for 35 to 40 minutes. Let rest 5 minutes before serving. Yields 6-8 servings.



Flowers. Everywhere.

Life without the cheery colors of flowers would be incredibly dull for many of us. Cultivating beautiful blossoms is an annual and perennial challenge for gardeners, while generating a considerable boost to the economy. Plants and their accessories comprise a major industry, retailing in places as diverse as the local pharmacy to the convenience store to giant home building centers covering most of a city block.

But despite our best intentions, sweat equity and retail bucks, Mother Nature can still plant and bloom circles around the most devoted green thumber. That was hammered home again last week, as The Farmer and I — with wonderful support from family and employees — stole a few days away to visit northern California.

Walking among the coastal giant redwood trees has long been a dream of mine. Gazing up at the green canopy of these crowning-glories of the plant world, birdsongs echoing through the otherwise quiet, green, coastal forest, is now indelibly etched in my mind. No cathedral I have ever seen has generated any greater feeling of awe and reverence than those living monuments whose history stretches back beyond that of our nation.

But almost as impressive, and equally beautiful in their own way, are a myriad of smaller members of the plant world we so often take for granted. For those few brief days, we passed almost constantly a living potpourri of wildflower blooms. All colors of the rainbow. Changing varieties according to topography, stretched for miles along the road. Poking out over canyon precipices. Pushing up among damp beds of ferns. Hugging windswept coastal sand dunes.

I stopped dead in my tracks tiptoeing along a mulch-covered path among a high-mountain stand of the giant redwoods. Blooming in the dappled shade under the towering canopy of needled branches was an iris. A Siberian-type, the wild iris flower was a delicate lavender-blue, streaked with traces of yellow. We have clumps of the white "domesticated" variety of naturalized around the pond, but to find them growing naturally in this high redwood preserve was a delightful surprise.

Neighbors to the wild iris were another unexpected find in the high country. Scattered in large clumps along the roadways, reminiscent of our roadside daylilies, were tall stalks, each sporting several bright orange blossoms. The same plants grew less thickly in sunsplashed parts of the heavy forest, a lily whose stems each held several miniature, turks-turban-type blossoms speckled with tiny dots. Wild miniatures of the tiger lilies I carefully cultivate—and lose—in the flower beds.

As we do whenever possible, we left the trodden trail for awhile to cross a boulder-strewn section of mountain and stumbled into a several-acre wild alpine rock garden. It was so perfect you almost expected to see little plant markers detailing each species. But there were no such manmade intrusions, just a paintbox of colors, pinks and blues, whites and yellows, lavenders and oranges.

Red splashes of Indian Paint Brushes added accent to the pastels, and the scent of lavender foliage rose with each step that we took past large clumps of the herb, interspersed among chunks of weathered rock. Lupines were a mainstay, from tiny ones sporting four-inch high blue blooms to larger, white-blossomed ones favoring the lower edges of the display.

Gardeners work so determinedly coaxing plants to bloom, yet in the harsh, alpine setting they thrive in the most rugged, tough conditions. Living examples of adaptation, these high-country natives hugged the coarse soil and peeked out from the sheltered edges of the boulders. Likewise, succulents which dangled over the edges of Pacific coast cliffs and fought shifting sand dunes flaunted bright displays of color at survival-of-the-fittest conditions.

Foxgloves, temperamental in our gardens, grew wild in the high meadows, waving tall stalks of both fuchsia and white bell-flowers. Familiar blue chicory and dainty Queen Anne's lace interspersed with yellow clusters of unknown star-shaped flowers. And my favorite ox-eye daisies waved their perky white blooms wherever they could gain foothold with roots.

Back home, "weeds" have invaded the thirsty flower beds, survival of the fittest trying to push aside the marigolds and salvias, geraniums and zinnias.

ADADC Teams With Cooking School

SYRACUSE, NY — American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc.'s (ADADC) staff is always looking for opportunities to teach consumers ways to use more milk.

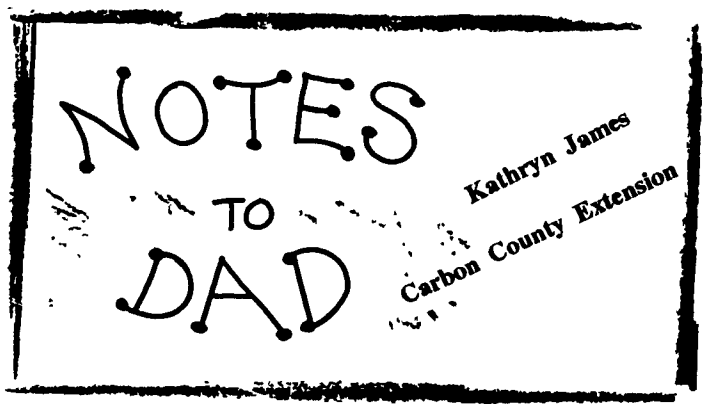
Sponsoring cooking classes at Tops Cooking School, gives ADADC an opportunity to place cooking instructors and local chefs on TV in Buffalo and Rochester, to demonstrate how to make recipes with milk and other dairy products. In 1998, ADADC teamed up with Tops to promote calcium-rich foods, which resulted in Tops launching their own in-store osteoporosis prevention campaign in May. ADADC also promoted summer desserts, Healthy Halloween Treats, and Holiday Brunch ideas. The first effort in 1999 was to promote using milk in making winter desserts including bread pudding, flan, and chocolate dream cake. AM Buffalo—the highest rated morning show in the Buffalo market—featured Chef John Ladowski, local cooking instructor, in Buffalo demonstrating how to make raspberry bread pudding.

Viewers were invited to visit the station's website for more milk recipes. One of the Tops Cooking School instructors also appeared on Rochester's WROC-TV, the CBS station to show viewers how to use lots of milk to make fancy chocolate pudding heart pastries for Valentine's Day.

Home Canning Workshop

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Learn home canning techniques at the Penn State Cooperative Extension Workshop on Aug. 5, from 10 a.m. to noon or from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The workshop will be held at the Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Rd., Lancaster. Instructions will include hands-on techniques. Cost is $3 to cover materials and handouts. Pre-registration is requested. Call the extension office at (717) 394-6851.



Staying Connected When Traveling

At a recent Father/Child Sensational Saturday program I facilitated, one of the fathers asked this question: "What can I do when I travel on business? My kids miss me, and I feel guilty about leaving them."

To find some answers for this question, I turned to James A. Levine's book "Working Fathers."

Following are some ways to stay connected to your kids by managing all three phases of a trip: (1) before you go, (2) while you're on the road, and (3) when you return.

Predeparture Pointers include: (a) Keep your separation anxiety in check. Showing your own distress won't help and it may only encourage your child to show her upset feelings even more. Instead, prepare your child by telling her what she most wants to hear: Although you have to travel for work, you will be coming back, and you look forward to sharing a favorite activity with her when you return. (b) Explain travel in terms kids can understand. (c) Explain your time table in their terms. What children most need to know is why you are leaving and when you are coming back in concrete terms that fit their sense of time, not yours. (d) Show them where you're going, using a good atlas or a home computer with access to the World Wide Web. (e) Include children in leave taking rituals, have children help you pack, have them hide a special note in your suitcase, have a special meal or dessert before departing. (f) Create a ritual for while you're away. Example, agree to think about each other at a certain time of day. (g) Leave a surprise, a note in their lunch box, or under their pillow. (h) Send mail before you leave. (i) Delay special family rituals for when you return.

Keep-in-Touch Tips: (a) Telephone, but don't ask the age old generality, "What did you do today?" Instead ask specific questions and you are much more likely to get and keep the conversation going. Example: "How was the math test you were so worried about?" Or, "What happened at your soccer game?" (b) Find a best time to call. If you know your child is involved in a favorite activity or TV show at the same time each day, they may not necessarily want to pull themselves away to talk to you. (c) Send drawings via the fax machine. You're quite likely to find it taped to the refrigerator when you get home and that could be a good way to start up a new conversation. (d) Review your son's or daughter's homework via the fax machine. (e) Create a travel quiz tied to your travel schedule. (f) Send E-mails. (g) Videotape yourself reading the children a bedtime story. (h) Don't forget good old-fashioned letters.

Reentry Rhythms: (1) Clarify expectations. If you are not emotionally available when you return home, greet everybody as enthusiastically as you can and explain that you'll need to take a short rest, but will make plans to do something special afterwards. (b) Prepare for a delayed reaction. Give everybody a chance to readjust, without expecting a dramatic welcome. Reestablish contact with each child separately. This can be something as simple as sitting on your child's bed for a few minutes to reconnect. After you have established contact with everybody separately, reunite with the whole family by doing something together. (c) If you offer presents, don't substitute them for your presence. It can be fun to bring home something special, and it also reaffirms the kids that you have been thinking about them and about what they would like. One good example is to take pictures of the places you've been to and bring them back to share with the children.

By following several of these tips, you will be able to stay better connected to your children when business travel takes you away from the family.

Watch That Mother!

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — On March 9, 1992 Donald McCandless Jr. learned a painful lesson about coming between a mother and her baby. At about 3 p.m., a 1,500-pound Simmental cow gave birth in the pasture on his farmstead. A few hours later he went out to check on the calf and to tag and band the newborn.

As McCandless' attention was turned to banding the calf, the cow blindsided him with her head, knocking him to the ground. The cow continued to butt him as he lay on the ground, and as he struggled to get free from her attack, she stomped on his prone body with all four hooves.

"I don't know how I got away, but she finally stopped," McCandless said, "Needless to say, I was badly bruised."

A speedy trip to the local emergency room revealed that McCandless suffered a dislocated finger, multiple contusions on his arms and legs, a large bump on his forehead and a very sore right shoulder that still bothers him to this day.

McCandless' experience demonstrates that even though you may be a veteran cattleman (he has over 50 years' experience working with cattle) you should never turn your back on animals, no matter how docile they may appear.

"Be very careful when working around new-born calves and their mothers, especially the first few hours," McCandless said. "Never take your eyes off the mother."

Since that attack, McCandless has become very careful and cautious when working with calves around their mothers. He said he always tries to have someone with him to watch the mother when he works with new calves. He also suggests trying to separate the calf from the cow by putting the calf in the bed of a pickup truck before working with it when you aren't able to find someone to watch the cow.

Something To Talk About

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

ST. THOMAS (Franklin Co.) — "I always got in trouble at school for talking too much," said Megan Meyers. After years of trying to squelch her love for talking, Megan has finally found a place where her talking ability is appreciated and encouraged.

Megan is the Pennsylvania Second Alternate Dairy Princess. As she travels across the state representing the dairy industry, she is constantly required to address audiences that sometimes number in the thousands. She speaks confidently with no fear, no quavering voice, no knocking knees, and no stammering.

"I love it," the 18-year-old said. "I take great pride in being the spokesperson for the dairy industry that has worked so hard to become what they are today."

Megan knows the dedication farmers give everyday to provide healthy, nutritious milk. She grew up working on the family dairy farmed in partnership by her parents Ed and Diana Meyers with her Uncle Bobby Meyers and his family.

They farm 550 acres and milk 180 Holsteins and a few Jerseys. Meagan's job is to feed the calves and to milk when needed.

Traveling across the state, Megan has seen farming operations in many different counties. She's viewed commercial-size dairies with elaborate milking systems and small ones.

"I'm still partial to family farms. It's sad to see them being phased out," she said.

It's on the farm that Megan believes she developed a strong work ethic, responsibility, and leadership. "My family had a major impact on my life. They have always supported and encouraged me in whatever I did," she said.

Megan and her older brother Corey, showed cattle since they were 8 years old and have been active in the Western 4-H Dairy Club. Until recently she was reporter for the county Junior Holstein Club and a member of the county Junior Judging Team.

This is the last year Megan will be showing at the Franklin Cunty Fair. Other years she showed at many surrounding fairs, but this year she doesn't have the time.

Megan's dad Ed said that his dad purchased the farm in 1963 after selling another to Bethlehem Steel. In 1968, an adjoining farm was added.

"My dad was an auctioneer and did custom baling. He was one of the first in the area to use square bales," Ed said.

Because his dad was busy with auctioneering and custom harvesting, Ed said, "My brother, mother, and I did the farm work."

Ed and his brother always knew that they wanted to continue farming. In 1978, Ed and his brother formed a partnership.

They do not have designated areas of responsibility. Instead, they basically do whatever needs to be done together.

The most frustrating part about farming is the weather "over which we have no control," Ed said of this year's drought, the worst he remembers. Fluctuating milk prices also are frustrating. "If we could just get a happy medium," Ed said. The unstability of the milk prices have resulted in many of his friends giving up farming. "Some of our closest friends just sold out," Ed said.

Currently the partnership is painting their white barns red. They crop farm corn, hay, and soybeans, and raise wheat mainly as a cash crop. At 180-head, they are milking more cows than ever.

"We are content with that number. Good help is hard to find," Ed said of expansion that requires more hired help.

With Megan headed off to college and son Corey, who recently married and is continuing veterinarian studies in Virginia, neither of Ed's children will be working on the farm. But Bobby's son Steve, who takes a major interest in the cows, works full time on the farm.

Diana takes care of the farm books and works as a teacher's assistant. In addition to farming, Ed is vice president of the Franklin County Holstein Club.

Megan, who had always been close to her grandfather, regretted that he passed away before she was crowned dairy princess.

"My grandmother said that he'd be proud of me, and I know he would have been. He always came to events to support me."

He would have had a lot to be proud about at the pageant last September. Megan won awards for top presentation and best scrapbook in addition to being selected as state alternate.

The advantage of working on a partnership farm is that someone else can often fill in if a person needs to take off. Between dairy princess responsibilities and Megan's multitude of activities in school, Megan needed to have someone often fill in for her.

Her school activities included serving as class president and participating in band, chorus, pit orchestra, Fellowship of Christians, Great Literature Club, student council, American Field Service, and Students Against Drunk Driving.

Megan was graduated from James Buchanan High School in June. In the fall of her senior year, Megan was selected state alternate dairy princess. Absenteeism for her many required promotional appearances was not counted against her at school. But Megan said that her band director was not too happy with her.

"I always marched in the band at parades, then ran back to the starting point to ride in the parade as the dairy princess," Megan said.

As dairy princess, Megan met Gov. Tom Ridge and Cal Ripkin. She attended the Holstein Convention and made a lot of new friends. At the many school promotions she performed, kids often asked, "How do you tell a mommy cow from a daddy cow?"

Although that was a bit tricky to explain, Megan was a bit nonplussed by the lack of knowlege exhibited by many children. Some didn't even recognize a cow.

Megan's mom said that she is pleased Megan is so independent. Megan has a good sense of direction and is always eager to travel to new areas of the state.

The biggest problem was car trouble. Once her transmission and alternator gave out, but the problems were eased by the availability of a car phone.

This isn't the first time that a Meyers was part of dairy royalty. Megan's Aunt Jean (Meyers) Koontz was the first Franklin County dairy princess. A few years ago, her cousin Stephanie Meyers was also the Franklin County dairy princess.

Talent, verbal skills, family tradition, and hard work are not the only forces enabling her to be successful.

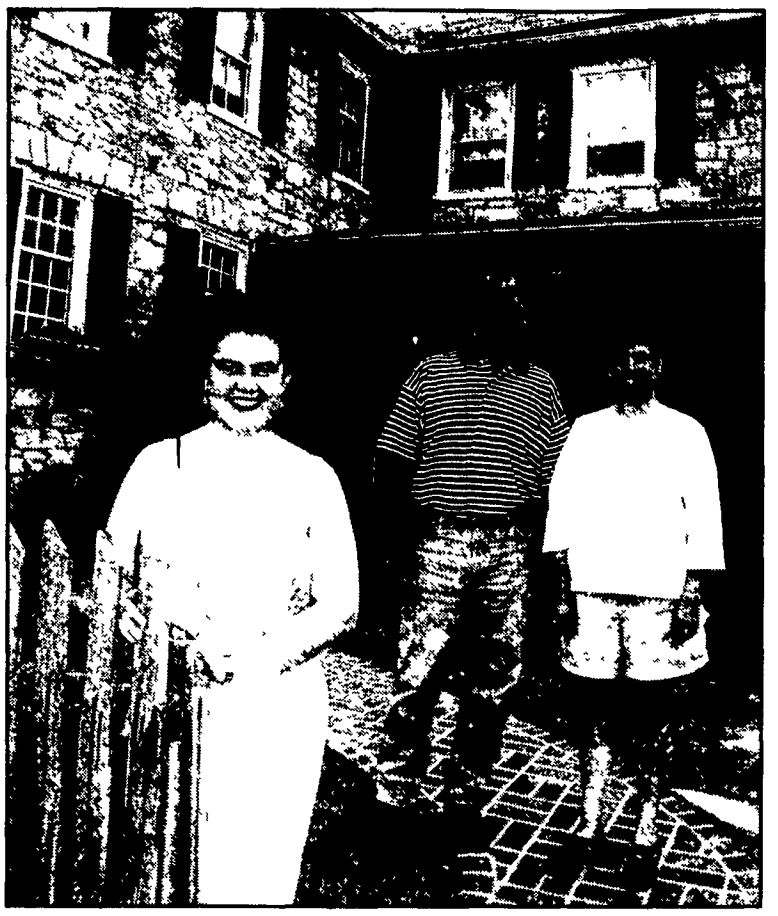
She writes in her scrapbook outlining her journey as a high schooler who rose to prominence as the alternate dairy princess: "I've taken many flights in my lifetime, not on an airplane but on the wings of an angel. It it weren't for the soft, feathery wings of an angel, I wouldn't have memories to reflect upon."

The impact of her reign, she believes, will forever be felt upon her life.

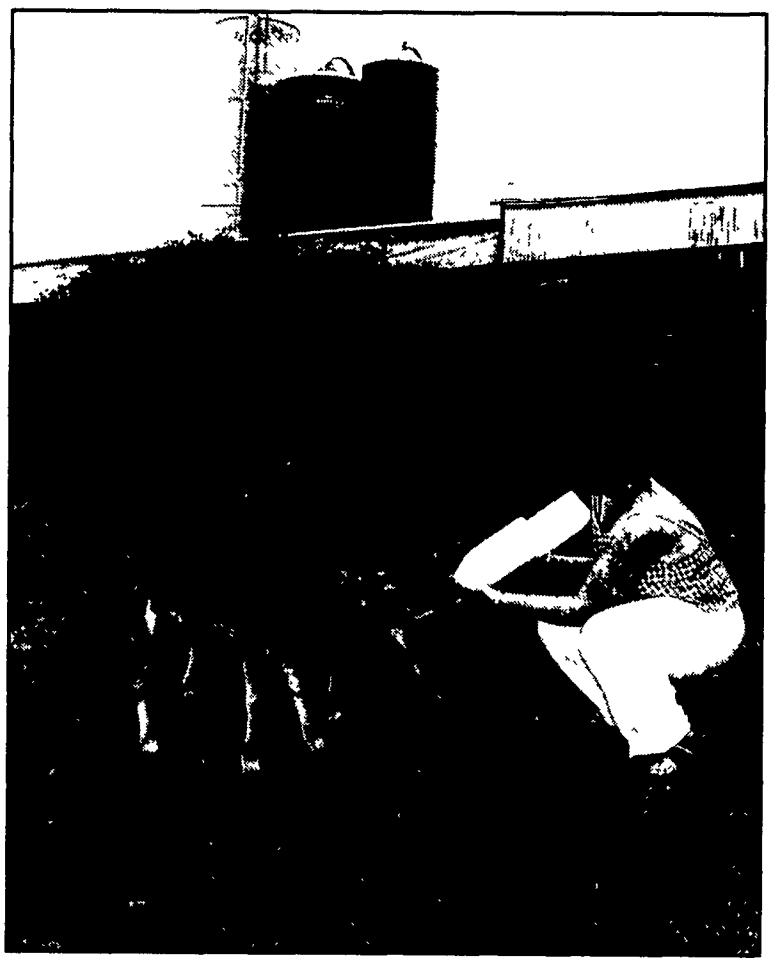
"Growing up on a dairy farm has been such a way of life for me that I can't imagine life without it," Megan said.

But she will soon find out what it is like to live off the farm. In August, Megan is heading for Penn State Altoona for one year and then plans to transfer to the main campus. She will study ag business management. With that degree, Megan hopes to be a connection between farmers and business, perhaps in ag extension work.

"I definitely want to stay with the ag industry," Megan said.



Pennsylvania Alternate Dairy Princess Megan Meyers and her parents Ed and Diana Meyers stand in front of the farmhouse on the Franklin County farm, which they operate in partnership with Ed's brother.



The Meyers Holstein herd is sprinkled with a few Jerseys that Megan introduced through 4-H projects.

Warren County Selects Promoters

WARREN (Warren Co.) — Kathy Little, Pittsfield, was recently crowned the Warren County Dairy Princess during the 29th annual pageant held at the 4-H Building, Warren County Fairgrounds.

Kathy is the daughter of Roy A. Little of Little Farms Dairy, Pittsfield, and Barbara Little, Warren. A junior at Eisenhower High School, Kathy helps on the family farm, enjoys four-wheeling and scuba diving.

Warren County Dairy Princess Kathy Little and Dairy Maid Kelsi Wilcox are eager to promote the dairy industry.

At the pageant, Ruth Shaw, professor of art history, served as mistress of ceremonies.

Kelsi Wilcox, daughter of Craig and Carol Wilcox of Russell will serve a second year as dairy maid. During the program, Kelsi portrayed a game show host of Cow Mania. Kathy delivered a speech about the dairy farmer and dairy products.

Rhonda Kieklak, Erie County 1995-1995 Pennsylvania Dairy Princess, told about her reign and paid tribute to dairy farmers and the dairy industry.

Rhonda presented impromptu questions to both Kelsi and Kathy. She asked Kelsi to tell of her favorite childhood memory. Kelsi said that her most memorable, although not a favorite, happened when she was four years old. She was in the milking parlor while her parents were milking.

"I was standing at the wrong place at the wrong time when an entire cow plop landed on my head. My parents didn't know what to do so they tipped me upside down and hosed me off," Kelsi said while the crowd roared.

Kathy was asked, "What invention besides the computer has made the greatest impact on the dairy industry today?"

Ida's Notebook

by Ida Risser

Summertime is the time for picnics. My problem was the fact that a big Sunday picnic followed a Saturday picnic. Instead of being at home preparing for Sunday, we were attending the Pennsylvania Nut Growers picnic at an estate in Berks County.

This estate had a very wide variety of trees growing everywhere. There was a large pond and the property was beautifully landscaped. There were demonstrations on grafting nut trees and later in the day an auction. A wide variety of things were sold from a watermelon to a birdhouse. There was a lot of baked goods, plants and homemade baskets. We used lots of ice cubes that day as it was one of the 100-degree days.

So, that night I baked a big apple cake and made macaroni salad for Sunday. The red beet eggs were already prepared as were the pickles. The extended family picnic was held in Cumberland County at my sister's home. One family drove from New Jersey while others lived nearby. There were lots of little children.

Last week I had my own little children visit me. Each grandchild was invited separately to spend the day and stay overnight. Each day we baked cookies, watered plants, and made meals. One big attraction was the beautiful slides that a cousin took some 40 years ago. She took many pictures of animals and flowers, which they liked.

When you read this article, we expect to be in Virginia for a week at our own family gathering. There are now 28 members of our immediate family. They will all gather from Georgia, Indiana, New Jersey, and Virginia. You will probably hear more about this later.

WE WANT TO BE YOUR FUEL INJECTION SPECIALIST

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send an SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Arlene from Snyder County would like recipes for Swiss Chard.

QUESTION — Mrs. Amos Kauffman, Honey Brook, would like a recipe to can apples (not apple pie filling) in hot water bath.

QUESTION — Lynda Bell, Lincoln University, wants a recipe for horseradish jelly or preserves.

QUESTION — A reader would like a good recipe for veggie burgers.

QUESTION — M. Hoover, New Holland, would like a recipe to make sour cream, not one made with cream cheese. She also wants a recipe to can chunck tomatoes and recipes for homemade cake mixes.

QUESTION — Lou Ann Sutter, Lebanon, wants to know where she can buy Cento Stuffed Cherry Peppers, only this item, not other Cento products.

QUESTION — Mike would like to know where to purchase goat and sheep milk in Schuylkill County.

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerer, Wysox, wants to know how to can tiny ears of corn, which she understands is harvested from field corn when it is 2- to 3-inches in length before the tassle begins to show. She found a recipe that is for immediate use, but her family can't eat them that fast so she wants to can the tiny ears in jars. The recipe is for pickling baby ears, but she would like a recipe to can without pickling so that she can use them in dishes such as chow mein.

QUESTION — G. Sweitzer, Airville, would like to know how to make cream of wheat or cream of farina from soft or hard wheat berries using a grain mill. Also, wants cookings instructions.

QUESTION — A busy mom wants soup recipes to can. Please include specific instructions for pressure canning. Also indicate whether or not the soup should be diluted when serving.

QUESTION — A reader would like a recipe for canning hot peppers in oil but without a tomato or catsup base.

QUESTION — N.E.K. wants a recipe for a cake icing (not the cooked kind) that isn't so sweet, like that sold at Sam's Club.

QUESTION — Joan Miller, Intercourse, wants to know if the cream puff recipe that includes a cream or pudding filling is the same recipe used to make fancy puff sandwiches. If not, does anyone have a recipe for the puff sandwiches?

QUESTION — Cindy Pudliner, New Holland, would like the recipe for the biscuit sold at the restaurant called Joey's, which was located beside the Comfort Inn in New Holland. She used to order the Sausage and biscuits for breakfast. The biscuit made a light, fluffy cake biscuit.

QUESTION — A.W. Good, East Earl, would like to know where to buy Kosher Jel. A previous source is no longer available because the plant burned down.

QUESTION — Barb Gaugher, Mansfield, wanted a recipe for Kosher barrel pickles like those sold at deli counters.

QUESTION — Brenda Houser, Middletown, would like a recipe to make cookies that taste like the ones served at Shady Maple Smorgasboard. The varieties that she likes are Chocolate Chip Truffle, which has a chocolate batter with chocolate chips in it and a soft chocolate center, and Peanut Butter Truffle, which has a peanut butter batter with chopped nuts and a soft peanut butter filling.

QUESTION — Shirley Ream, Criston, Ohio, would like a recipe on how to can ring bologna either by waterbath or pressure cooker or both.

QUESTION — Pam Bange, Hanover, would like recipes for using shitake mushrooms and portabella mushrooms.

QUESTION — K. B., York Springs, would like a recipe to make rotisserie chicken that tastes like that made by Rutters' Mini Market.

QUESTION — Several years ago, J. Rouse clipped a recipe from this section for maple syrup pork chops. Her family loves the recipe, but she lost it. Anyone else clip the recipe? Send it in so we can reprint it.

QUESTION — Lynn Rossi, Lititz, would like a recipe for marinated mushrooms, which are made without cooking oil and sold by S. Clyde Weaver, East Petersburg.

QUESTION — Mrs. Dale Burkhart, Narvon, misplaced a recipe for a seasoning mixture to rub into beef roast before roasting. She recalls that some of the ingredients included instant coffee granules, beef bouillon, salt and pepper.

ANSWER — Belinda Myers, Dallastown wanted a recipe for grape pie made from Concord grapes. Thanks to Donna Morrison, Dalmatia; Arlene Shirk, Narvon; Verna Moll, Temple; Fran Westfall, New Oxford, and others for sending recipes.

Concord Grape Pie

7 cups stemmed Concord grapes
1½ cups sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
Grated rind of 1 orange
Pastry for a 2-crust 10-inch pie

Rinse grapes. Slip skins from pulp. Reserve skins. There should be about 2 cups skins and 2¼ to 2½ cups pulp with seeds. Heat pulp to boiling. Put hot pulp through a food mill with spring and scraper removed to rid it of seeds. In a medium saucepan, stir together sugar, cornstarch, salt, and orange rind, stir in grape pulp. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in skins. Cool. Halve pasty making one part slightly larger than the other. On a prepared pastry cloth, with a prepared stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out largest half of pastry to about 1½ -inches bigger than inverted 10-inch pie plate. Fit into 10-inch pie plate. Add grape filling. Cut off over hanging edge of pastry so it is about ½ -inch from rim of plate. Roll out remaining pastry into a 13-inch round; cut into ½ -inch at 1-inch intervals to form a lattice design. Trim strips even with outer rim. Fold lower crust over strips. Seal. Crimp edge. Bake in a preheated 450-degree oven 10 minutes; continue baking at 350 degrees for 25 minutes longer. Serve warm or cold. Pie is less runny cold than when warm.

Grape Pie

3 cups Concord grapes
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Wash, drain, and stem grapes. Remove skins and simmer pulp for 5 minutes. Do not add any water to pulp. While hot, press pulp through sieve to remove seeds. Combine strained pulp with skins. Combine sugar and flour. Add to grapes. Blend in lemon juice and melted butter. Pour into pastry-lined pie plate. Cover with top crust. Bake at 425 degrees for 10 minutes, reduce heat to 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

For variation, add crumbs instead of top crust. To make crumbs, rub together the following:

1 cup flour
½ cup sugar
¼ cup melted butter

Sprinkle on top of pie mixture. Bake pie at 350 degrees for 40 minutes.

Thanks to Verna Moll who sent a recipe that she developed to use up an abundant grape harvest. She prepares the grapes in quantity and measures out the amount needed and freezes. Then makes the dessert whenever she pleases. The grapes freeze well.

To prepare grapes: Wash, drain, remove skins from 4-5 cups Concord grapes. Save skins. Simmer pulp for 5 minutes. While hot, press through strainer to remove seeds. Add to saved skins. Makes approximately 3 cups.

Grape Crunchy Dessert

Batter:
1 cup flour
¾ cup oatmeal
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup packed brown sugar
½ cup melted butter

Filling:
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons corn starch
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup water
3 cups prepared grapes

Cook filling ingredients until thickened. Pour over batter into pan. Top with remaining half of batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes.

Northeast District Jersey Show Set Aug. 16

LIBERTY (Tioga Co.) — The stage is set for the 14th annual Northeast District Jersey Show at the Tioga County Fairgrounds in Whitneyville, on Monday, Aug. 16.

To be judged by Chuck Luchsinger, classes for the event include all typical calf and cow classes as well as a class for senior yearlings in milk and a production class for animals who have produced 100,000 pounds of milk or 4,000 pounds of fat. A premier exhibitor and premier breeder for the show will also be named.

Once again, the Noble family will present a premier performance award in memory of Tommy G. Noble. The award will be given at the end of the show and will be based 50 percent on milk production and 50 percent on class pricing. To be eligible for the premier performance award, submit the animal's most recent 305-day lactation summary with the entry forms.

Fees of $5 per youth entry and $7 per adult entry should accompany all submissions. Please include the animal's name, registration number, birth date, sire, dam, owner's name and breeder's name on a piece of plain paper and send it to Paul Moyer, RR1 Box 88A, Roaring Branch, PA 17765. The entry deadline is Aug. 9. Entries postmarked after that date will be subject to a $15 per head late fee.

Animals may enter the fairgrounds after 10 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 14.

To be admitted to the show, animals must be free from signs of clinical illness or contagious or infectious diseases and must be presented with an official health certificate upon entering the fairgrounds. Vaccinations required include IBR, P13 and BVD. Animals that have not been vaccinated against BVD during the previous 12 months must receive one dose of modified live virus vaccine given at least 15 days and not more than 180 days before the show or two doses of killed vaccine two to four weeks apart with the last dose given at least 15 days and not more than 180 days before the show. Animals that have been vaccinated for BVD within the past 12 months must receive a single injection of modified live virus or killed vaccine not less than 15 days prior to the show. Vaccination against rabies is highly recommended.

"Through the years, the quality of the Jersey show has been steadily increasing," said chairman Paul Moyer, "Let's make this year's show the best ever!"

Imagine if you will, a place where cows are treated like queens. A place where they are waited on by humans 24 hours a day and want for nothing. Food and water are presented before them whenever they feel the slightest pang of hunger. This is a world where cows visit the "Bovine Beauty Parlor," to ensure they are current with the latest hair and hoof styles. You may say that such a place could never exist, but I know better. For I have been there and witnessed first hand everything I have described in a place called — The Lancaster County 4-H Dairy Show.

Okay, so maybe the Lancaster County 4-H Dairy Show isn't quiet as extravagant as I have portrayed it, but I must admit we do come pretty close! This year we had 55 4-Hers in attendance as well as 90 of their most pampered and prized dairy cows. You may wonder just how does one pamper a cow? Do you feed her nothing but chocolates and give her satin pillows to lounge upon?

Of course not!

Pampering a cow is much more complicated than that. Pampering begins before the show even starts. The cows are transferred to the show in their own chauffeured trailers, which of course have ample room and free air conditioning, provided by the slates in the side of the trailer. When the cows arrive at the Lampeter Fair grounds the first order of business is to be checked into their hotels. This is taken care of at the registration desk and then it's off to their rooms for a much needed rest. The rooms are furnished with the highest quality wood shavings and straw and provide a wonderful view. After the cows have been properly rested and they are then escorted to the deluxe shower area. It is here they they are gently hosed off with cool water and then given a soothing bath which leaves them absolutely gleaming!

Once the shower is completed they then return to their rooms for a short nap followed by a gourmet dinner, which is of course, brought right to their room. Dinner is followed by a trip to the "Bovine Beauty Parlor." Tomorrow is their big day and they want to make sure they look their best! As the expert stylists work on their hair the cows sit quietly and dream of hay and famous bulls. Once back back for the beauty parlor, the rest of the evening is spent catching up on gossip with their neighbors and then drifting peacefully off to sleep.

The next morning is the "Big Day." The cows all know that they are there to compete in the show and you'd better believe that they want to look their best. After a quick breakfast followed by a brisk morning shower and hair style the girls are ready for competition. Accessories can make or break an ensemble so every cow is decked out in her finest leather face halter, which of course perfectly complements her hair color. While in the show ring each cow is given the chance to shine in the spotlight. Heads held high, they walk past the judge in all of their glory, masterfully being shown by their respective 4-Hers.

After a hard day of showing the cows are ready to return home and not to worry about impressing everyone at the show. Once again they are free to lay in manure and let their hair fall out of place. No more fretting about their top lines not being straight enough or if their tail is properly puffed. For they realize that not every cow can be famous and only a few can be queen for a day.

Cut Flower Short Course

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension announced the upcoming second annual Cut Flower Short Course. This two-day program will be held on Thursday and Friday, August 26 and 27 at the Berks Campus of Penn State University.

Cut Flower production and marketing are fast becoming more than just a small farm alternative. As growers rapidly explore diversification and alternative cropping systems, cut flowers increasingly appear as a viable, profitable crop. This program will cover many aspects of cut flower production including scheduling, market analysis and development, pest controls and cultivar selection.

A major feature of this program is the combination of classroom instruction, computer laboratory and cultivar field trials.

Preregistration is required. The cost of the program is $85 per person and includes all program materials, morning coffee and pastry and lunch both days. Registration is limited. For registration forms or information, call (814) 693-3265.

Canner Gauge Testing

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension will test pressure canner dial guages for accuracy on Tuesday, Aug. 10, from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Rd., Lancaster.

Only the lid is needed to testing. Pressure canners with weighted gauges do not need to be tested. Testing is free.

If you are unable to come at the scheduled time, call (717) 394-6851, to arrange an appointment.

ANSWER — Roseann from Bucks County wanted a recipe for jarring peppers. Thanks to N. Nolt, Landisburg, for sending a recipe.

Canned Peppers

Place sliced peppers (hot or regular or both) in pint jars. Put ½ teaspoon vegetable oil and ½ teaspoon salt in jars.

Bring to a boil and pour into ½ -pint or jelly jars:

2 cups vinegar
3 cups sugar
3 cups water

Cold pack 5 minutes.

ANSWER — Joan Yarnall, Gilbertsville, wrote that her mother-in-law used to make cod fish cakes with dry cod fish, which came in a box. She wanted to know if the dried cod fish was still available. Fran Westfall, New Oxford, writes that she used to use it also, but it is no longer available.

ANSWER — Here are some different recipes to make pig, which N. King, Lititz, how requested. Thanks to N. Nolt, for this one.

Roasted Pig's Stomach

1 pig stomach

Wash stomach and soak in salt water for one hour. Drain. If stomach has more than one hole, sew all but one hole shut before filling.

Stuffing:

1 pound sausage, fried
2 cups raw bacon, fried
1 large head cabbage, chopped
1½ to 2-quarts potatoes, diced
1 onion, finely chopped
1 teaspoon pepper
½ dozen cloves (optional)

Mix altogether and stuff. Or you can partially cook cabbage and potatoes before mixing together and stuffing. Stuff as full as possible, the stomach really stretches. Place stuffed stomach into roasting pan or oven bag and bake at 350 degrees for approximately 3 hours. Serve with gravy made by adding flour and water to drippings in roasting pan or bag.

Thanks to Fran Westfall, New Oxford, for sending a recipe for Pig's Stomach, which the Pennsylvania Dutch call Hog Maw.

Hog Maw

1 pig's stomach
2 pounds smoked sausage, diced
3 cups boiled potatoes, diced
3 cups sliced apples
2½ cups bread crumbs
1 medium onion, chopped
2 cups chopped celery
Chopped parsley
Salt and pepper

Clean stomach well and soak in salt water. Combine all ingredients and mix well. Stuff the stomach with the mixture and sew up the opening. Simmer for 2 hours in a large kettle with water to cover. Remove to baking pan with hot fat, brown in 400-degree oven, basting frequently. Slice with sharp knife when ready to serve.

A new Pennsylvania Game Commission exhibit features a look inside a beaver lodge.

Kenny and Orin Hall, Fairport, N.Y., come every year to participate in Farm-City Day. Here they size up a bear in an exhibit sponsored by the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

Beaver Dam, Black Bear Fascinate Crowd

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Tioga Co. Correspondent

LAWRENCEVILLE (Tioga Co.) — Have you ever been face-to-face with a black bear or would you like to explore the inside of a beaver lodge?

Visitors to the ninth annual Tioga County Farm-City Day got the chance to do both of these things at the Pennsylvania Game Commission's exhibit.

According to Game Commission officials, visitors who stopped by the booth during the day really enjoyed the display.

"We heard a lot of bear stories. When you see an exhibit like this it brings up a lot of stories," the officials said.

When in the woods, bears forage for fruits, nuts, leaves of hardwood trees, grasses, insects, plant roots, amphibians, reptiles, small mammals, fish and carrion. When close to humans, bears can't resist the temptation of a garbage dump and are especially known for their sweet tooth. When food in the woods is limited, they also might try a taste or two of corn, often destroying several rows at a time.

Most bears found in Pennsylvania are black bears, although a few are cinnamon in color. They mainly come out at night, but sometimes travel and feed by day, according to Wildlife Notes, an informational handout produced by the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

Bears are reported to have an acute sense of smell, but their hearing and vision are thought to be poor. To help them see and smell better, bears will stand up on their hind feet with their nose in the air. Black bears can also swim and climb well. On foot, their top speed is 30 miles per hour which is achieved in a flatfooted shuffling manner.

Bears must eat more in the fall in order to fatten themselves for the long winter. They go into a long, deep sleep during the winter months in dens deep in the forest. Late in winter, bears may emerge from their dens to look for food. While in their dens, females give birth to cubs after a 71/2 month gestation.

One to five cubs, which are covered in fine dark hair, are born. Cubs are only six to nine inches long and weigh only six- to 12-ounces. A fully grown bear is 50- to 58-inches long and weighs from 140 to 400 pounds, with some reaching the 600-900 pound mark.

A female raises one litter every two years. Cubs stay with their mothers until the summer of their second year. After that, they generally travel on their own.

According to game commission estimates, the bear population of Pennsylvania is between 4,000 and 6,000. Bears are more concentrated in the northcentral and northeast regions of the state.

The other popular exhibit at Farm-City Day was the beaver lodge complete with two kits and a mother beaver.

A beaver lodge is essentially a dome-shaped island made out of sticks that are plastered together with mud. The inside of the lodge, called the den, can be up to five feet high and always has a small air hole at the top. The only entrance to the den is below the water level.

Beavers give birth after a 12-week gestation period, usually in April or May. The newborn kits weigh about a pound. They are born ready for action with eyes wide open, teeth erupted, and an ability to swim. If an emergency causes them to leave the lodge, they can dive into the water to safety. Usually newborn kits don't leave the lodge until they are five to seven weeks old. The kits stay with their parents for two years

(Turn to Page B11)

Beaver Dam

When a lush streambank area is found, adult beavers, who weigh between 40-60 pounds, will begin to make a dam. Their agile front feet and long claws help manipulate food, dig, and work on the dam. Webbed hind feet and a broad flat tail help the beaver move swiftly in the water.

When under water, the beaver's heart slows and valves close off ears and nostrils. A beaver can stay submerged for up to 15 minutes, according to the Pennsylvania Game Commission publications.

Besides providing a tasty treat, beavers constantly gnaw on wood to keep their front teeth worn down. Like other rodents, a beaver's teeth are constantly growing.

Beavers especially like to eat ferns, grasses, mushrooms, and algae or the roots of water plants. They also eat the bark, twigs and buds of aspen, willow, maple, yellow birch, black alder, and black cherry trees.

Always planning for the future, beavers will cut tree branches and carry them back to their home pond, anchoring them in the mud so there will be food in the winter.

Beavers fell trees in order to reach the more succulent growth on the top of the tree. After eating their fill, the beaver will gnaw the tree into pieces which are then used for building dams or lodges.

Beavers build dams on streams and creeks. The dam, made of wood pieces and packed mud, can hold back a sizable pond, while at the same time allow most of the stream to seep through. After beavers exhaust the supply of food in an area, they abandon their lodge and dam and move to a new spot. This can happen after 10 years or longer. With no maintenance, the dam will break, allowing the water to drain, and the area to return to its original vegetative state.

In the early 1800s, beavers were highly prized for their pelts. Heavy trapping reduced the population, eliminating the beaver from much of its original habitat. Today, thanks to wildlife management programs and the beaver's breeding patterns, most of the areas have been repopulated.

For more information about Pennsylvania Black Bears, Beavers, or other wildlife, contact the Pennsylvania Game Commission at Dept. MS 2001 Elmerton Avenue, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9797.

This Fair Queen Fell In Love With Animals, Dairying

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Erin Templin didn't come to love dairying in the usual way: grow up on a dairy farm, spend time from toddler age through elementary school learning to feed the calves, and gradually take on the responsibilities of the farm.

By taking courses in agriculture in high school and joining FFA, in a roundabout way Erin came to work on the dairy farm of a friend, Amanda Martin, this year's Lebanon County dairy princess. Last summer, in fact, Erin would wake up early enough to help with first milking at the Martin's Promise Lane Farm in Lebanon.

Erin, chosen as this year's Lebanon Fair Queen last Saturday, said she was basically "clueless" about how a dairy farm operated, until she met Amanda, a good friend since seventh grade.

Erin also learned about agriculture as a Cedar Crest FFA member.

But the 18-year-old daughter of Mary Jo Smith of north Lebanon was undaunted in her love and her curiosity of how to milk cows. "Few things would get me up at five in the morning," Erin said. "I'd never done anything like it. But I liked being around animals."

And she admits to enjoying being part of a greater organization of which she feels a part — the state's number one agricultural industry.

"I love animals, I always have," she said. "I've really been fond of dairy cattle — I think they're really cool and really neat."

Erin noted she grew up with all sorts of animals — dogs, cats, rabbits, turkeys, pheasants, and ducks. She remembers a Mallard duck, "Malley," she kept for about six years since she was about nine years old. Erin remembers hatching all the birds she kept with an incubator and learned what she could about raising them.

Erin, a senior at Cedar Crest High School, said this was her second try at the championship. She failed the first time to capture the queen's tiara, mostly because she was unprepared. But her love for public speaking and dairy judging proved helpful this time. Erin admitted being prepared for the big day and having lots of practice.

"This time I knew what to expect," she said. "I had practice giving speeches, I was better prepared, and felt comfortable — experience really does help."

Before taking FFA classes at Cedar Crest, Erin admitted knowing next to nothing about agriculture. "I would have given up on me," she said. "I was stupid, clueless."

Erin enrolled in ag science classes at Cedar Crest. She became involved in FFA. Since 10th grade she has been involved with FFA and attributes her understanding of ag to her Cedar Crest FFA adviser, Harold Berkheiser.

"He was my role model, a sweet man," she said, who helped her understand the importance of agriculture in life. It was her enrollment in the Sky, Earth, and Environmental (SEE) Club at Cedar Crest that also sparked her interest in agriculture.

Erin's mother, Mary Jo Smith, works as a registered nurse, as manager of a hospital ambulatory procedure outpatient unit. Erin has one sister, Misty Britto, 24.

By taking courses in agriculture in high school and joining FFA, in a roundabout way Erin Templin came to work on the dairy farm of a friend, Amanda Martin, this year's Lebanon County dairy princess. Last summer, in fact, Erin would wake up early enough to help with first milking at the Martin's Promise Lane Farm in Lebanon.

Erin has been involved in a lot of activities in school, including chorus, and has taken photography classes. She worked part-time at Tractor Supply Company in Lebanon.

Erin lists several career choices, including possible plans to enroll in Mansfield University to study environmental biology. Erin was also considering a program in votech, allied health science, and possibly use that as a preliminary to practice veterinary medicine or nursing.

Erin is also considering running for state FFA office. She served as sentinel at her chapter.

As for free time, Erin said that "I often find absolutely nothing to do in Lebanon County." But she enjoys going fishing with her boyfriend, Matt, and looks forward to a busy and hectic year as the fair queen, attending parades and speaking to the public.

Participants in the Strong Bones for a Lifetime Mall Walk, sponsored by Dairy Council Middle Atlantic and the New Jersey Interagency Council of Osteoporosis, visisted the Calcium Connection, a booth featuring information on dairy products, calcium, the famous milk mustache, recipes, and samples of milk and cookies.

Surprises At Lebanon County Fair

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Where else can a daughter compete against her mother and win a blue ribbon than at the county fair?

In a quirk that defies explanation, 14-year-old Melissa Graeff baked her first-ever cake from scratch to best out 18 other entries including her mother's, a seasoned baker. Melissa walked away with $25 and eligibility to compete for the state prize—a free weekend for four at Hershey Resort.

The whole Graeff family seemed a bit dazed when they came to check out the winner of the Greatest Cocoa Cake held Monday at Lebanon Area Fair.

"I was sure my mom would win. She baked the best caramel chocolate cake—and she didn't even place," the shocked champion said.

In recent weeks, the family had repeatedly taste-tested their mother's recipes in preparation for the upcoming competition. The whole family agreed that the caramel chocolate cake had to be a winner. At the last minute, Melissa decided that her mom's recipe for Hershey's Perfectly Chocolate Chocolate Cake had potential for second or third prize. Although she had only baked cakes from box mixes before, Melissa decided to tackle the made-from-scratch recipe.

The cake, devoid of embellishment, won over more elaborately decorated cakes because of its rich chocolate flavor and superb texture.

What about Mom's caramel chocolate cake?

Different judges, different tastes probably would have resulted in different winners. But that's what makes fair competition exciting: You never know until you try what is possible.

In this year's competition, judges had a difficult time selecting the best chocolate cake, but the search for the Blue Ribbon Apple Pie was as easy as 1-2-3.

"No question about it. First place was outstanding, above all other entries," said Brian Peffly of the 12 pies judges. "And we both agreed on the second and third placings."

First-place was a showy Grand Apple Flan baked by Belinda Myers of York County.

Pies were judged on crust color, flavor, texture, and doneness. The filling was judged on consistency, doneness, flavor, and creativity.

One glance and it was evident that the pie flaunted its creative beauty from being baked in a deep-sided flan pan.

Peffley who teaches pastry arts at the Lebanon County Career and Technology Center and was a former pastry chef for Hotel Hershey, said that some of the pies would have tasted much better warm than cold.

Alletta Schadler, Lebanon extension director and chairperson for the food contests, said that each year she selects both a professional and a civilian judge for the contest.

This year Jamie Wolgemuth, chief executive for Lebanon County, served as civilian judge.

"I like pie and my wife prides herself on pie crust so I know what tastes good," Wolgemuth said.

Both judges agreed that second place should go to Danette Ocker and third to Connie Knause.

The two men also judged the Greatest Cocoa Cookie, Brownie, and Bars Contest open to contestants ages 8 to 19.

First-place and the eligiblity to compete at the state competition in January 2000 was won by Valerie Bombgardner for her no bake Chocolate Fudge Cookies. Emilee Knauss placed second and third went to Katie Lentz.

Here are the first-place recipes for each contest.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE COOKIES
No Bake

2 cups sugar
½ cup milk
½ cup butter
¼ cup cocoa
¾ cup peanut butter
3 cups quick oats
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup nuts

Boil sugar, milk, butter, and cocoa for one minute. Remove from heat. Add peanut butter, oatmeal, vanilla, and nuts. Beat until blended. Drop by teaspoonful on wax paper. Refrigerate until firm.

Valerie Bomgardner

HERSHEY'S PERFECTLY CHOCOLATE CHOCOLATE CAKE

2 cups sugar
1¾ cup all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup cocoa
½ cup vegetable oil
2 eggs
1 cup milk
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup boiling water

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Combine dry ingredients in large bowl. Add eggs, milk, oil, and vanilla. Beat for 2 minutes on medium speed. Stir in boiling water. Batter will be thin. Pour into two 9-inch round greased and floured pans. Bake 30-35 minutes. Cool 10 minutes. Remove from pans to wire rack. Cool completely. Frost. 10-12 servings.

Frosting:

½ cup butter
⅔ cup cocoa
3 cups powdered sugar
⅓ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mielt butter. Stir in cocoa. Alternately add powdered sugar and milk, beating on medium speed to spreading consistency. Add more milk if needed. Add vanilla.

Melissa Graeff

Melody Graeff congratulates her daughter Melissa, 14, for winning the Hershey's Greatest Chocolate Cake Contest. Duly impressed is the winner's sister Michelle, who expected her mother's entry to win.

Apple pie judges Jamie Wolgemuth, center, and Brian Peffly tell Alletta Schadler, extension director, why they selected the top three pies out of 12 entries in the Blue Ribbon Apple Pie Contest.

While visiting their Great Aunt Anna Lehman, Hershey, left, the Hershberger family from Kansas stopped by to check out entries at the Lebanon Fair. The children said they were looking for ideas to take back to their local fair to be held next week.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

GRAND APPLE FLAN

Crust:

4 cups flour (sifted)
1½ cups butter-flavored Crisco
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup ice water

Cut shortening into salt and flour until coarse crumbs form. Gradually add water, tossing with fork. Divide dough in half. Roll out on floured surface to one-inch larger than a 10½ -inch flan tart pan. Place in pan. Set aside.

Filling:

8-ounce package cream cheese
⅓ cup sugar
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla

Beat filling ingredients until smooth and creamy. Pour into prepared bottom crust.

Apple Filling:

8½ cups peeled, sliced apples
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon corn starch
¼ cup flour
3 tablespoons sour cherry filling (chopped)

Decorate with dough cut outs. Bake on a parchment covered cookie sheet at 400 degrees for 20 minutes, then lower oven to 375 degrees for 20 minutes. Cool.

Goschehoppen Folk Fest To Be Held

EAST GREENVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — For two days, Aug. 13-14, the customs of the 18th and 19th Century Pennsylvania German past will come to life at the 33rd annual Goschenhoppen Folk Festival, East Greenville.

More than 165 demonstrators and 800 costumed, multigenerational participants will demonstrate hearthside food preparation, fence post digging, grain threshing, quilting, and other typical activities of that era.

Children can play 19th century games, see farm animals, and learn what chores children of yesteryear were expected to perform.

Taste traditional thirst quenchers such as raspberry shrub, vinegar punch, peppermint water, fresh-squeezed lemonade, and homemade rootbeer. Fill up on sausage sandwiches, corn pie, a Dutch platter, or ham dinner served family style. Top it off with assorted fruit pies, funny cake, Montgomery pie, shoofly pie, cookies or ice cream with fresh-sliced peaches.

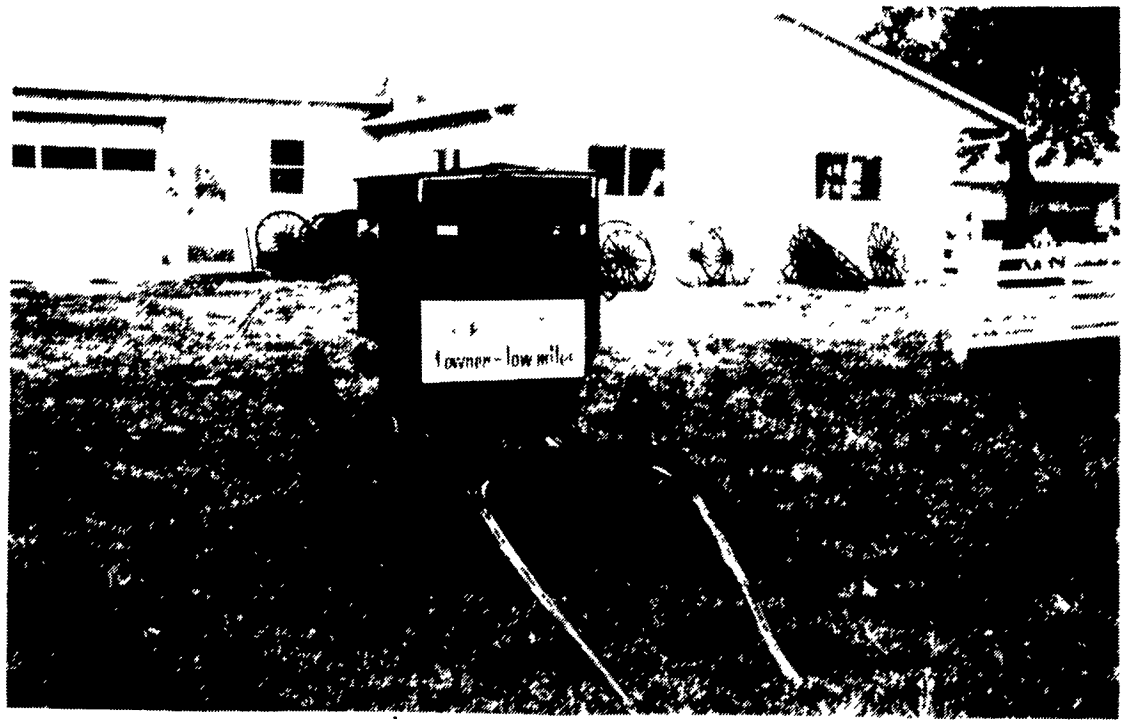
This year's theme is "The Dairy." Pet Rosie the historian's cow and see her new calf. Learn how the Pennsylvania Germans made cheese, butter, and ice cream.

At 3 p.m. each day, a "grande" parade will feature horses pulling wagons and vendor carts. Stop by the farm market or visit the Germanic raised-bed garden.

The Festival will be held Friday, from noon to 8 p.m. and on Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the New Goshenhoppen Park, 3rd Street, just off Rt. 29 in East Greenville.

Admission is $7 for adults, children 12 and under are free. Parking is by donation. For more information, call (215) 234-8953.

Pennsylvania German history comes to life at the Goschenhoppen Folk Festival to be held Aug. 13 and 14, East Greenville.



Ride in an authentic Amish buggy when the Pennsylvania countryside comes to the city with the Pennsylvania Dutch Festival at Reading Terminal Market on Aug. 5, 6, and 7, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The festival features authentic Pennsylvania Dutch handmade quilts, brooms, woodcrafts, cakes, p;ies, donuts, ice cream, preserves, and more. On Saturday, Aug. 7, the festivities include Amish buggy rides around the market and live horses, sheep, goats, chickens, donkeys, and calves. The market is located at 12th and Arch Streets, Philadelphia. Photo by Jerry Irwin.

Spend A Day In The Garden

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Master Gardeners are throwing a 10th anniversary bash by inviting everyone to spend a day in the garden at Lebanon County Extension. Located at 2120 Cornwall Rd., Lebanon, the celebration will be held Aug. 14, from 9 a.m. until noon.

A $3 fee includes informative gardening handouts and refreshments. Preregister by calling the extension office (717) 270-4391 by Aug. 6.

9 a.m. — History of the german Four-Square Garden.

Our demonstration garden is reminiscent of the gardens brought to Pennsylvania by German immigrants. Learn the history of the Four-square Garden.

9:30 a.m. — Potatoes Galore

Vegetable Square. Growing potatoes in a small garden can be a challenge. Come and learn different, space-saving ways of growing potatoes. Learn what varieties are good for Pennsylvania summers and how to control that nasty little potato bug.

10:00 a.m. — Small Fruit Culture.

10:00 a.m. — The joys of Perennial Gardening.

Perennial and Ornamental Grass Square. Our perennial garden has been in place for two years. During this demonstration we will discuss design concepts using perennials and ornamental grasses and our yearly maintenance schedule.

10:00 a.m. — Natural Coloring.

Children's Square. While you attend your own gardening class your children will learn how to use plant material for their own art projects. In this class children will learn to dye eggs with stencils and dyes from common plants.

10:30 a.m. — All About Roses

Rose Square. Visit the Rose Garden to learn the different types of roses and discuss the culture, pests, diseases and spray programs.

10:30 a.m. — Compost

The what, why, when, and how of composting will be discussed in this informative demonstration. You will learn about methods of composting, and possible problems that could arise.

11:00 a.m. — Basil

Herb Square. Everyone knows Basil! Don't be so sure. Our square will demonstrate new varieties of this "King of Herbs." Of the 150 varieties know we have picked 12 to demonstrate a variety of recipes and crafts. But if you just want to make pesto we will cover that, too.

11:00 a.m. — Pictures with Plant Material

Children's Square. While you are attending your own gardening class your children will be working on their own art project, "Picture Making." This activity involves making pictures with dried plant material.

11:30 a.m. — Everlasting Annuals

Annual Square. Attend this program and you will learn what common and unusual varieties of annuals grow with the purpose of drying to use for decorative purposes. It will answer the questions like, when do I pick and how do I preserve?

11:30 a.m. — Backyard Orchard

Fruit Trees. In this program cultural practices for the backyard fruit grower will be covered. Tree training will be demonstrated along with insect monitoring devices.

Food Preservation Class Offered

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — Canning procedures have changed dramatically over the years, but many folks still look forward to eating the "fruits of their labor" over the winter months with home preserved foods. To make sure you don't endanger your family's health by following out-of-date canning instructions, Penn State Cooperative Extension is offering a hands-on workshop to teach proper methods of home canning.

Sessions will be held on Tuesday, August 3 at 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. or Wednesday, August 4 at 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon at the Montgomery County 4-H Center on Rt. 113 in Creamery. Participants will learn the latest methods of using a boiling water bath and a pressure canner. They will receive the latest USDA canning book and take home two jars of properly processed fruits and vegetables.

Registration is required and class size is limited. There is a cost of $12 per person. To register, call the extension office at (610) 489-4315.

Great Plains Announces Folding Drill

SALINA, Kan. — Great Plains introduces the new 2600-2S, a two-section folding grain drill that gives farmers the latest in seeding technology and convenience.

With active hydraulic down pressure on the openers and easy folding for transport, the 2600-2S is outfitted with all the latest innovations in seeding technology.

The 2600-2S features active hydraulic down pressure on the openers for even penetration across the drill – even in uneven ground. Down pressure is adjustable between openers on the center and outside ends of the drill. The proven straight-arm openers have offset double disks and depth-controlling press wheels. Flexing 35 degrees between drill sections, the 2600-2S hugs ground contours.

The drill folds hydraulically from a working width of 26 feet to a transport width of 15 feet. Grain-box capacity is 3.24 bushels per foot – the highest in the industry. With the dry fertilizer option, the drill boxes can be partitioned to hold fertilizer and seed.

Seed-level indicators, v-bottom box dividers, a wide walkboard and safety lights are standard equipment. Markers, a small seeds box, point-row clutches and a monitor are available.

Vacuum Supplies Performance, Reliability

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – With a capacity range of 68 to 200 CFM per minute at 15-inch Hg, the new LVP Series vacuum pump is designed for optimum performance.

This heavy-duty pump is designed to be environmentally friendly while requiring minimum maintenance and delivering uncompromising reliability, especially during long run times.

LVP Series vacuum pump comes completely assembled and is easy to install between milkings. Residue is quickly removed via a cleaning device on each pump head. A highly-efficient distribution tank filter eliminates particles larger than 10 microns.

Of great benefit to producers and cows is the built-in noise reduction features that offers undisturbed milkings. The LVP uses no oil for sealing or lubrication and keeps air cleaner.

Case Celebrates 30 years Of Steiger Tractors

RACINE, Wis. — Case Corporation is proud to announce the 30th anniversary of Steiger® tractors. Throughout that time, innovations introduced under the Steiger name have transformed growers' expectations for high-horsepower, four-wheel-drive (4WD) tractors.

"For 30 years, the Steiger name has represented the highest quality, most productive 4WD tractors in agriculture," said Dave Duff, Case product manager for Steiger tractors. "Steiger designs have led the 4WD tractor industry because of their quality and productivity advantages."

As a way of commemorating the event, all Case IH 9300 Series tractors manufactured in 1999 will carry a special "30 years of 4WD Leadership" decal.

From the first model built by Douglas and Marie Steiger on their farm near Thief River Falls, Minn., in the winter of 1957-1958, Steiger tractors have been known for their power and performance. The popularity of that early 4WD tractor spurred the formation of the Steiger Tractor Company in Fargo, N.D., in 1969.

"The Steiger tractor line has led innovations in ease-of-use, maneuverability, comfort, and always power," said Duff. "Some of those included 12-speed powershift transmissions, electronic controls, PFC hydraulics, deluxe cabs, steerable front axles with articulated steering and, of course, higher horsepower."

In 1986, after Tenneco, Inc. purchased all Steiger assets, the company became part of the newly structured J I Case Company. In December of that year, the first red 9100 Series Steiger tractors were produced. By July of 1989, all models were painted red and carried both the Case IH and Steiger names.

One of the line's most important innovations came in 1996, when Case introduced the Case IH Quadtrac® tractor, available in either 360 or 400 horsepower.

"With a 4-track system, the unique Quadtrac design reduces the ridging associated with other track configurations and provides superior flotation with minimal slippage," Duff said. "It is the best tractor for customers who demand high productivity and less compaction in soft soil conditions."

The Case IH 9300 Series line also includes Row Crop Special tractors. Duff said the tractors are ideal for customers who need a tight turning radius, similar to that of a 2WD tractor, but also require the power of a 4WD tractor for heavy tillage field applications.

New Auger Mixer For Dairy Rations

POUND, Wis. — To produce well-blended dairy rations and minimize mixing time, consider the new Patz Model 4000 three-auger, open-top mixer.

Benfits of this mixer include:

' More ration options by mixing a wide range of dry hay, including grasses. Sharpened auger notches are angled to slice through hay with low torque. Optional through-hardened knives made from ¼ -inch Quadra-Shark™ steel are available.

• Long service life from counter-rotating upper augers with ¾ -inch fitting and lower auger with ½ -inch fitting.

• Flanged augers and stub shafts allow convenient service.

• Easy service and extra life with self-aligning auger bearings mounted outside so feed mixing does not contaminate the bearings.

To produce well-blended dairy rations and minimize mixing time, consider the new Patz Model 4000 three-auger, open-top mixer.

• Planetary gearbox reduction allows low-speed roller chain drive for less wear on chain and sprockets in enclosed oil bath.

• Choose an auger discharge or belt discharge of various lengths. An optional belt discharge can fold up for narrow profile and more access.

• Control the discharge door and discharge rate from your tractor seat.

• Improve profits by convenient weighing with choice of electronic scales.

Three mixer sizes provide capacities up to 10,000 pounds, Choose a trailer-mounted, truck-mounted, or stationary model. For larger sizes, ask about other models.

Brillion Offers One-, Two-Shank Subsoilers

BRILLION, Wis. — Agricultural producers have a subsoil tool that can be used in tight working conditions with smaller horsepower tractors.

Responding to customer demands, Brillion offers one- and two- shank subsoilers that use the same proven shanks, points and wearstrips that have been used on Brillion's larger subsoilers for years.

"One- and Two-Shank Sub-Soilers can be used by producers who need aggressive subsoiling but may be limited by tractor horsepower or working space," said Tim Geary, marketing services manager for Brillion. "We use the same components that we use in our larger Sub-Soilers."

The Two-Shank Sub-Soiler from Brillion featured bolted shank mounts that allow adjustable shank spacing. Standard shank spacing is 34 inches. Both models have 29 inches of underframe clearance for optimum trash flow.

The Model SCP-1 and SCP-2 Brillion Sub-Soilers are highly maneuverable. The close coupling to the tractor requires a minimum amount of turning space. Each model offers reversible and replaceable wear strips, and a parking stand for safe, easy placement when disengaged from the tractor. One-Shank Sub-Soilers, with an approximate weight of 227 pounds, required a Category I hitch and have a minimum 30 horsepower requirement. Two-Shank Sub-Soilers weigh approximately 450 pounds, require a Category II hitch and have a minimum 60 horsepower requirement.

Vermeer Introduces Bale Wrappers

The new Vermeer SW3000 and SW3500 bale wrappers are simple to operate, easy to maintain and built to handle high-moisture silage bales ranging from the smaller 4 feet x 4 feet bales, up to 6 foot widths and 5 foot diameters, with just one operator.

Each gives producers a high-moisture haying option that enables them to increase forage quality, plus the flexibility to take the weather out of making hay.

The economical, 3-point mounted model - SW3000 - includes a hydraulic-lift turntable that gently rolls a wrapped bale, up to 2,400 pounds, off the back of the wrapper. Optional remote control allows a single operator to start wrapping a fresh bale, stack the most recent one and then pick up a new unwrapped bale - without leaving the tractor seat.

The trailered Model SW3500 cuts field time by allowing the operator to wrap one bale while crossing the field to pick up another one. A hydraulically-powered, self-loading arm lifts and loads the bales. A hydraulic damper system gives the operator the option of gently rolling the wrapped bale on its side or on end. Ground support bracing takes the weight of the silage bale off the chassis when unloading.

Cab- or tractor-mounted hydraulic controls let the operator handle all operations from his tractor seat. An optional, programmable electronic control console automates the wrapping process and monitors bale count (per day, per field, total), revolutions per bale and more.

An easy-loading pretensioner assembly, with aluminum rollers linked with robust steel gears, creates 70 percent film stretch for maximum film utilization for a more tightly sealed, weather-resistant wrap. The pretensioner unit handles both 20 feet and 30 feet rolls; extra rolls are stored on the frame. (Both models also include 55 percent film stretch gear assemblies for operating in warmer conditions).

Hoffman Seeds Contracts With Major Producer

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) – Hoffman Seeds announced that the Lancaster based firm has contracted with Alliance production, a major seed production company headquartered in Indiana, to produce substantially all of Hoffman Seeds' corn and soybean seed products. The genetics of Hoffman Seeds' products will not change.

According to Hoffman Seeds President Fred M. Lepley, Alliance will also condition, warehouse, and ship Hoffman's seed from their Alliance's warehousing facility in Bluffton, Ind. This arrangement, Lepley said will allow Hoffman Seeds to introduce new products into the marketplace more quickly while maintaining an even greater control on quality.

In the past, Hoffman corn production was limited primarily to two locations in Illinois. With production locations in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, and Michigan, Alliance will continue meeting Hoffman Seeds' commitment of product delivery within a 48-hour time frame. Because of this arrangement, Lepley said, Hoffman Seeds has closed the Hoffman warehouse in Landisville.

"We will have 30 distribution centers throughout the Hoffman territory to respond quickly to our customers' in-season needs," said Lepley.

Hoffman Seeds has also restructured its sale force, with a focus on maximizing customer service and creating one district sales program.

Spend A Day In Paradise

MILLHEIM — Those who make even a portion of their living from the land know that a profitable bottom line requires more than good weather and fertile soil. Without a solid customer base, even the tastiest tomatoes and greenest green beans don't guarantee money in the bank.

To learn how one organic vegetable operation has successfully integrated growing and marketing, plan to spend Aug. 11 in Lancaster County at the Paradise Organics field day sponsored by the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) and Pennsylvania Certified Organic (PCO).

Paradise Organics owner Chris Petersheim, along with farm manager Bud Wimer and about a dozen other workers, cultivate four and a half acres of certified organic crops. Petersheim, in addition, handles the distribution of produce from Paradise Organics and a number of other farms to natural food stores, co-ops, and restaurants. He also purchases and distributes products from two local warehouses.

"We have a fairly large range of items," Petersheim said, explaining that some crops are planted weekly so there is a continuous supply of buyers throughout the season.

He will go into more detail about the ins and outs of marketing at the field day. Attendees will, of course, have plenty of time to spend in the field as the event begins with a farm tour. Petersheim and Wimer will illustrate the benefits of the dwarf white clover paths (no need for cultivation is one big plus), discuss insect trapping and the role of ladybugs, explain why "good fertile soil" is the key to disease-free plants, and talk about harvesting methods, the value of spreading compost, and the importance of planning how and when to plant – particularly if a continuous supply of a crop is desired.

Organics in Paradise will run from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Lunch will be available. For more information contact the PASA office at (814) 349-9856 or PCO at (814) 364-1344. Advance registration is not necessary but would be appreciated.

We Breed Champions, Too!

Well, we really don't "breed" them, but we feel each mixer that we produce is a champion in every way. We take great care in designing each machine before it is built. We also track each machine after it leaves our facility, making sure it is delivered to you on time, and ready to go to work the minute it is off the truck. We then follow the life of the Mixer, making sure that the customer is happy with the machine, long after the sale If you want a company that takes as much pride in their product as we know you do in yours, give us a call.

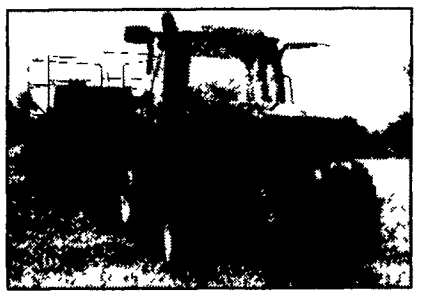
FARMERS ARE LOYAL TO HOOBER'S SALESMEN BECAUSE THEY ARE EXPERTS AT TAILORING EQUIPMENT PACKAGES



RENT

"Hoober gave me the opportunity to rent a tractor for the summer and put that money toward the purchase price of the tractor itself They bent over backwards to help me in every way possible"

Rob Seabright
West Berlin, PA

LEASE

"I get my cost per hour down to a pretty low rate and instead of having my guy in the shop fixing an old tractor, he is in the field making money"

Abe Barley
Millersville, PA

OWN

"Hoober service and know-how made my tractor a tractor worth keeping, and that's why I chose to purchase my tractor from Hoober"

Richard Bratton
Millerstown, PA

WHAT FACTORS DO YOU NEED TO CONSIDER IN DECIDING WHETHER TO:

RENT • LEASE • OWN

- Job You Need To Accomplish
- Cash-Flow Considerations
- Short-Term Needs
- Long-Term Plans
- Possible Tax Advantages

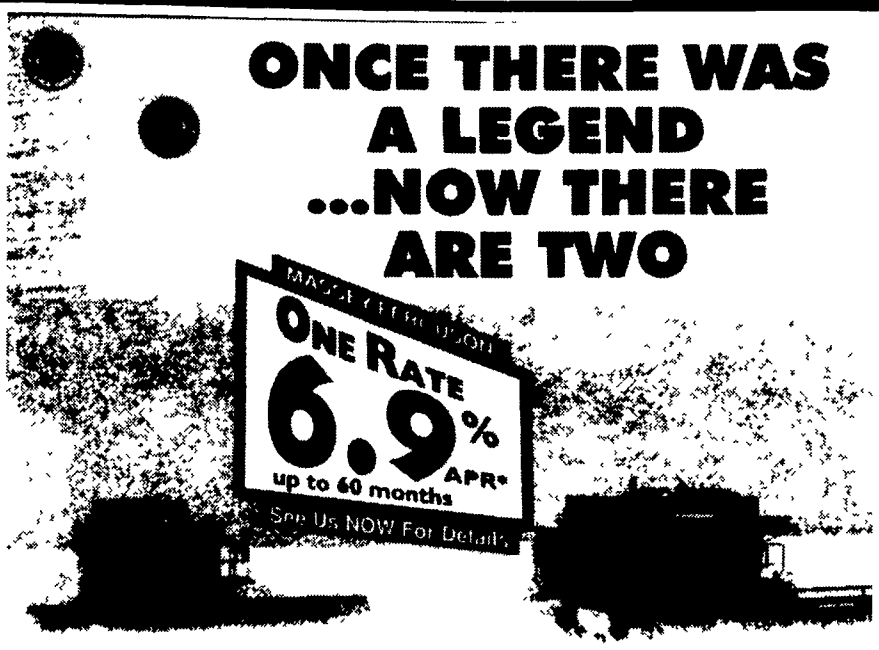
ONCE THERE WAS A LEGEND ...NOW THERE ARE TWO



FIELDSTAR READY

MF 8680 CONVENTIONAL AND MF 8780 ROTARY COMBINES

They still are. Today's MF 8680, with its 62" wide high-inertia cylinder and unique cleaning system is the most advanced and productive conventional design you can buy.

In addition, the MF 8780 Rotary redefines efficiency, sample quality, and reliability with the largest rotor, and simplest combine design in its class.

Maximize Your Yield Potential

Minimal

When it comes to improving Relative Feed Value and maximizing the Crude Protein in hay, nothing outperforms the New Idea® 5209 Disc Mower Conditioner. Its high-speed disc cutterbar glides through fields with ease, even in extreme conditions. And the unique Ti-Cor® Conditioning Rolls gently condition the stems, speeding drydown.

The 5209's reliable design keeps you mowing and conditioning year after year. With the segmented cutterbar driveshaft, a New Idea innovation, the cutterbar is truly modular, which makes for easy maintenance.

To see the disc mower conditioner that'll exceed your expectations — not your budget, visit your AGCO® New Idea dealer today.

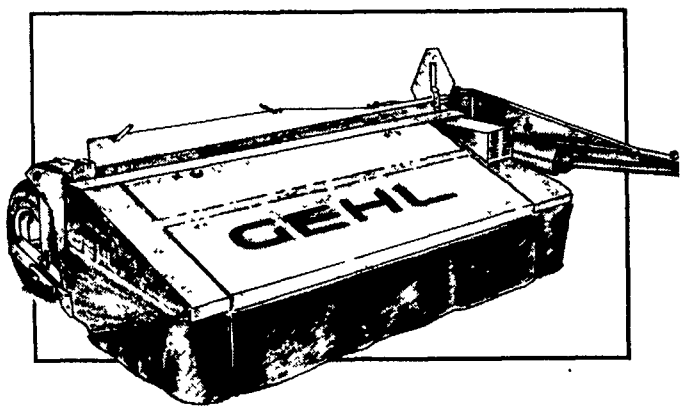
GEHL®

2345/2365 DISC CONDITIONERS



Gehl has two all-new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy, the DC2345 has 7 discs and a 9'2" cutting width; the DC2365 has 8 discs and a 10'3" cutting width. A Gehl disc mower conditioner delivers exceptional cutting and conditioning, even in your most difficult crops and conditions.

- Designed with the operator in mind
- Easy access all around
- An equal angle PTO
- Three-point flotation support

PROVEN PERFORMER

Scavenger® Spreader

Gehl's Scavenger® Spreader delivers the performance you need year after year, with increased durability and outstanding application control. All thanks to the following features.

- Heavy-duty round core auger with segmented paddles to blend manure. Powered both up and down to ram through heavy loads and break up bridging.
- Special "V" tank design to handle solid, heavy bedded, semi-solid, self-leveling and liquid manure.
- Adjustable auger and expeller speeds spread more types of manure.
- Variflow™ discharge featuring square-tooth expeller paddles for smooth,e ven spreading at the rate you choose.
- Improved drive system with heavier final drive chains and enhanced idler system.

ADAMS

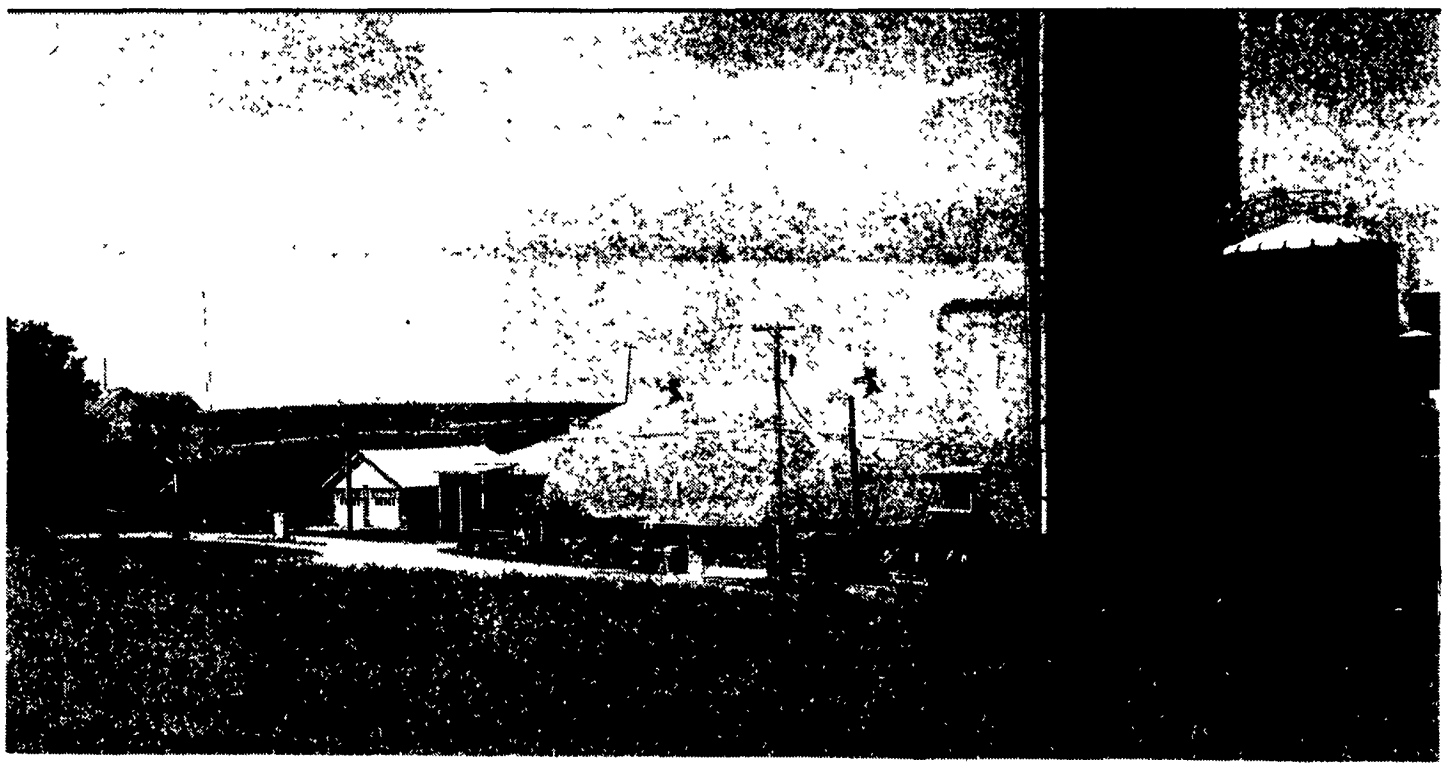
Dairy of Distinction

Yellow Buttercup Farm, East Berlin

The pleasant name for a farm, Yellow Buttercup, owned by Larry and Yzonne Mummert of East Berlin in Adams County came from a story book Buttercup Farm that Yzonne had as a child. Besides farming 700 to 800 acres they have a farm market near the farm called Buttercup Farm market. Their registered Holstein herd of 180 cows has a rolling herd average of 24,900 lbs. A TMR feeding program utilizes the homegrown crops on the farm. Located south of East Berlin, they like the farm life to teach their children responsibility and to see ahead. Being together is an important way to raise a family.

ARMSTRONG

Dairy of Distinction



Ridgeview Farms, Templeton

Roland and Eileen Barrett started to farm in 1947 and over the years several farms were bought and others rented until now they and their sons Ed and Jerry and families farm 1200 acres in Kellersburg, Armstrong County. They milk 120 Holsteins and have additional replacement young stock. They feed haylage and high moisture corn. The milking is done in a conventional tie stall barn and cows are moved in and out from another freestall barn. They say it takes iots of work and patience to farm and you don't have time to do much else but take care of the cows. But they like it that way.

BERKS

Dairy of Distinction

Show-Top Farms, Alburtis

The Schantz family Dairy of Distinction traces back to the late 40's when the present herd of 170 milk cows was started from Burd Schantz's FFA project. Burd and his wife Joyce went to farming, and today their son David and his wife Kathy and children Megan 14, Matthew 12, and Nathan 6, continue the family farming tradition. They farm 600 acres of corn, alfalfa, soybeans, barley, wheat, and orchard grass. The have both tie and free stalls and have three production groups. The children are active in 4-H and are headed into vocational agriculture. David and Kathy are active in farm organizations. David is president of the Berks County Holstein Association.

BERKS Dairy of Distinction

Poplardrive Holsteins, Alburtis

The Latshaw Dairy of Distinction located near Alburtis in Berks County, has been in the family since about 1833. Earl and Joy Latshaw took over the farm fourty-one years ago and worked with the soil conservation service to built up the soil. New farm buildings have also been added with the hope to pass on a better farm than what was received. The children are the 5th generation to live on the farm. They are son Bruce, son Mark, daughter Nancy and her husband David Biler who have Steven and Laura, daughter Jane, and daughter Linda and her husband Michael Moyer who have Jenifer. Earl as a small boy wanted to be a dairy farmer and he has spent a lifetime doing what he always wanted to do. The barn in the picture was built in 1833, but a misfortunate fire destroyed it on Memorial Day this year after the photograph was taken. Plans are to build a new larger barn on the site, but naturally the old barn has emotional attachment for the Latshaw family.

DAIRY OF DISTINCTION AWARD WINNERS

Thanks for making your farm a place of beauty for passerbys to enjoy. Your hard work in the upkeep of your farm does not go unnoticed. Farms like yours not only add value to the community but also influence the public's perception of farmers. A well-kept farm is admired and appreciated by many.

Congratulations for a job well done.

BERKS

Dairy of Distinction

Del-Jame Farm, Hamburg

The Adams family farm located near Hamburg in Berks County can be traced back to William Penn. Sometimes it came down through the wife's side, but the lineage is continuous. Today, James H. and Delores and their sons James P. and Jan and the boy's Uncle Dennis are involved with the farm. They farm 600 acres of corn, soybeans, and alfalfa to feed 100 head of registered Holstein milk cows and corresponding young stock. They house the cows in a free stall barn and milk in a carousel milking parlor. They believe farming is the ultimate challenge. The uncertainty is evident, and if you can make it farming you can make it anywhere, they believe.

Dairy of Distinction

BLAIR

Pleasant View Farms, Martinsburg

The Rodney and Gretchen Metzler family farm 3,150 acres in Blair and Bedford Counties and milk 1,400 Holsteins in a double 25 milking parlor. The Metzler's great grandfather moved to the farm from Lancaster County in 1898. Today, Rodney and Gretchen are in partnership with their two sons and their families. Son Troy and his wife Jeniffer have Jenna 6 mo., and Marshell and his wife Holly have Caulen 17 mo. In April of last year the herds from their three farms were combined into one new facility and milking went 3x. The herd was increased from 700 to 1,400 with the same amount of labor. Rodney says the new operation takes a lot of management but it certainly has increased efficiency. While the size has increased they are still very much a family oriented farm.

BUCKS

Meadow Breeze Farm, Chalfont

Meadow Breeze Farm, a new Dairy of Distinction located east of Doylstown in Bucks County, has been in the Metzler family for nearly 100 years. Today, Walter and Mary Ellen Detweiler and their son Dale and his wife Pam farm 450 acres that include a number of small plots. Of course they are farming in a more populated part of the state. They milk 50 cows with a herd average of 19,500 lbs. of milk. They have tried to keep the debt load under control by only borrowing money for capital investments and not for operating expenses. The present family owners bought the farm in 1979 and Walter gives his family a lot of credit for helping to keep the farm going. Walter and Mary Ellen have two other sons, Anthony and Laverne. Walter has been farming since he was a small boy and really worked full time here since he was 15 years old. He says farming is in his blood.

Dairy of Distinction CAMBRIA

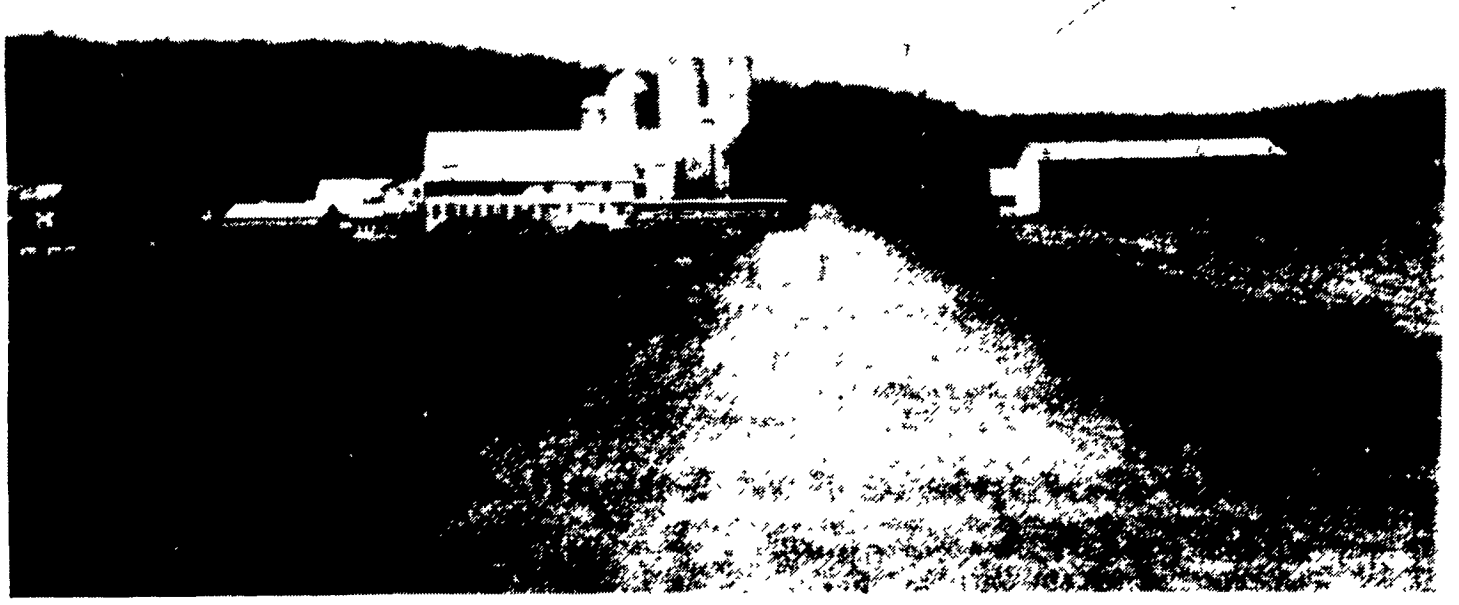
Valewood Farm, Loretto

The real reason for a Dairy of Distinction farm is to give consumers a good impression of where their dairy products come from. Valewood Farm owned by the Itle Family at Loretto, use the program to its fullest extent. Not only do they farm 600 acres and milk 200 Holsteins that average more than 25,000 lbs. of milk, they bottle the milk and run a home delivery business with 5,000 accounts in Cambria and Blair Counties. The farm came into the family in 1915 and they started processing milk in 1933. Today eight Idle siblings have a part in the operation of Valewood Farm. They are Bill, Jan, Joe, Matt, Pat, Tim Andy, and Dan.

Dairy of Distinction CENTRE

Fern Valley Farm, Spring Mills

The Miller family have been on Fern Valley Farm as long as the records go in the court house. That's in 1837. Before that, the land was in Northumberland County. Melvin and Geraldine Miller and their children Glen and Norma are the sixth and seventh generation on the farm. They milk Holsteins in a tie stall barn and move cows in and out at milking time. They farm 350 acres and the farm is located nine miles east of Center Hall along route 192 in Centre County. They say farming is hard work and you must enjoy what your are doing. But this is true of every occupation.



Dairy of Distinction CHESTER

Harlen Farm, Cochranville

Harold and Ellen Mae Ranck bought their new Dairy of Distinction in 1965 when they moved from Lancaster County to Cochranville in Chester County. Today they are in partnership with their son Glenn. They milk 100 head of registered Holsteins that have a rolling average of more than 23,000 lbs. of milk. They raise their own forages and grains on 300 acres, have their own hammer mill, and use a TMR feeding program. They house the cows in a tie stall barn. When you ask Harold about farming he will talk of the enjoyment of beautiful sky, open fields, and watching the crops grow. The life is busy and sometimes hardships arise, but the joy of the Lord's handy work makes it worth everything.

Dairy of Distinction

FRANKLIN

Barben Farms, Mercersburg

Bennett and Barbara Angle combined their names to form the prefix for the Holstein farm that has been in the Angle family since 1794. The family history goes back nine generations with the present Angles being the 7th generation on the farm. Their son Bradley 19 works on the farm and they have two married daughters. Two farms give them 267 acres to farm and produce corn silage and hay for a TMR mix to feed their 85 milking Holsteins that average 19,600 lbs. of milk. They say it's a challenge to see what they can do with the family farm since they had the opportunity to take it over from Dad. And while they are always busy, they know that every business takes a lot of work and a lot of time.

FULTON

Mel-Lee Farms, Needmore

Donald and Faye Leese own Mel-Lee Farms located in Fulton County, five miles north of Needmore. The farm has been in the family for more than 100 years. Donald was orphaned at five years of age and sent to a home in Fulton County. This rural setting along with the experience of both his grandparents being farmers caused Donald to have a lifelong appreciation for the farm. He married Faye, who had deep roots in the farm and now they have their own family all close by the 350 acres they have bought over the years. Their son Rodney teaches school but is also on the farm. Daughter Kay is married to Mark Bradshaw and the Bradshaws have Lacey 19 mo. Daughter Karen is married to Chris Palmer, and the Palmers have Jenna 4 and Lindsey 9 mo. The Leeses are really pleased to have their family all close by the farm.

Dairy of Distinction

HUNTINGDON

Taylor Farm, Warriors Mark

Allen and Violet Taylor and their family have a new Dairy of Distinction located just north of Warriors Mark in Huntingdon County. Their farm is 222 acres and they farm corn and alfalfa/grass to feed their 70 milking Holsteins that average 20,000 lbs. of milk. The farm has been in the family for 90 years. They have a wonderful family that includes Steve, Kimberly and Frank Germino who have Jessica 17 and Matthew 15; Vicky and Brian Supenis who have Brian Allen 9 and Alyssa 5; and Carol and Charles Fetters who have Joshua 4. Allen says he has lived on the farm for 66 years and has been married to a wonderful wife for 45 years and the farm is in his blood. You have to be a "jack of all trades" and some days things don't go right but he still likes farming and looks forward to having a century farm in the year 2011.

Lakevue Hollow Farm, Huntingdon

William and Carol Couch Sr., have a new Dairy of Distinction in Huntingdon County that has been in the family since the late 1940's. They farm 450 acres of corn and hay to feed their 100 mostly registered Holstein cows. The cows are housed in tie stalls and milked in a parlor. The family includes John and his wife Marylou who have Travis 19, Mark 14, and Matt 12; Bill Jr. and his wife Ann who have Crystal 21, Stephnie 20, Lillian 18, and Nathan 16; and Connie and her husband Charles Snyder who have Wendy 23 and Carl 21. The Couch family like farming for the good family opportunity. Milk prices have been moving around a lot of late, but the farm has still been a good place to make a living.

Dairy of Distinction

HUNTINGDON

Gibboney Farms, Huntingdon

The Gibboney Dairy of Distinction near Huntingdon has been in the family for more than 100 years. The registered Holstein herd of 65 milk cows averages 23,600 lbs. of milk and has a classification of 103.7 BAA that includes 3 EX and 15 VG. Steve and Julia Gibboney are the 5th generation on the farm. Steve's parents Bob and Emma and uncles Dale and Bill are involved with the operation. And Dennie Darmit has been an employee for more than 20 years. Steve and Julia have three children, Tara, a student at Penn State, Justin a senior in high school, and Tyler 6. They farm 225 acres and utilize a number of consultants to help with management of crops, equipment, and the dairy herd. Steve likes farming because he likes to work outside, and its part of his heritage.

INDIANA

Brookside Dairy, Homer City

Brookside Dairy has been in the George family since 1772. William George is the sixth generation on the farm, his twin sons Kevin and Keith are partners in the farm operation, and their children are the 8th generation. The Georges farm 1,500 acres and milk 375 Holsteins in a double 10 milking parlor. The herd average is 20,500 lbs. of milk. William has always been fascinated and challenged by the farming operation. He says the same management principles are true today as they were 50 years ago. You need to watch every detail from making sure the cows have a good water supply, are eating enough hay, and have enough good bedding. New innovations such as BST have come along, but the need for good management has never changed.

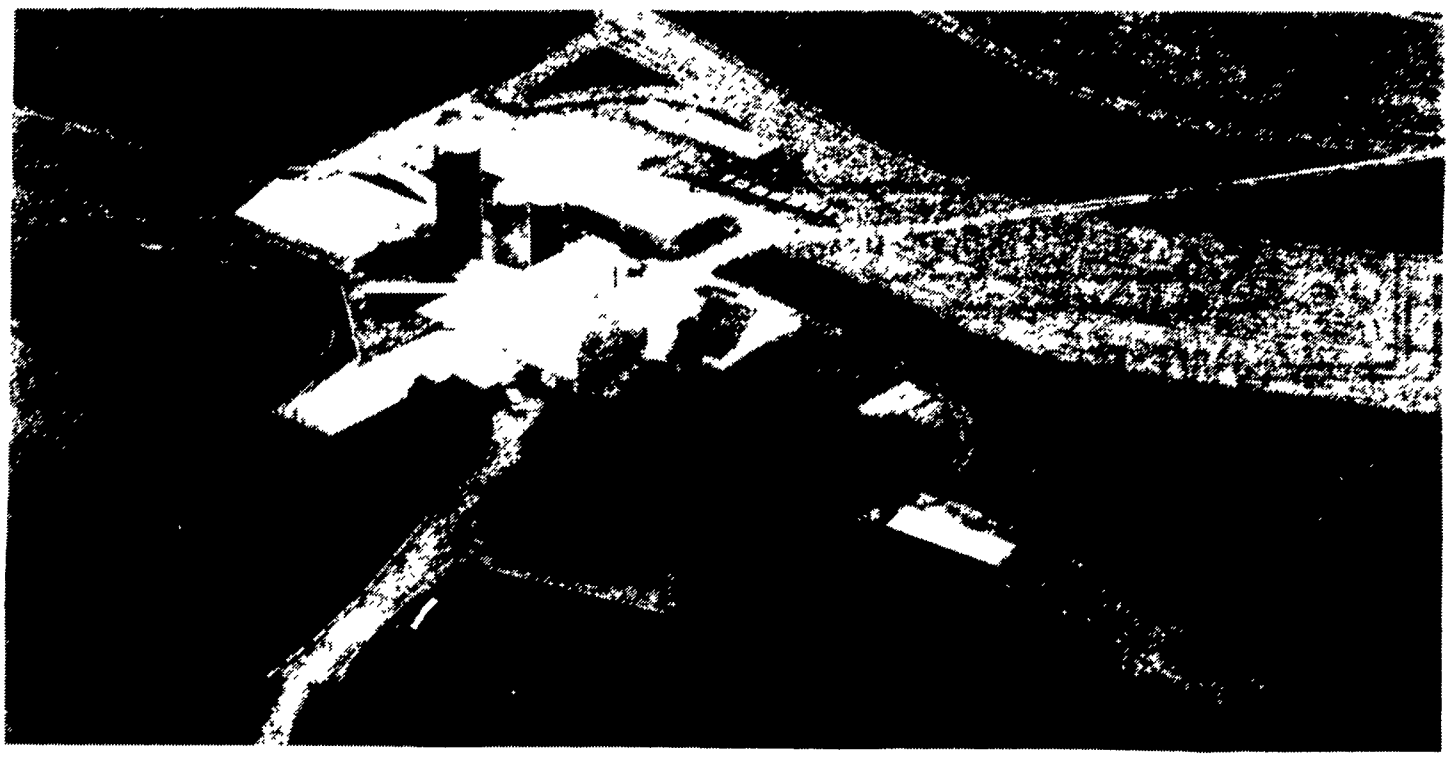
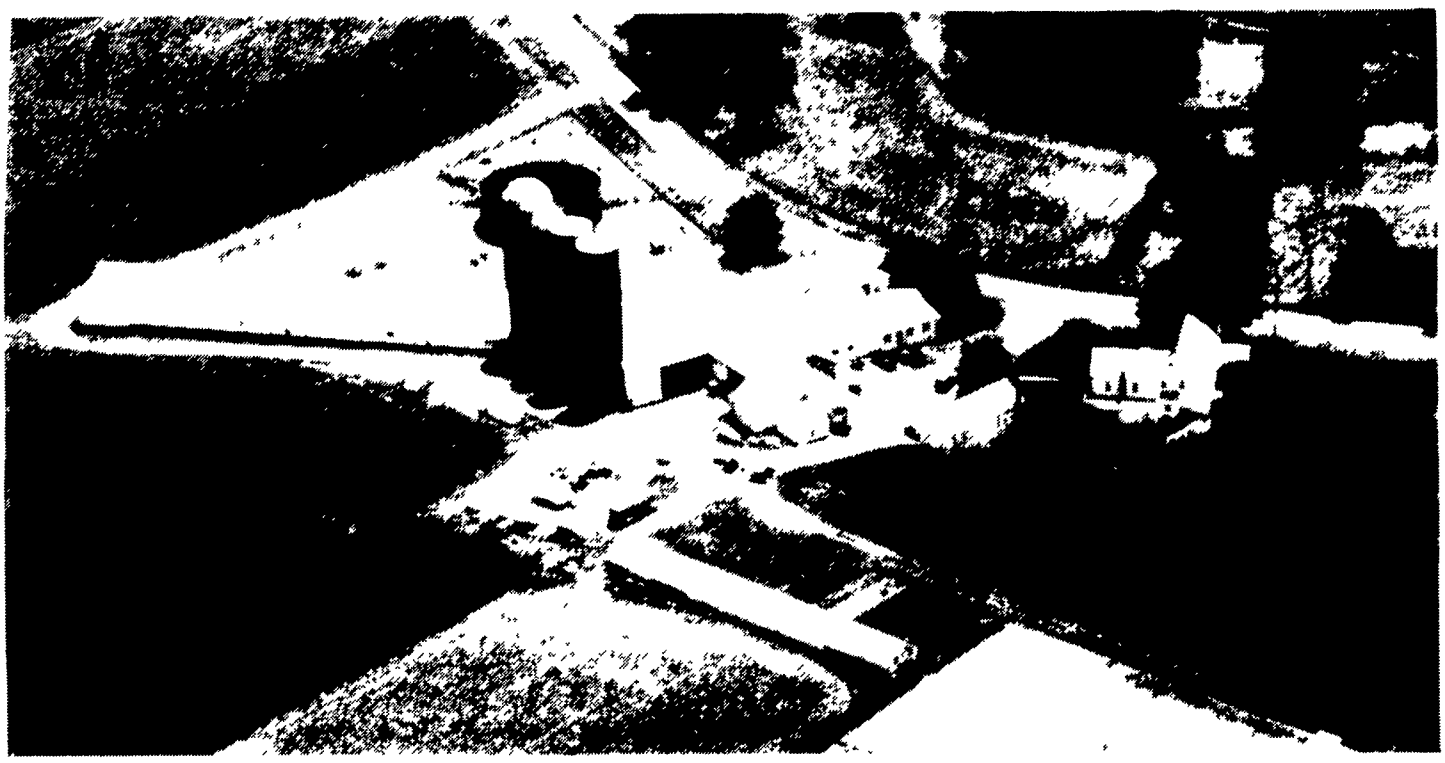
LANCASTER

Melody Meadows, Mt. Joy

This new Dairy of Distinction is owned by the John and Marian Groff family and is located south of Salunga in Lancaster County. The farm came into the present family in 1960 and the Groff's seven children grew up here. They are all grown and away from home. They milk 80 Holsteins most of which are registered, and they farm 160 acres of corn and alfalfa with some double crop rye to bale in the spring. John says he has enjoyed to have his own business of farming. They use Melody Meadows as their farm name and herd prefix.





Hammercreek Holsteins, Lititz

Paul and Brenda Zimmerman's new Dairy of Distinction located just north of Lititz in Lancaster County has been in the family for nearly 50 years. They farm 130 acres and milk 80 Holsteins that average 19,000 lbs. of milk. Their children are Sonya 17, Regina 14, and Darren 11. In addition to enjoying farm life for the cows and calves, these children get to play with exotic animals because the Zimmermans have a petting zoo on the farm for school classes and others to visit. They also take their animals to fairs and give pony rides.

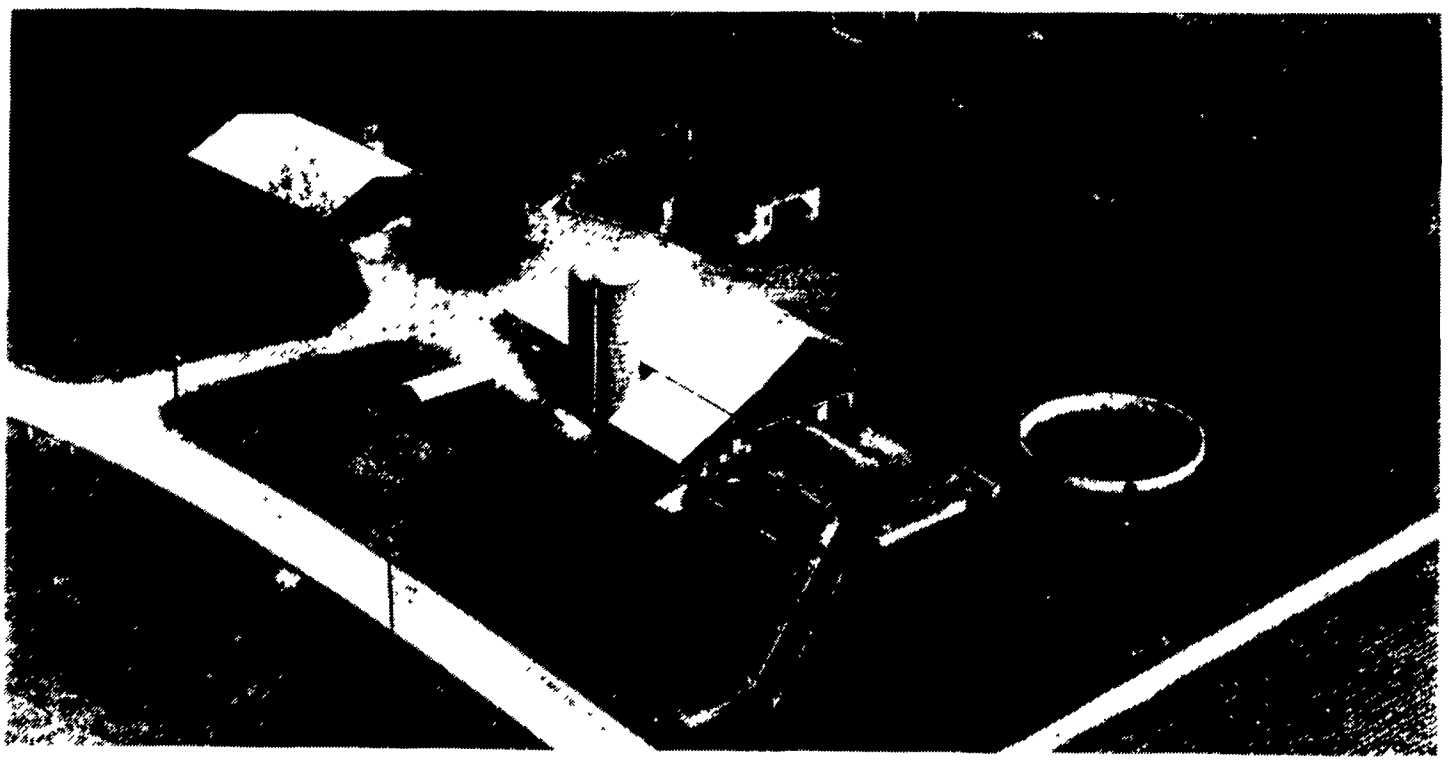
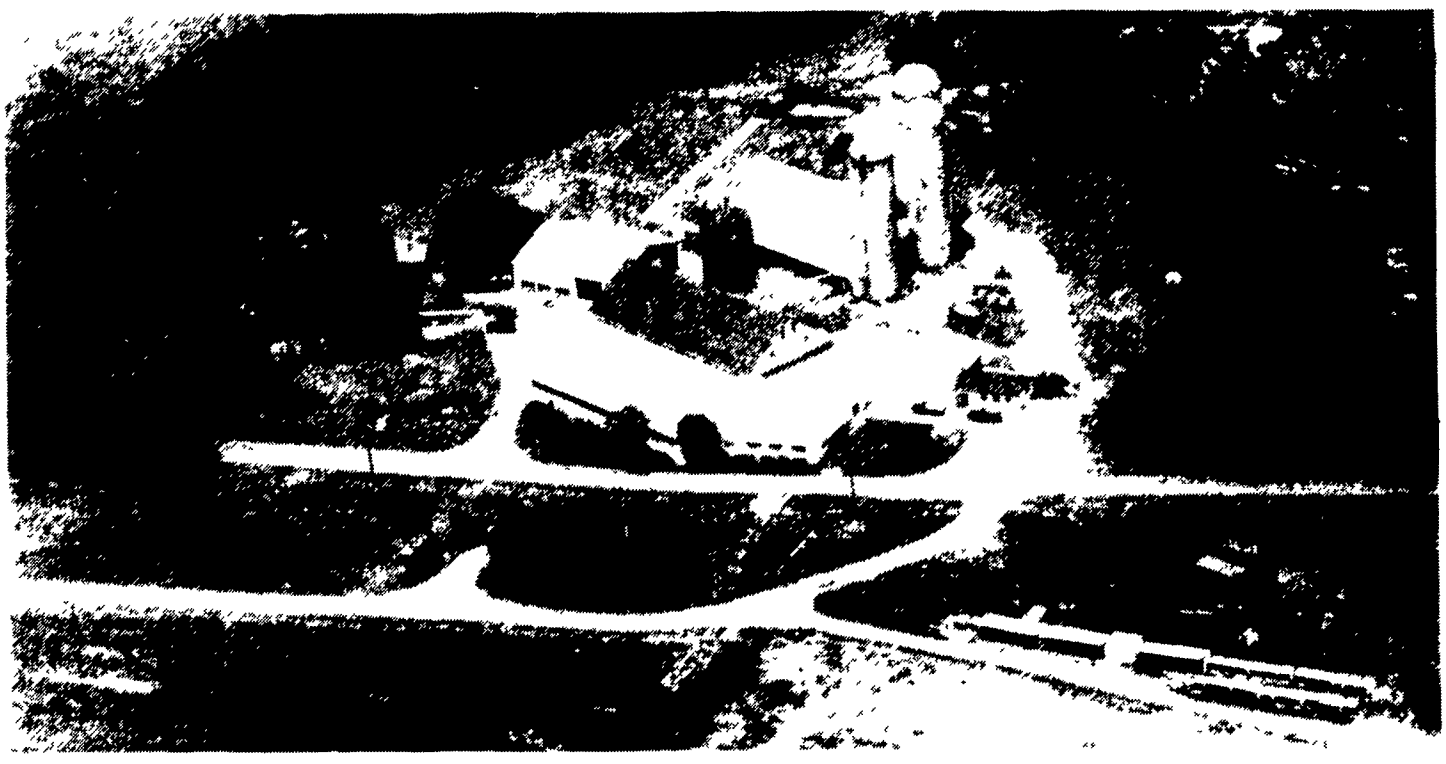
G & S Aument Farm, Quarryville

Glenn and Judy, and Steve and Kathy Aument have the new Dairy of Distinction farm located seven miles south of Quarryville. The farm has been in the family for 33 years. They farm 170 acres with corn and alfalfa as the major crops to feed their 61 milking Holsteins and corresponding young replacement stock. Steve says he really enjoys farming because of the animals, the land, and the freedom from a boss. Steve and Kathy have four children, Jeniffer 7, Matthew 5, Amanda 3, and Andrew 1.

Bart-Dell Farm, Quarryville

The Bart-Dell dairy farm owned by Levi and Sarah Glick is a new Dairy of Distinction in Lancaster County. Located east of Quarryville, The Glicks have owned their 50-acre farm since 1974. They milk 50 registered Holsteins that average 21,800 lbs. of milk. With the limited acreage, Levi said it is important to take care of details, especially in cost control of things you need to buy. The Glick children are Mary 23, Hannah 22, Jonathan 20, Ruth 18, Amos Lee 16, and Elizabeth 13. The Glick family also have a furniture making business at the farm.

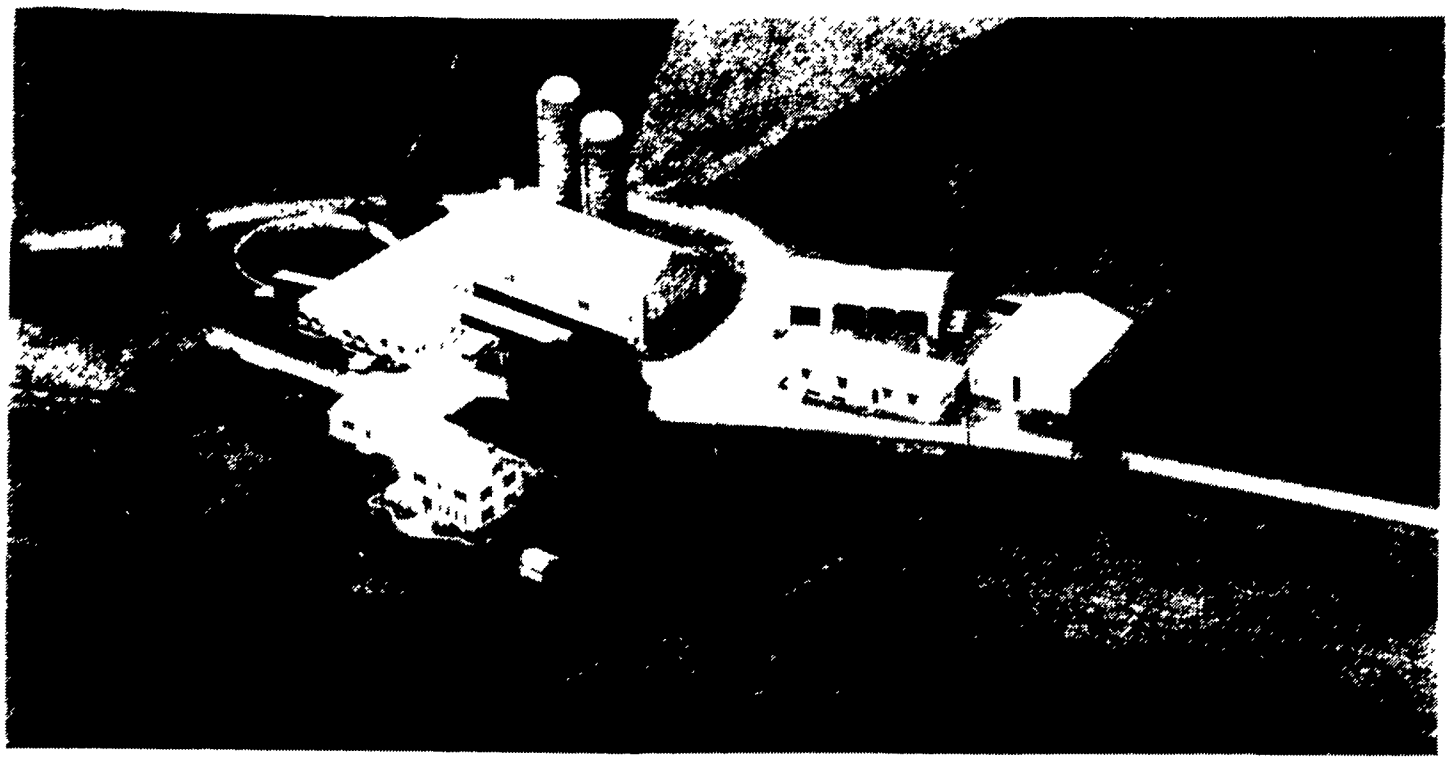




Rocky Acre Farms, Mt. Joy

The Dairy of Distinction called Rocky Acre Farm, is owned by Galen and Eileen Benner and farmed by son Arlin and his wife Deborah. They farm 450 acres and milk 360 Holsteins. Arlin took over the dairy cows in 1990. Prior to that Galen had milked cows for 25 years. They have operated a bed and breakfast tourist home at the farm for many years. Galen says the farm is a good place to raise the children, but you must be careful it is not all work and no play. Their farmhouse historically was a stop on the "underground railroad" for the slaves. The Benner boys facetiously claim they were the modern slaves there when they grew up. But they now admit the farm was a good place to grow up, even if they don't want to farm.

LANCASTER

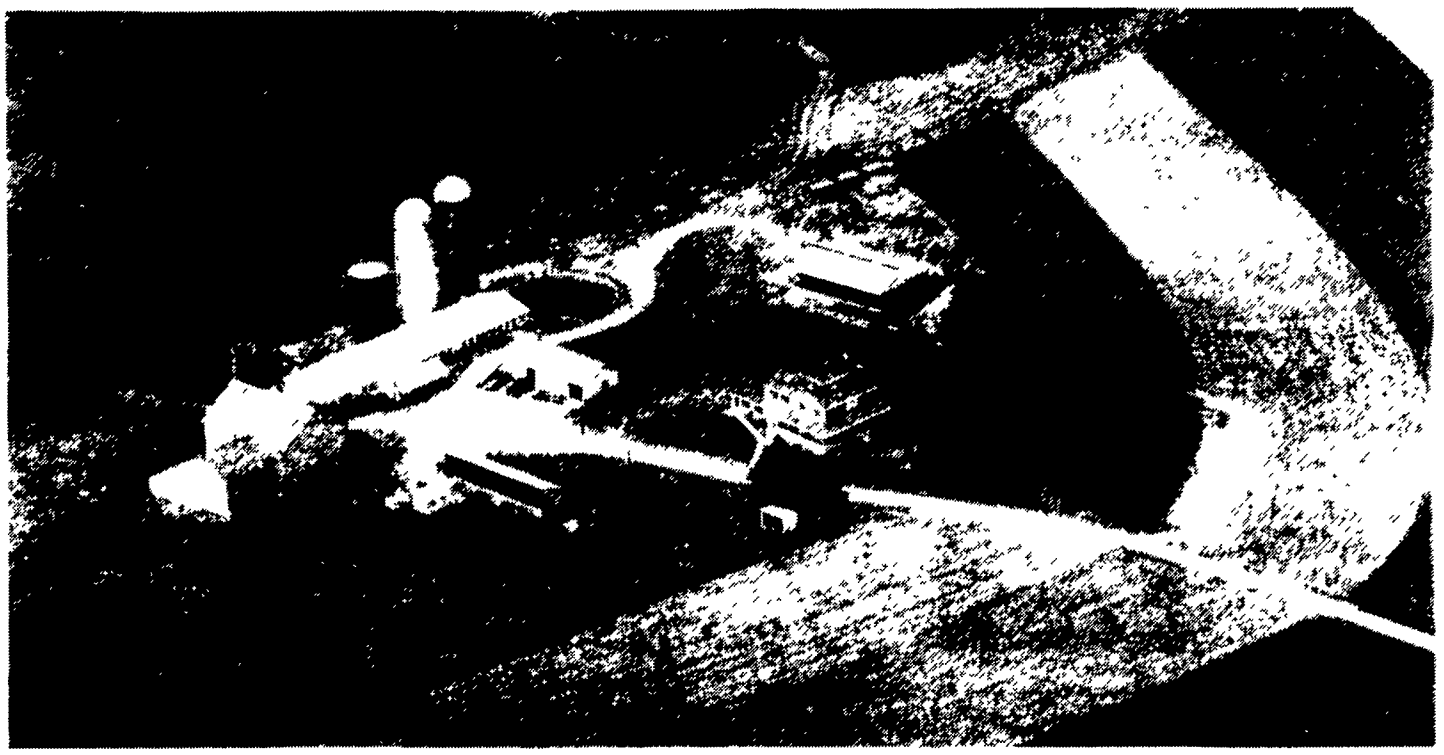


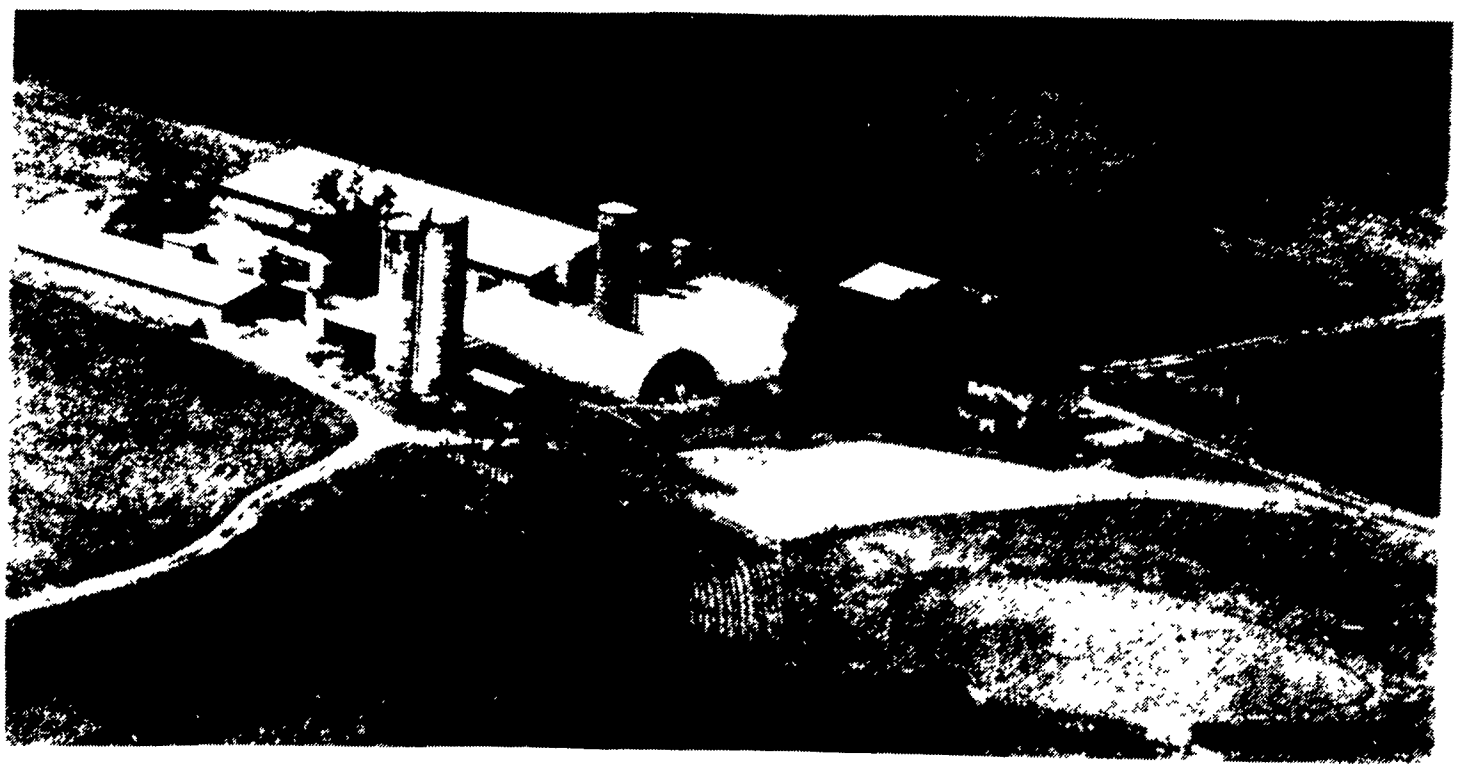
Le-An Valley Farm, Ephrata

This new Dairy of Distinction farm in Lancaster County is owned by Lester and Ruth Ann Gehman. The farm that has been in the family for 73 years is located north of Ephrata. They farm 70 acres and milk 60 Holstein cows in a tie stall barn with a pipe line milker. Tunnel ventilation, and stall mats have been added for cow comfort. While they do not feed as aggressively as some dairy farmers do, they use a TMR feeding system. Lester likes the cows and watching the crops grow. He has tried other work, but farming is really what he knows, and what he enjoys. The Gehmans have two children, Cheryl 18, and Brent 16.

Welk-Shade Holsteins, Quarryville

The Welk-Shade Holstein Dairy of Distinction is owned by Mark and Kristina Welk. The farm has been in the family for more than 50 years. Welk-Shade is well know for fine dairy cattle with not only good production of 22,000 lbs. of milk rolling herd average on 64 cows, but also wonderful type with 13 cows classified Excellent and 35 Very Good. They farm 217 acres to grow crops for the dairy herd. In addition, the grow pumpkins as a cash crop. The Welks enjoy the challenge of farming and especially like to see the cow families develop, always looking for that really great one. Mark and Kristina have two children, Nicole 9, and Joey 6.



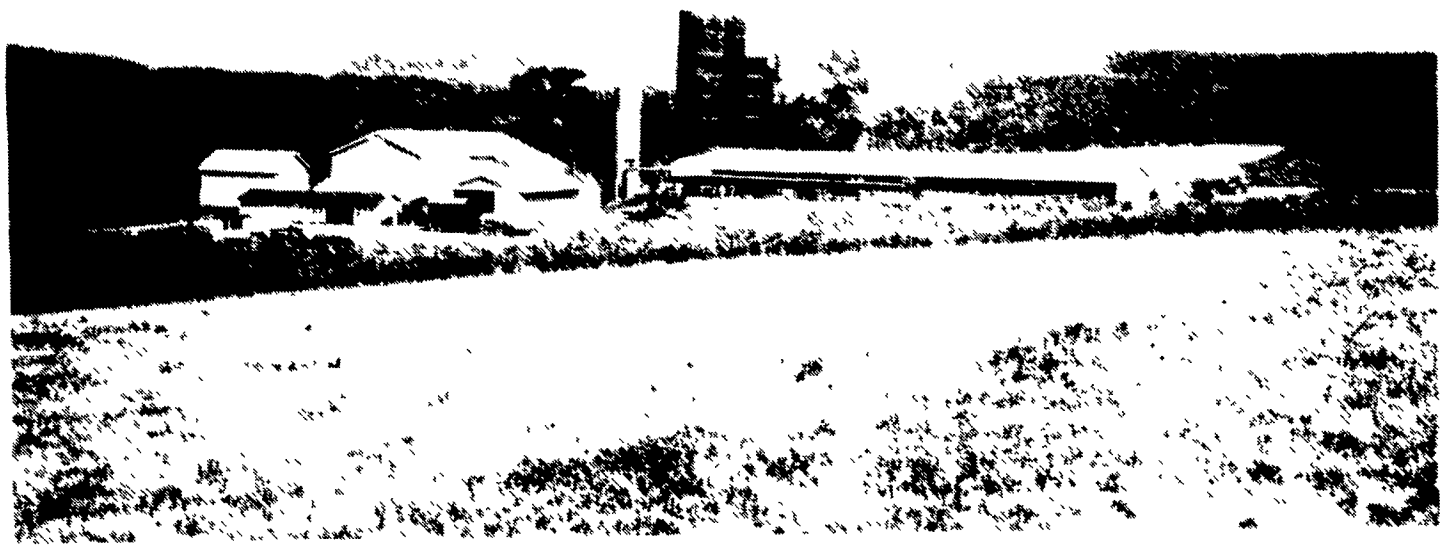


Ca-Lill Farm, Paradise

Keith and Cheryl Beiler have taken over the family farm that is now a Dairy of Distinction located southwest of Gap in Lancaster County. They farm 200 acres and milk 50 registered Holsteins that average 22,800m 715p 825f. Classification in 105 BAA and they have 3 EX and 15 VG cows in the herd. The Beilers enjoy the freedom that farm life affords and they like the farm to raise their twin two-year-old daughters Alyssa and Adrian. In addition to the dairy they have 2,700 hogs on contract.

Dairy of Distinction

LEBANON



Shuey Farms, Annville

The Thomas and Lucille Shuey Dairy of Distinction is located near Annville. in Lebanon County. The farm has been in the family for more than 40 years, and they milk 85 Holsteins that are housed in free stalls and milked in a parlor. Their children and grand children include, Thomas and Cherita Shuey Jr. who have Thomas III, Brent, and Troy; Robert and Laura Shuey who have Reid 5; Michael and Amy Shuey who have Michael 12, and Luke 9 mo.; Barbara Brandt who has Gwen 10, Justin 6, and Shauna 3; and Debra and Timothy Shuey who have Kelly 13 mo. They believe the farm is a good place to raise a family because the children are not "cooped up".

LEHIGH

Winding Brook Farm
New Tripoli

This new Dairy of Distinction located near Lynnville, in Lehigh County, was purchased by the family in 1972. Today, Andrew Haverkamp just milks cows and has someone else do the field work. This saves on equipment investment and gives him time to work with the cows. He milks 42 registered Holsteins that average 30,000 lbs. of milk and many finish individual 305 records of 35,000 to 37,000 lbs. The cows are fed TMR in a single group, with some top dress. Andrew believes if you keep good feed in front of the cows and keep the cows happy they will milk. He has been working this operation more than two years.

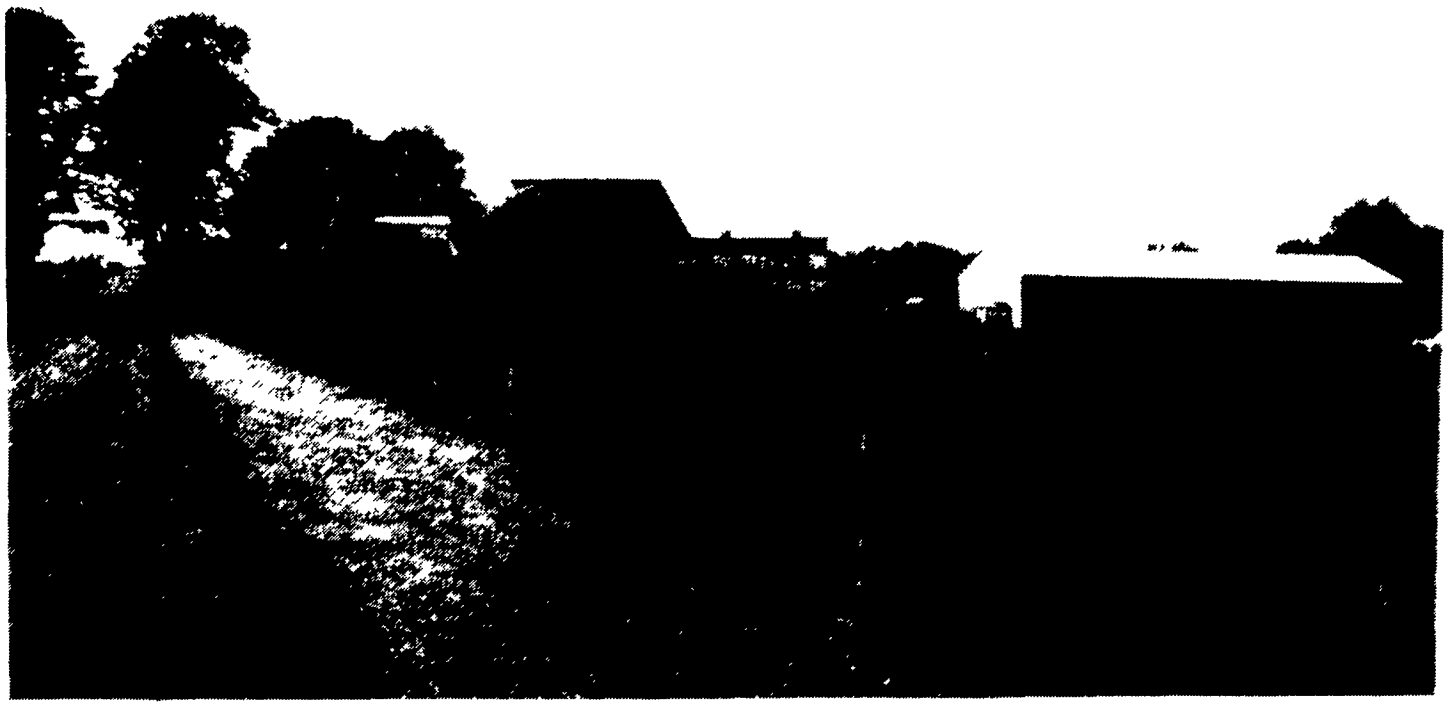
LYCOMING



Fra-Ley Farm, Muncy

Harold and Virginia Fraley and son Adam 23, and Amanda 21, are the owners of Fra-Ley Farm in Lycoming County near Muncy. They are well known for their show heifers having an All American several years ago and last year Ty-Ly-U Jackpot Pride was the All Pennsylvania senior calf. They farm 125 acres and milk 60 Holstein cows in a tie-stall barn. They bought the farm 13 years ago and enjoy keeping the farm going. They also have an auction business on the side.

Dairy of Distinction

MCKEAN

Irons Farm, Smethport

James and Judith Larson and their children Jeff 14, and Jason 12, farm the Irons Farm that has been in the family for generations. Located just west of Smethport, they farm 400 acres and milk 60 Registered Holsteins and 30 Registered Brown Swiss. They especially like the Brow Swiss for their calmness and likability. The farm is located in a more remote area in McKean County near large areas of woodland. This gives the Larsons a pleasant working environment though they sometimes have trouble getting services they need. They also farm because of their mutual love for the cows and the land.

Dairy of Distinction

MERCER

Lakeland Dairy Farms, New Wilmington

The McFarland family has owned Lakeland Dairy Farm, located near New Wilmington in Mercer County since 1868. Today the seventh generation of the family lives there. Donald & Ruth McFarland bought the home place in 1969 and the family recently bought another farm nearby that was also a McFarland family farm. Donald and Ruth's children are Bradley, Jeffrey, and Barbara. Bradley and his wife Debra have four children, Zachary 15, Garrett 13, Shane 9, and Ashley 3. Jeffrey and his wife Susan have four children, Joshua 14, Justin 13, Melinda 11, and Jason 6. The family ownes 258 acres on the two farms and farm a total of 500 acres with rented ground. They milk 250 Holsteins and are in the process of expanding to 500 cows. Grandpa and Grandma McFarland love animals, the land, and especially the family. They love to have the children and grandchildren around on the farm and are pleased to have a legacy to pass on to the family.

Amazing Grace Dairy, Greenville

Amazing Grace Dairy located southwest of Greenville in Mercer County came into existence in 1991 when Rick and Tammy Miklos decided to go into farming for themselves. They started from scratch and now, they and their children Ricky 12, and Reba 10, farm 370 acres and milk 70 Holsteins in a conventional barn. Computer feeders are set to operate six times per day. The herd average is 23,800 and they have just started to use BST with excellent results. Both Rick and Tammy grew up on a dairy farm so they knew life on the farm is not easy. But they wanted to farm. And so they look at farming as a luxury and believe they have more independence and more family life because they have chosen to farm.

Dairy of Distinction

SCHUYLKILL

Dale-Lee-H Holsteins, Tamaqua

There have been registered Holsteins at the Heisler family farm for many years. Carl and Majorie Heisler had a good herd of registered Holsteins and now Dale and Lee Ann Heisler continue the tradition with the addition of a few red and white Holsteins. Right now they have two red and whites milking but they have a good number of heifers coming on. They milk 95 cows that average 21,386m 817f 694p. The cows are housed in a free stall barn and milked in a parlor. The first calf heifers are housed in tie stalls and milked in the parlor. This helps to train the heifers to the system. The farm has been in the family more than 100 years. The Heislers children are Brian, Laura, Dale Lee and his wife Kristy, and Bruce. The farm is located five miles west of Tamaqua in Schuylkill County.

Dairy of Distinction

SNYDER

Tri-Valley Farms, Port Trevorton

Bernard and Phyllis Shaffer farm 550 acres south of Port Trevorton in Snyder County. They have named the farm Tri-Valley and milk 70 Holsteins and raise corn, alfalfa, oats, wheat, and soybeans. They grind the grain on the farm and balance the feed with homegrown forages. Their children are the 5th generation on the farm. Son Kenneth and his wife Dawn work on the farm and daughter Sherry is married to Don Hess and they have six children, Jared 10, Jenette 8, Julianna 6, Josiah 4, Judith 3, and Junitta 5 mo. Bernard says he farms because he really enjoys it.

Dairy of Distinction

SOMERSET

Knepper Brothers Dairy, Markleton

The Knepper Brothers have a Dairy of Distinction located 14 miles south of Somerset. Actually, it's a second generation Dairy of Distinction because the brothers' parents had received the designation in the early 1980's when the program first started in Pennsylvania. Now Kerry and Keith and his wife Georgann and children Cassandra 13 and Hillary 12, took over the farm in January of this year and they applied for the designation as required by the program to keep the records up to date. They farm 450 acres and milk 110 cows that have just recorded the rolling herd average milestone of 20,000 lbs. of milk. The brothers have tried other jobs but they always came back to the farm because they just like the cows and they like the farm.

Laurel Highland Farm, Rockwood

The Laurel Highland Farm is now a Dairy of Distinction for the Taylor family. In the family since 1844, Larry and Joyce Taylor and son Drew do the farming of their 400 acres. Larry's parents, Kenneth and Ruth Taylor are also still active on the farm. They house 80 Holstein milk cows in a free stall barn and milk in a tie-stall barn. They believe farming is a good way to live because you get to live by our own decisions. They like to make quality feed and take good care of the cows. The farm is located east of Rockwood in Somerset County.

SUSQUEHANNA

Ransomed Ransom Dairy, Nicholson

Levi and LuAnn Ransom have named their new Dairy of Distinction, The Ransomed Ransom Dairy. Located Northeast of Nicholson in Susquehanna County, the farm has been in the family since 1850. They farm 340 acres to raise crops to feed 100 Holstein dairy cows and young replacement stock. The herd average is more than 26,000 lbs. of milk. Their children are Bradley and his wife Jill Ransom, Timothy, and Aaron. The Ransoms have farming as a way of life. Levi has tried other jobs but says farming is what he was born and raised into and it is ingrained into him.

TIOGA

D & D Farms, Wellsboro

Dave and Donna Cleveland live on the family farm located alone route 287 six miles south of Wellsboro in Tioga County. The farm came into the family in 1942. They farm 330 acres of corn, alfalfa, and oats to feed their Holstein dairy herd that averages 21,000 lbs. of milk. The have one daughter Brani who is 17 years old. They like farming because you are not always doing the same job every day and they like to live in the beautiful country near the mountains.

WAYNE

Odell Farm, Prompton

The Odell family farm located four miles west of Honesdale on route six has been in the family for nearly 100 years. Janet and the late John "Buck" Odell have created a legacy of farming that shows in a close knit family that always worked well together. While the children have full time jobs, since their father's death three years ago, they hated to see the farm go, so they have rallied around their mother to farm the 225 acres and milk the Holstein and Jersey dairy herd. They buy all the grain and make hay to feed the cows. The family members are Michael and his wife Cindy who have Brittney 4 and Lauren 1 mo., Dale and his wife Christa who have Jacob 2, and Kip and his wife Andrea.

S.I. FEEDERS

Designed To Minimize Feed Loss!

This is done with functional slant bars, low set design, proper pan depth, feed saving edges, and other concepts to reduce waste.

The S.I. Feeder Wagons have the versatility to feed any type of grain, forage, or even a total mixed ration,. Four foot high inserts are options to increase load capacity and to control the downward flow of feed.

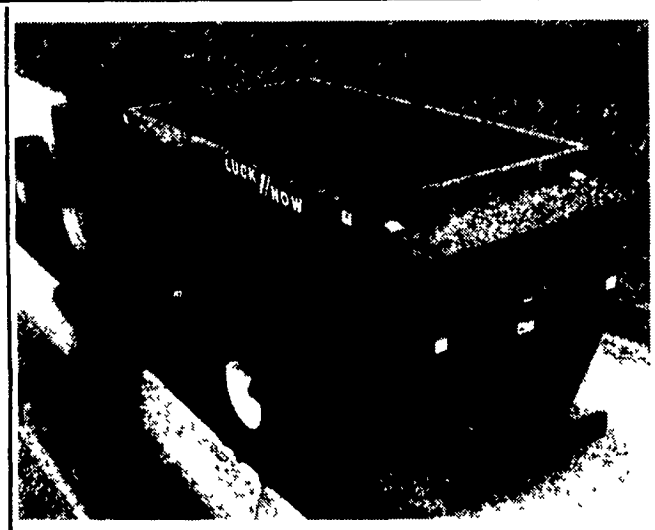
Telescoping pole, axle, and tires can make any length Full Size or Mid Size bunk portable. This makes it easier to select-feed smaller groups of cattle. Tires and specially designed legs make moving it easier, year-round. Heavy steel pan is formed in one piece on all bunks for strength and economy.



LUCK//NOW MIXER FEEDERS "P" SERIES

Since 1979 LUCK//NOW Mixer Feeders have been recognized as one of the most dependable and strongest built mixers in the field.

To enhance its existing line of Mixer Feeders LUCK//NOW introduces the "P" Series of Mixer Feeders with six models ranging in size from the Model 300 with a mixing capacity of 310 cubic ft., to the Model 900 with a mixing capacity of 900 cubic ft.

The large diameter augers in all the "P" Series Mixer feeders are capable of giving the mix required, from rations with well cured, long stemmed legume-type hay, to mixes with green grass, and mixes with silage and commodities. Better milk production, better weight gains and greatly improved animal health are just some of the results of a finely-tuned feed ration.

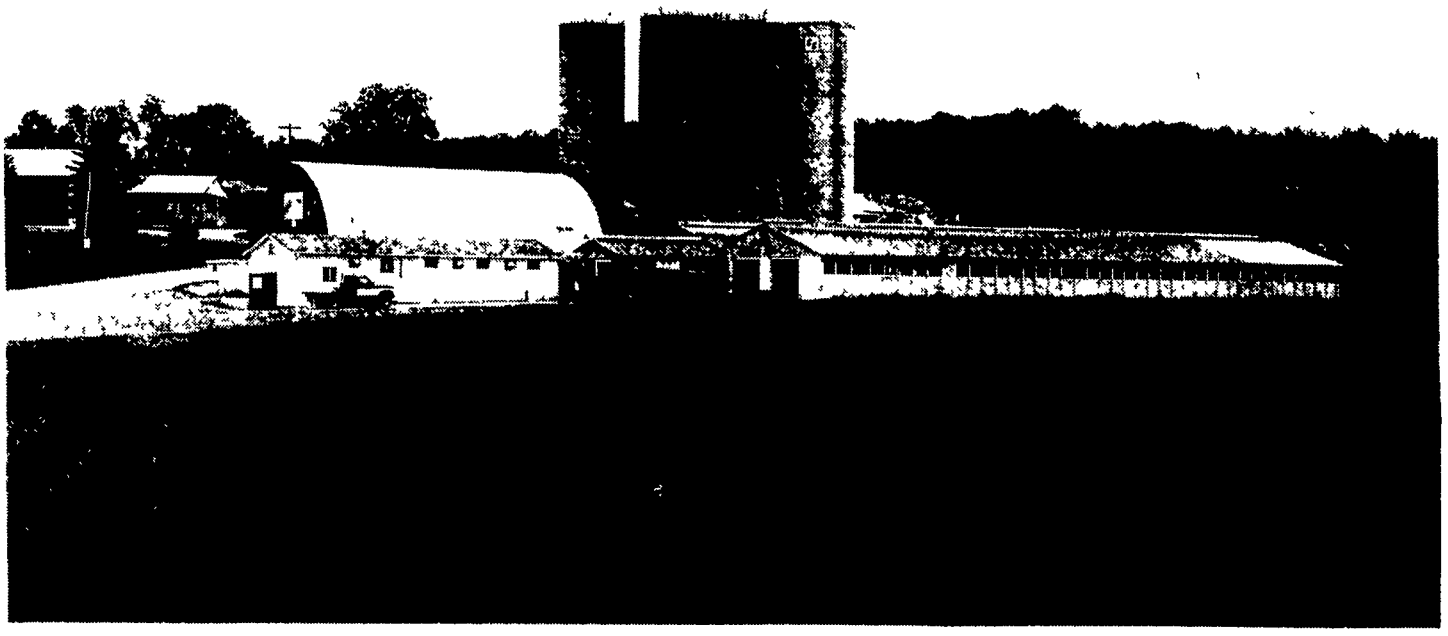
WESTMORELAND



Clark Farms, Greensburg

At Clark Farms located in Westmoreland County between Greensburg and Latrobe, they farm 600 acres. In the family for nearly 100 years, Robert and Barbara, and Roy and Linda have a partnership that milks 85 Holsteins in a double-6 milking parlor with free-stall housing. They have been milking cows for 21 years. Corn, alfalfa, and oats are the main crops raised to feed the cows and additional young stock. Farming is a full time job with special emphasis placed managing capital and paying close attention to the cows.

Dairy of Distinction

WYOMING

Zdaniewicz Farm, Falls

For Ben and Colleen Zdaniewicz Jr. and family, farming is the thing to do. They like the cows and they like what they do. Ben says it gets depressive sometimes but they like the cows and farming is the thing to do. The Zdaniewiczs have been farming since 1979 and they farm 350 acres to feed their herd of Holsteins that are housed in a tie-stall barn. They have four children, Nichole 17, Theresa 14, Cortney 13, and Johnny 11. The farm is located south of Mill City in Wyoming County.

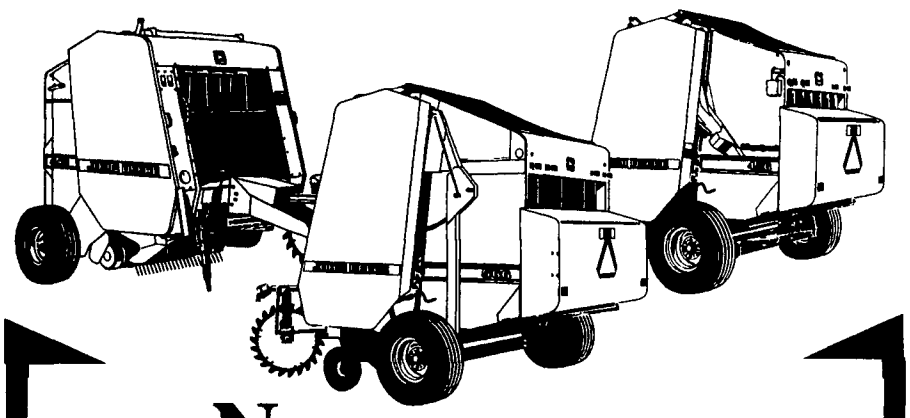
GOOD DEALS...AND A GOOD DEAL MORE



New reasons to own North America's most popular balers

- Over the last decade, farmers have chosen John Deere balers more often than any other make. Now, there are seven new models that make 750- to 2,200-pound bales. One model is designed specifically for silage.
- New Monitor options let you control nearly all baling functions from the tractor cab.
- New pickup options pack even more hay into the variable-belt chamber.
- Exclusive 7-inch-wide diamond-tread belts reduce chafing and improve bale formation.
- New tying systems (including twin electric twine arms) reduce tying time.
- New lockback PTO collar rotates as much as 60 degrees for easier hookup.
- See why more and more farmers choose John Deere balers... visit your John Deere dealer's store today.

Congratulations PA Dairy of Distinction Farms Award Winners

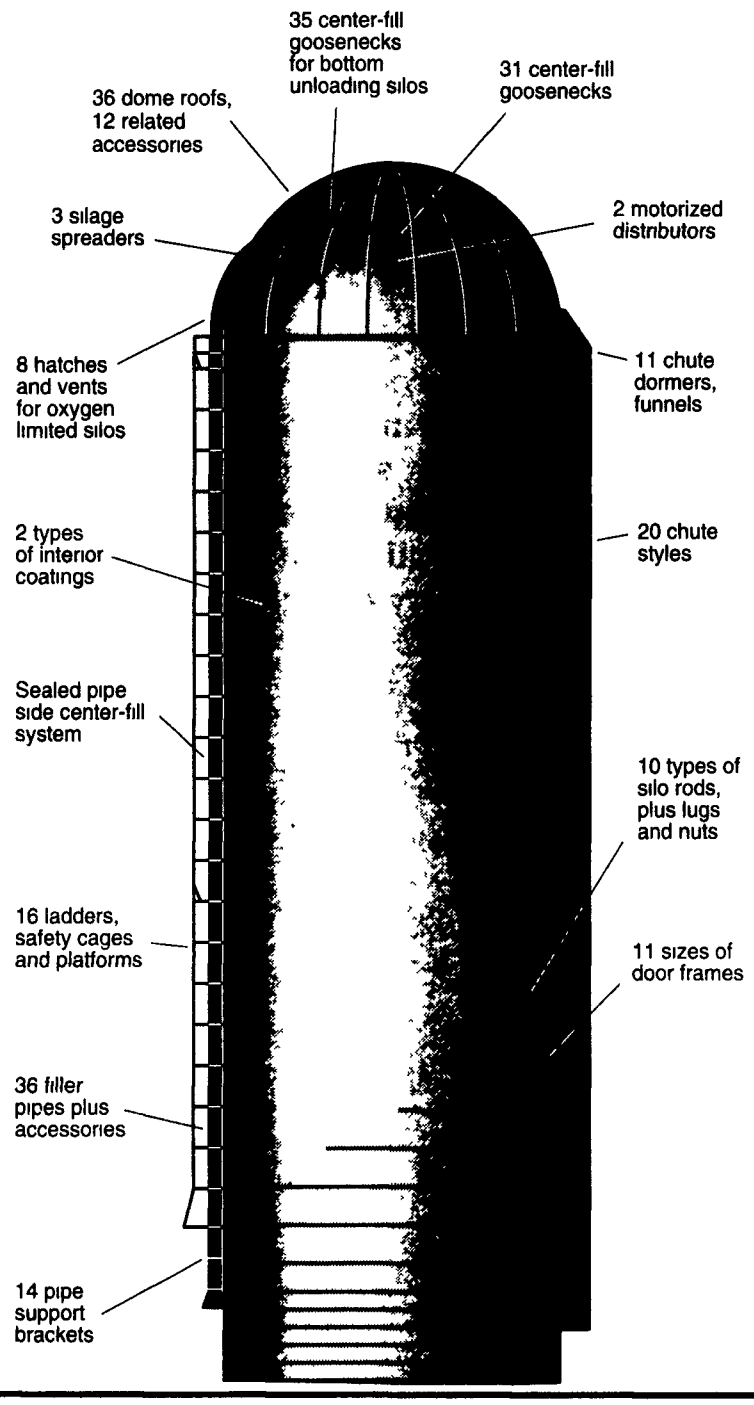
No other name gives you so many value-packed silo products for filling and construction.



35 center-fill goosenecks for bottom unloading silos
36 dome roofs, 12 related accessories
31 center-fill goosenecks
3 silage spreaders
2 motorized distributors
8 hatches and vents for oxygen limited silos
11 chute dormers, funnels
2 types of interior coatings
20 chute styles
Sealed pipe side center-fill system
10 types of silo rods, plus lugs and nuts
16 ladders, safety cages and platforms
11 sizes of door frames
36 filler pipes plus accessories
14 pipe support brackets

The steel products on your silos have to be tougher than nails if they're going to last. That's why more dairymen trust Lancaster silo equipment for lasting value from top to bottom.

Thirty years ago we invented the silage spreader as the best way to fill silos. But maybe you don't know just how many products we make. If your concrete or steel upright storage system needs parts and equipment, Lancaster makes it.

We use good ideas from practical farmers like you to constantly make our products work better and last longer. You see, with us the job is more than just bending metal. It's using the best materials and dedicated craftsmanship to give you more value for every equipment dollar.

For silo equipment, do yourself a favor. Insist on Lancaster for every item. For the Lancaster dealer nearest you, call today 1-800-635-8708.

National Dairy Shrine Recognizes Students

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The 1999 National Dairy Shrine Student Recognition winners are a fine group of young leaders in the dairy industry.

Arthur Marquez II of Chino, graduate of California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo, is the winner of top honors in the 1999 contest, which annually recognizes graduating seniors planning careers related to dairy production.

As top winner, Marquez will receive a $1,500 cash award, at the National Dairy Shrine awards banquet on Sept. 30 in Madison, Wis.

Second through ninth place winners, who will also be honored at the banquet are: Christopher Connelly, Pennsylvania State University, second; Coleen Mowrey, Virginia Tech, third; Christopher Lahmers, The Ohio State University, fourth; Mark Ulness, University of Wisconsin - Madison, fifth; Zachary Janssen, University of Illinois - Urbana/Champaign, sixth; Jeremy Kass, Iowa State University, seventh; Cheryl Miller, University of Minnesota - St. Paul, eighth; and April Hall, University of Maryland, College Park, ninth.

Arthur Marquez II

A strong family tradition in dairying drives Arthur Marquez II to continue the family tradition and help make it grow. Although Marquez graduates this spring, he is already making great strides in planning to expand the family's dairy by planning with a new facility. Daily communication keeps Marquez in though with dairy while at college and allows him to continue his management of the herd.

Marquez's responsibilities with the family dairy began at the age of 10 when he received his first Holstein calf. Since that time, his own herd has grown to 100 females, bulls, and frozen embryos. His skill in mating and breeding cattle has developed five cows scoring Excellent; two of which were home bred.

While focusing on academics, he has acquired a 4 in his dairy science curriculum classes. Taking the product from the farm to the consumer is also one of his focuses. Marquez served on the Cal Poly Cheese Steering Committee where he helped develop professional presentations and marketing strategies for their product San Luis Lace. Marquez also is very active on campus with the Young Republicans Club, Young Farmer and Ranchers Club. Agricultural Business Management Club, and the Dairy Science Club.

Christopher Connelly

The lifetime goal of becoming a veterinarian is one step closer to reality for Christopher Connelly with his acceptance into the Virginia-Maryland Regional Veterinary College and the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine. Connelly's dairy background and college education will be great assets when working with farmers.

Raised on a dairy farm at Furnace, Pa., Connelly was able to learn about many aspects of the dairy industry. While at Penn State, he chaired the Nittany Lion Fall Classic consignment sale, served as Alpha Zeta president, and was on the Penn State Dairy Judging team. Connelly feels animal evaluation skills are very important in herd mating decisions. His acquired skills were rewarded by placing in the top ten at the 1996 Linear Evaluation Contest at the Pennsylvania All-American Judging Contest.

Coleen Mowrey

Upon graduation from Virginia Tech, Coleen Mowery will pursue a master's degree in dairy nutrition, followed by a career in agricultural journalism and to establish a custom dairy heifer rearing business. Her goal as a writer is to help producers by making technical information accessible.

During her college career, Mowrey was president of the Virginia Tech Dairy Club and chaired the Little All-American Banquet. Her activities also included the dairy judging team, Virginia Tech Lutheran Student Movement and the Honors Program.

Christopher Lahmers

A record setting judging career at Ohio State proves Christopher Lahmers knows good cattle. Raised on a registered Holstein and Brown Swiss herd in Stone Creek, Ohio, Lahmers excelled in working with cattle. At a young age, he began showing and fitting cattle and with practice, has perfected his clipping skills and has fit many sales and show strings.

Lahmers is an active Buckeye Dairy Club member and served as the Buckeye Classic Sale co-chairman. He is also active with FFA, Junior Brown Swiss Association, and Junior Holstein Association. Lahmers plans to take his education and apply it to the dairy industry with an A.I. organization.

Mark Ulness

A December graduate of the University of Wisconsin - Madison, Ulness is currently managing his family's 76-cow registered Holstein farm in Valder, Wis. With plans for major improvements on the dairy, Ulness plans for a big future in the dairy industry.

At college he was very active with the Badger Dairy Club, serving as co-chairman for judging contests and assisting with their annual sale. He was also active with Alpha Gamma Rho Fraternity and the UW Marching Band.

Zachary Janssen

Dairy cattle judging has been a big part of Zachary Janssen's dairy career. While on the Illinois 4-H Dairy Judging Team, he received All-American honors and went on to develop his skills more in college.

Janssen's experiences with his own herd of Holsteins and his internships with University of Illinois Dairy Research, Animal Sciences Laboratory and Sunshine Genetics has led him to a career path in Veterinary Medicine. He was also very active with 4-H, Alpha Zeta, and the Pre-Vet Club.

Jeremy Kass

From Dubuque County, Iowa, Jeremy Kass learned many skills while being involved with youth dairy cattle judging and dairy quiz bowl teams. These events opened a world of opportunities for Kass and exposed him to the many opportunities in the dairy industry.

Through his experiences in youth activities, Kass now gives back by volunteering at the Iowa Junior Dairy Coalition. Following graduation from Iowa State University with a major in Dairy Science and a minor in Agronomy/Economics, Kass plans to work for a dairy nutrition company.

Cheryl Miller

The opportunity to work with dairy producers to improve their operations is what Cheryl Miller plans to do following her graduation from the University of Minnesota - St. Paul. Miller was raised on a dairy in southeast Minnesota with Holsteins and Red and White Holsteins. At college she was a leader in the Gopher Dairy Club, Lambda Delta Phi Sorority, Collegiate Agri-Women, and the American Dairy Science Association - Student Affiliate Division.

April Hall

An animal science graduate from the University of Maryland, College Park, April Hall is ready to make an impact on the dairy industry. She has been very active in both 4-H and FFA youth activities and would like to continue with these organizations as a volunteer. Her numerous leadership experiences include Ag & Natural Resources Student Council, Farm Bureau County Queen, and UM College of Ag & Natural Resources Student Ambassador.

Dairy Shrine Honors Three Industry Pioneers

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Three dairy industry pioneers have been selected to receive Pioneer Awards from National Dairy Shrine, the "Hall of Fame" of the dairy industry. The three men are: Dr. John Almquist, State College, Pa., who will be the third person to be honored as a "Living" Pioneer; Dr. Elmer Woelffer, Oconomowoc, Wis. and Dr. Kenneth Turk, Ithaca, N.Y.

All will be honored at the 50th Anniversary banquet of National Dairy Shrine on Sept. 30 in Madison, Wis., in conjunction with World Dairy Expo. Thereafter, their portraits will be displayed at the National Dairy Shrine Visitors' Center and Museum at Fort Atkinson, Wis., along with the 244 previous "Pioneer" honorees.

Dr. John Almquist

Dr. John Almquist is well known internationally for his work in artificial insemination (AI) and reproductive physiology of cattle. He has authored more than 165 research papers in scientific and professional journals and proceedings, with much of his early work dealing with methods of semen preservation and means of extending the usefulness of genetically superior sires through AI.

Dr. Almquist was the first person to demonstrate the value of adding penicillin and streptomycin to diluted bull semen to control bacterial growth and increase fertility. As a result, antibiotics are used universally by the AI industry and a substantial increase in breeding efficiency has been realized all over the world.

He also pioneered the use of milk-base extenders to prolong the fertile life of bull spermatozoa. Later, he added glycerol to milk to develop an improved liquid dilutent which permitted semen to retain high fertility over a long period.

On another aspect, his research showed behavioral preparation of bulls signficantly increased the number of sperm that can be harvested for use in artificial insemination.

Almquist received his bachelor's degree from Cornell, his master's from Purdue and his doctorate from Penn State. He taught at Penn State from 1944 until 1982 and was an outstanding teacher and researcher. He received the Wolf Foundation Prize for Agriculture in 1981, the highest scientific honor for agriculture in the world. His many other honors include the NAAB research award and the Distinguished Alumnus Award from Penn State in 1997.

Dr. Almquist and his wife, Norma, a retired teacher of home economics, have three children, two daughters and a son.

Dr.Kenneth Turk-(1908-1990)

Dr. Kenneth Turk, Ithaca, N.Y., had a remarkable career as professor of dairy husbandry and then head of the department at the University of Maryland, followed by 18 years as head of the Animal Husbandry Department at Cornell University. During that time, he continued to teach an outstanding course in dairy cattle. He then became the first director of international agriculture in any college in the United States. He retired in 1974.

In addition to his service as an administrator during 34 years of his 40-year career, Dr. Turk authored or co-authored 70 scientific or scholarly articles and research bulletins in the field of animal science. He also published more than 300 semi-technical or popular articles on a variety of livestock subjects.

Perhaps Dr. Turk's outstanding single achievement was the University of the Philippines-Cornell Graduate Education Program, sponsored by the Ford Foundation. Dr. Turk ably assisted in many areas by Mrs. Turk (Bernice), joined with the faculty and administration of the College of Agriculture, University of the Philippines and the faculty and students from Cornell, to develop a modern graduate education program in a modern university setting. This great College of Agriculture, University of the Philippines provides educational leadership in Southeast Asia as well as in the Philippines.

Dr. Turk developed the graduate assistant concept, which has been accepted by others as standard educational procedure. Interested graduate students have an opportunity for thesis research under supervision in an international program.

He also developed the organization of the Directors of International Agricultural Programs in U.S. land grand universities, a concept that has resulted in a viable organization that, among other duties, advises the deans of the colleges of agriculture and serves in a similar capacity to national organizatins, including the Department of State.

One of the nominators of Dr. Turk wrote, "Few people in the world have had greater influence on the dairy industry than Dr. Turk. He was highly respected by the agricultural and government leaders of New York and the nation."

Dr. Elmer Woelffer-(1897-1995)

Dr. Elmer Woelffer's contributions to the dairy industry were not only as a dairy cattle veterinarian but also as a herdsman and showman of great cattle. Born in Wisconsin, he received his bachelor's from the University of Wisconsin and his Ph.D. from Cornell.

He worked as a herdsman, showman and in sales for many elite Holstein, Guernsey, and Jersey herds from 1922 to 1927. After graduating from vet school, he became manager and veterinarian for the company-owned farms of the largest milk company, H.P. Hood in New England for 16 years.

From Hood dairies, he went into teaching at the University of Illinois for two years, then became veterinarian and vice president of Pabst Farms in Oconomowoc, Wis., from 1950-1952. From then until his death, he conducted a consulting practice, specializing in bovine fertility. He was still practicing in 1995 at the age of 97!

Through 30 of those years, Dr. Woelffer became well known as the veterinary editor for Hoard's Dairyman, contributing hundreds of articles educating dairy farmers and veterinarians. He also spoke at many veterinary and dairy cattle meetings in the United States and in foreign countries.

During his career, Dr. Woelffer, received several distinguished service awards and the Amstutz-Williams Award from the Bovine Practitioners Association of America in 1994, the highest award given by this group of veterinariians. Only six persons have received this award. Woelffer was named the Industry Person of the Year by World Dairy Expo in 1983 and received the Klussendorf Award in 1993.

One nominator wrote: "Dr. Woelffer was an admired gentleman and veterinarian. He showed compassion for everyone he came in contact with . . . and this same quality was evident in his resourcefulness when working on livestock."

Dr. Woelffer and his wife, Marian, were married for 64 years. They had three daughters, Judith, Nancy and Linda.

JAMES P. SARGENT

Business Management
Bucks County

Jim and Sandy worked hard all of their lives. Jim was the owner of a small greenhouse located in Pennsylvania. Sandy kept the books for the business and helped during the busy times in the greenhouse. Except for occasional vacations, they conducted business together for 30 years until Sandy got hurt. At age 53, the injury left her with a 50 percent loss of use in her right leg. But, Sandy didn't qualify for disability or Medicare under Social Security. Since she had never received a paycheck for her work at the greenhouse, she did not have an employment history to qualify.

If only they had known. When given the chance, you'd always protect your spouse. But, you don't often think of writing a paycheck as protection. However, as this case illustrates, not paying a working spouse puts her at risk for losing important benefits.

If your spouse works in the business, make her an employee and pay her Doing so can yield some tax benefits, but, more importantly, it will qualify her for disability and give her the ability to access Medicare coverage prior to age 65 if necessary.

As any business owner realizes a certain amount of paperwork—employee forms, time sheets, tax forms— that go along with hiring employees have to be filled out and filed with the appropriate agencies. You also have to look beyond that immediate paper chores to the long-term benefits. The same goes with "needing" a paycheck. Oftentimes, the husband takes a family living draw from the business and the spouse also uses that money. Failure to look beyond the present can leave a business owners shaking their heads in disbelief when an accident occurs and a spouse needs to access disability and Medicare benefits.

Paying your spouse also opens the door to a few tax benefits. For starters, you can deduct any wages paid to an employee—even when its your spouse—on your taxes. Second, if you provide health insurance for employees, the cost of the program can be deductible for the business.

If the health insurance plan offered by your business covers family members, then your spouse, as an employee, can select insurance for the entire family and the business can deduct the cost. These types of deductions can make a difference in the amount of taxes due. You'll want to work with your accountant or business planner on the specifics.

While deducting the cost of your spouse's wages and health insurance provides some tax savings, it is really just icing on the cake. The big benefit comes from being able to tap into disability and Medicare health insurance if you need them before reaching age 65.

It doesn't take a lot of income or work history to qualify for these benefits either. A person only needs to earn 25 credits with 20 credits being earned within the last 10 years to qualify for disability and Medicare coverage. Each credit equals one quarter—three months of work—with earnings of at least $740. As long as the spouse receives at least $2,960 or more in wages for the year, they will receive four credits—the maximum that can be earned in one year.

To earn Social Security retirement benefits, you need 40 credits. However, since a spouse who has been married for at least 10 years received 50 percent of her husband's retirement benefits upon his death, the retirement benefits are not the primary reason for paying a spouse. Even though Social Security retirement benefits are tied to earnings, those benefits do not grow comparatively with earnings. So, paying your wife $5,000 per year to qualify her for her own benefits will not make much of a difference in the total amount of the retirement benefit the husband receives.

For example, say your spouse started working at age 18. She worked full-time during the next four years at a local restaurant. She then worked five years at your greenhouse and then you were married. She quit working at age 27 to start a family. By age 27, she had already worked enough quarters to qualify for disability insurance and Medicare health insurance benefits whenever she might need them. Now, if she continues to work for the business and earns $740 every three months, she will always have disability and Medicare benefits. Remember, 20 of the total 25 credits needed to qualify for disability and Medicare benefits must be earned within the last 10 years before you apply for the benefits. That means that you have to keep working to stay qualified.

When a working spouse has an employment history and an accident happens that leaves them disabled, disability and Medicare coverage kick in without regard to age. However, if the same accident occurred, and the spouse who worked in the business never received a paycheck, they could not receive any disability or Medicare benefits early.

The full cost of hospitalization and rehabilitation would fall to the family. Because of the high cost of health insurance small business families tend to select policies with big deductibles or which contain caps that limit their total benefits because these policies come with a cheaper premium. Depending on the type of coverage selected, insurance can cost $2,500 to $7,000 per year for the uncovered spouse. Remember, the older you get and the more health problems you have, the more insurance companies charge for coverage.

Remember, failure to pay a spouse who works in the business can leave them without Medicare, disability coverage, and retirement benefits from Social Security. The "extra" taxes that most business owners complain about paying after putting their spouse on the payroll is the least expensive way to insure your family's future.

Agricultural, Preservation Board Approves Farmland Purchase

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On behalf of Gov. Tom Ridge, Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. announced Wednesday, July 21 that the Agricultural Land Preservation Board has approved easement purchases for 23 additional farms across the commonwealth, totaling more than $6.7 million.

"Gov. Ridge is committed to preserving the farmlands of our hardworking farm families," Hayes said. "The addition of these farms further demonstrates Pennsylvania's commitment to agriculture, our No. 1 industry."

Created in 1989, the Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board oversees the state Farmland Preservation Program. The program allows the state and counties to purchase development rights, referred to as easements, to guarantee that farms will remain as agricultural land.

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

WARNING! DETERIORATING CONCRETE FROM CORN JUICE!

RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable tough, acid resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical

Before The silo's interior with plaster damaged and stave exposed

After The surface is reconditioned and a new thick tough surface will protect stored feed

REPAIRS HOLES.
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original

Before The bottom part of the stave's are completely worn away

"HI-MOISTURE SHELLED CORN"

You know the advantages of hi-moisture shelled corn versus dry corn for animal feeding. So now consider the MANY ADVANTAGES of POURED CONCRETE to store and protect your valuable grain.

Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel."

"Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-lab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement."

"PROTECT YOUR CORN FROM THE HEAT."

Rural Economy

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

Attention
Dairy, Swine & Poultry Producers!
New Products Now Available...

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer these products to meet your nutritional needs. Manufacturing these products ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

GOLDEN PRO 46 XP
This natural, mechanically extruded and expelled soybean product is experiencing great acceptance with local dairymen. A course golden colored meal with a 6% fat content, Golden Pro 46 XP is extremely palatable. Golden Pro 46 XP is a natural way to bring the value of high by-pass protein into diets that require a lower fat level.

GOLDEN MEAL 40
An 18 percent fat content along with a 40 percent crude protein makes this mechanically extruded meal product a valuable component in a variety of rations. Full fat content gives you a high level of digestible energy, while high temperature extruding ruptures the oil cells for better nutritional absorbtions.

CRUDE SOYBEAN OIL
A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications. A natural alternative to animal fats, this oil provides needed energy in various rations.

To make these products available, and to help you utilize your home raised soybeans Keystone Mills announces its

Soybean Exchange Program

As manufacturers and distributers of Golden Pro 46 XP and Golden Meal 40, we are anxious for you to try our products. We are offering a soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.

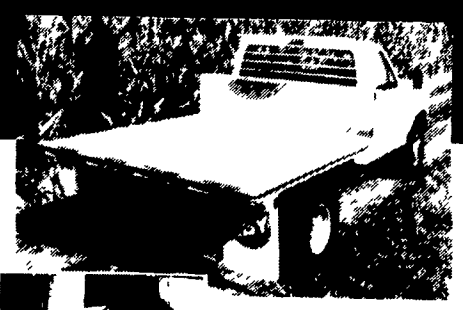
IN ALUMINUM BODIES
EBY BUILDS IT



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market Nobody offers more sizes and options in

- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24', landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'
- LANDSCAPE BODIES - Lengths to 12', We'll build to your specs!

Let EBY custom build one for you.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer customer options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business - building bodies to haul it is ours.

"I HEARD THAT"

Wasn't it you that said you want a beautiful farm that is self supporting and even pays you quite handsomely besides for your labor to operate it??? - That is tough to find in today's market.

Let's see - you wanted a large brick farm house (updated) and maybe a large modern addition w/a garage attached Here we even add an oversized 3 car detached garage that looks like it was designed for entertaining guests – it even has it's own kitchen There is a large grassy area with a large farm pond - oh my!! What else?

Well how about three large turkey barns which are presently in operation and with all the good modern equipment in them But, you see the owners are ready to retire and would like someone like you to take over. Sound too good to be true? Ck. it out

Oh yes, there is also another dwelling if you would prefer to put in another operator/ hired hand. This truly is a dream property with the driveways nicely paved and buildings in real good shape This is all on about 34 acres which is nicely secluded but near to every kind of service you might desire.

MORE ON MEDULLARY BONE AND STORAGE OF CALCIUM FOR EGGSHELLS

CAROL V. GAY, PH.D.
Professor of Cell Biology And Poultry Science

Earlier this month Roland Leach discussed the idea of enhancing the amount of medullary bone in the laying hen in order to improve eggshell quality. We are in the process of designing studies to that end. In this week's column I'll focus on how understanding medullary bone composition will provide insight into understanding the capacity of this unique tissues to store large amounts of calcium for eggshell formation.

Because eggshell quality (strength) is an important factor in the egg production industry, understanding body storage sites of calcium has practical and immediate value. And so evaluating the structure and composition of medullary bone at the level of its constituent molecules is of interest to both basic and applied poultry scientists.

Approximately 10 percent of bone in laying hens is medullary bone. The role of medullary bone is to supply calcium for eggshell formation during the night when dietary calcium is not available – this amounts to 35-40 percent of the eggshell. Medullary bone is distinct from the rest of the skeleton in several ways: 1) it provides little or no structural support, but occupies a portion of the marrow cavity of long bones and several other bones, 2) it looks quite different in the microscope – staining a pink color instead of blue, and 3) most interestingly, it contains more calcium salts than other bones.

Let's focus on the latter point. Somehow there is more space in medullary bone that can be occupied by calcium salts than other bones have. The pink staining of the matrix provides one clue. This pink material is mainly a complex carbohydrate that contains many negative (minus) charges. These charges repel each other so that the complex carbohydrate looks something like a bottlebrush – a structure that has actually been seen in the electron microscope. Using the bottlebrush analogy to picture in our minds what the complex carbohydrate looks like, it becomes clear how space in medullary bone can be created to allow many positively charged calcium ions (Ca^{++}) to occupy the spaces within the large brush-like carbohydrate molecules in medullary bone.

To further understand the elements in this area that would lead to a practical outcome, more research is needed. For example, it would be helpful to know if chickens that produce the strongest eggshells have more negatively charged complex carbohydrates in their medullary bone. We also need to know if bone-resorbing cells have a greater affinity for the carbohydrate rich medullary bone and if calcium is more easily released from medullary bone than from other bones.

Ram Lamb, Ewe Sale Aug. 7

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center is making final arrangements for Pennsylvania's 21st Performance tested Ram Lamb and Invitational Ewe sale, scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 7, here at the Penn State Ag Arena.

The rams finished their 84-day testing period on July 6. Glenn Eberly, director of the center, reported this group of rams has shown outstanding performance.

The group being offered for sale consists of 14 spring-born Dorsets, 20 fall-born Dorsets, 13 Suffolks, 11 Hampshires, two Shropshires, one Tunis, and one Oxford. The average daily gains on test this year were very good. The spring-born Dorsets averaged .94 pounds per day through the 84-day testing period, with a Hollystone Farm bred lamb posting the top gain within this breed groups of 1.21 pounds per day. The 26 fall-born Dorsets, on test, averaged .76 pounds per day. The September-born ram consigned by Visions Stock Farm set the standard with a gain of .89 pounds per day. The center was group of 13 extremely thick, functional Suffolks offered. The fastest gain overall breeds was recorded by a Hampshire. This January-born twin consigned by Henry Showalter gained an impressive 1.32 pounds per day and scanned with a 5.36 loin-eye, the largest loin-eye measured this year. The very impressive Oxford ram consigned by Jeffrey Everett gained .81 pounds per day on test. The Tunis ram consigned by Louis Hindle gained 1.05 pounds per day on test. The top Shropshire ram gained .96 pounds per day on test. The rams were slick-shorn, scanned ultrasonically, and given a breeding soundness exam with the results available for the sale. An index was calculated to rank the rams within their breed groups. A sale committee of sheep producers and members of the sheep technical committee met to evaluate the rams for soundness and breed character. Those not meeting minimum requirements, as well as the lower indexing rams, were eliminated from the sale.

This group of rams has been under constant scrutiny under confinement conditions for approximately four months They are under routine veterinary care and will have health papers available the day of the sale. The center already has a nice consignment of ewes promised for the Invitational Ewes sale from these performance-minded flocks.

The Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Annual Field Day is scheduled in conjunction with the ram and ewe sale. There will be some very educational programs as well as a very popular Sheep Skillathon (all-around knowledge competition for youth and adults).

For more information about the sale or to request a catalog, contact Glenn Eberly, Director of the Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College, PA 16803, (814) 238-2527 or phone/message and fax (814) 865-5857.

Field Night Aug. 13

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Holstein Field Night will be Friday, Aug. 13 with hosts Larry and Lorraine Shuey.

The farm is located on Reeds Creek Road just off of routes 22 and 934. The meal (pig roast) will be served from 6:30 p.m. - 8:30 p.m.

During the meal everyone is invited to judge three classes of cows. After judging, Robert Smith of My Ladys Manor will be speaking about how they developed their brood cow family.
